Reds Retreat Toward Volga; Lose Two Towns

TWO GERMAN COLUMNS HEAD FOR STALINGRAD

Russians Push Back Foe at Voronezh.

MOSCOW, July 16 [Thursday]—(AP).—Two German columns driving in separate sectors toward the steel city of Stalingrad have forced Russian troops to evacuate the towns of Boguchar, on the Don river, and Millerovo, on the Moscow-Rostov railway supply line, the Russian high command announced early today. Millerovo is only 175 miles from Stalingrad, which is located on the Volga river.

On the northern limits of the battlefront, soviet troops fought off a renewed series of German attacks against Voronezh, important city on the Moscow-Rostov railway, the midnight communique said. There were no material changes in other sectors of the long fighting line.

Several German reserve divisions have been rushed eastward from France and Belgium, the communique said, to fill the gaps in the Russian front caused by tremendous Nazi casualties.

"Positions Change Hands."

Fighting in the Voronezh area is "developing with increased ferocity," the Russians said. "A number of fortified positions have changed hands several times."

Soviet troops, counterattacking after German thrusts in several sectors, have forced Nazi tank and infantry units to withdraw with heavy losses.

At Voronezh, where the Germans made their first great plunge southeastward nearly two weeks ago, 11th hour counterattacks on the south side of the city pushed the Germans back to the point where they crossed the Don. On the north approaches the Russians stopped the upper arm of an encircling movement, then threw the attackers into retreat.

The Germans had attempted the encirclement after their breakthru west of the city, accomplished by large numbers of fresh troops and hundreds of tanks followed by automatic riflemen, had run into stubborn Red army resistance at the town's edge.

Nazi Division Replaced.

One important position west of Voronezh, together with a forest, was reported recaptured in the Russian counterattacks. Russian dispatches said also that the 3d German motorized infantry division, which appeared on the battlefield only Tuesday, had been forced to withdraw and was replaced by the new 168th motorized division.

A small railway crossing also was retaken and in another sector the Russians applied such pressure that the Germans retired, blowing up a bridge.

Northwest of Voronezh a number of German tanks were reported destroyed on the west bank of the Don by strong Russian armored forces.

Nazis Claim Advance.

BERLIN, July 15 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command's communique today said that German and Nazi allied troops were advancing rapidly along the whole offensive front.

Capture of 118,689 Russian prisoners in the battle of Voronezh since July 1 also was claimed.

Britain Builds a Warship Every 2 Days, Paper Says

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 16 [Thursday]. —Since the outbreak of the war Britain has turned out one warship every two days, this morning's Daily Express asserted. This figure is based, it was said, on a survey which showed that at least 485 ships not in the fighting line in September, 1939, were now in active service. The survey added: "It is clear that the shipyards must have delivered more than 500 ships in about 30 months."

American Heroes Day Color Feature Page

How to Throw the Axis with a Twist of Wrist!

Announcement of an exhibition by United States marine "commandos" at the Chicago Music Festival will be made in next Sunday's Tribune.

New York, July 15 (AP).—Those polite lads from Hell's Kitchen and Port Said may now push over, for their gouging, knee raising, and knife wielding is strictly marquis of Queensberry.

The new champion of "get him before he gets you" displayed his wares here. And even top sergeants winced!

He is Maj. W. E. Fairbairn, trainer of the British commandos, on loan to the United States to show the American soldier, sailor, and marine how to treat the axis.

He's Mild; Only Some Ways.

Maj. Fairbairn, mild looking and mild talking British veteran of 57 years, explained his method to an audience made up of every branch of the service as he tossed big strapping exponents of judo [jiu-jitsu] about the Hotel Astor's College room.

Before he got thru the postprandial exercises the room looked like a picnic of the Donneybrook Chowder and Marching society. Usually correct majors from the air force were practicing on lieutenant commanders from the navy, ensigns were tossing chief petty officers about [and vice versa], and civilians who have been found wanting physically by the army were using uniformed men as aerial torpedoes.

What is Maj. Fairbairn's method? It's a college degree jiu-jitsu. It's magna cum laude Hell's Kitchen; postgraduate Port Said, mixed with war sense.

You Can't Be Squeamish.

Fairbairn has made a study of every method of close combat. He was the first foreigner ever admitted to the Kodokan jiu-jitsu university in Tokio, where he was awarded the black belt, first and second degree. He commanded the Shanghai police and drove terrorists from the city. Now he is teaching his method to the united nations troops.

"There will be those of you who will be shocked by my methods," Maj. Fairbairn explained. "To you I say, in war you cannot afford the luxury of squeamishness. Either you kill or capture or you will be killed or captured."

He disarmed pistol toting opponents, easily broke strangle holds, took a sharp poniard from an adversary who had a choking grip on his throat, and explained how, with your opponent grounded, you can quietly break every bone in his body.

ROOSEVELT TO SEEK WAGE CURB; REPORT RAISES IN STEEL PAY

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—An influential member of congress said tonight that President Roosevelt soon would request more stringent price control legislation, including some form of wage stabilization. The new proposals are to be transmitted to congress within a week or two, said the congressman.

Members of the house reported they had been told unofficially not to count too much on plans originally laid for a recess of perhaps 30 days starting next week.

This disclosure came as the senate granted some concessions to Price Administator Leon Henderson, but put off until tomorrow a final vote on a $1,857,151,710 appropriation bill for his and 17 other war agencies.

Report '4 Cent Wage Boost.

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—An authoritative source said tonight that the War Labor board had awarded a wage increase of 44 cents a day in the "Little Steel case" instead of the $1 asked by the CIO United Steelworkers. The decision was regarded generally as a keystone in the wartime industrial wage structure.

The employer members joined with the public members in the 8 to 4 vote, it was said.

The board also awarded union security in the form of a maintenance of membership clause and company check-off of union dues.

The case directly affects about 157,000 employés of Bethlehem, Republic and Inland Steel, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube companies.

At Least 4 Killed as RAF Plane Crashes in Canada

MONTREAL, Que., July 15 (AP).—Four or five members of the crew of a royal air force ferry command crew were killed today when their plane crashed and burned between Ste. Genieve and Cartierville, near Montreal.

Cincinnati, O., July 15 [Special].—Five persons were killed and at least 11 others injured by a gasoline explosion at 11:35 p. m. which demolished the three story garage of the Hodge Drive-It-Yourself system at 5th and Sycamore streets in downtown Cincinnati.

The blast broke windows in buildings within a radius of five blocks, including large show windows on Fountain square, heart of the shopping section. The explosion was heard for miles.

A Spurt of Flame.

Residents of Covington and Newport, on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river, described the building as erupting in a geyser of stone and metal.

One man, Albert Guckien of Bellevue, Ky., said the top of the building went straight into the air. A column of flame spurted up and after the building fell back a shower of débris ascended almost as high.

Those killed were Detective Sergt. Carl Hille, 30 years old, who had been summoned to the garage by a telephone call asking help; Albert Bass, 34, a customer of the garage; an unidentified Negro attendant at the garage, and two unidentified men at work in the basement of the garage.

Blamed on Power Switch.

Kenneth Bahlhuff, 24, a customer of the garage, who was critically injured in the explosion, regained consciousness at a hospital and told Marshal Lewis Schraffenberger of the fire prevention bureau that the pulling of a power switch by the Negro attendant set off sparks which ignited gasoline spouting from a broken gasoline pump.

The Negro attendant snapped off the gasoline pump in backing up with a car returned to the garage by Bass, Bahlhuff said. With gasoline pouring from the broken gas lines the garage crew called the police for aid. The power switch was pulled in an effort to lessen the danger of explosion.

Hille was walking into the front door of the garage when the explosion occurred. His body was blown 200 feet and his clothes stripped off. Witnesses said the blast blew automobiles out of the second and third story windows of the building. An adjacent garage was partially destroyed.

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—The house naval committee was informed today that three self-styled "sales engineers" stood to garner commissions on millions of dollars of government war work in a plant which the government itself built.

Before the committee were the three partners of the company—A. P. Shirley, a one time army major who said his income in 1929 was between $7,500 and $10,000, and F. B. Olcott and F. C. Nichols, both former civilian employés of the navy, the former at $4,600 a year and the latter at $4,000.

The disclosure, drawing expressions of amazement and concern from committee members, came from J. B. Decker, vice president and general manager of the Triumph Explosive company of Elkton, Md., where the government spent $4,000,000 to supplement the company's facilities with factories of its own.

Agents Get 1 Per Cent.

Decker testified that Triumph, which operated the government plant as well as its own, had a contract with the Washington sales engineering company of Shirley, Olcott & Nichols entitling the latter to 1 per cent of the amount of navy work secured for the government owned plant.

He said that Triumph now held war contracts for work to be performed in the government factories amounting to approximately $24,000,000 and that, "on the book value" of its contract with Shirley, Olcott & Nichols, the Washington firm would receive about $256,000 in commissions.

He reported that the Washington company received 2½ per cent commission on contracts awarded for performance in the plants which Triumph itself owns and estimated that business amounted to approximately $14,000,000.

The three men testified they had split up the firm's net profits for the first six months of this year, each of them receiving $208,211.94. They divided the profits at the end of last year, then getting $106,196 each, they said.

$142,000 Kick Back.

Under examination Olcott acknowledged that part of commission obtained for securing war contracts for the Triumph Explosive company of Elkton, Md., had been refunded to Decker without the knowledge until recently of Triumph's board of directors.

Olcott said that refunds to Decker had amounted to $65,000 in 1941 and about $77,000 in 1942, but added that Decker had sent back $70,000 of the 1942 payments.

Pressed for an explanation of the payments to Decker, Shirley said that he had made the payments to the Triumph official voluntarily because they had worked long hours together to obtain the business and that he

N. Y. MARTIAL SET BEATS A PATH TO STORK CLUB GHQ

(Marcia Winn, Tribune reporter who recently made a survey of the war effort in the small towns and hamlets of the central west from Kentucky to Iowa, is now making a study of New York's attitude toward the war. The second of her series of four articles follows.)

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 15.—It is amazing how the big, brave warriors of New York manage to find their way to a gaudy little night club on East 53d street called the Stork club.

The Stork club now is enjoying its best summer of all time. It is headquarters for New York's conduct of the war. Not only is it the nocturnal focal point for local playboys, one of whom recently outraged his draft board by writing that his hobby was "staying in 3-A," but it is the rendezvous for what have been described as the better uniforms.

Henderson and Hopkins.

Civilians important in the conduct of the war also congregate there. Leon Henderson checked his bag at the Stork club on a recent trip to New York. Harry Hopkins lopes in and out. The Roosevelt sons — Franklin, Elliott, and James, all officers in the United States armed forces—often are around. In fact, the bulk of that curious New York manifestation known as café society, those who wish [1] to see and [2] to be seen, wander in some time during the night to pass thru a white velvet rope beneath the malignant eyes of two doormen into a crowded interior where the ceiling is covered with imitation blue and white satin, where the bill is torn up if the sufficiently important guest will pose for a picture and where a saturnine gentleman with a fox face and an arrogant demeanor sits always at a corner table, rattling so many skeletons that one would think he had none of his own.

This gentleman is Walter Winchell. He describes himself upon occasion as America's No. 1 patriot, altho others have described him as America's No. 1 character assassin. One school of thought contends he has a financial interest in the Stork club, which offers two tasty dishes, hamburger à la Walter Winchell [$1.85] and tomato surprise a la Winchell [$1.60] in tribute. Naturally he denies this, and in the light of the little known fact that the club is a "front" for the Costello boys, upper New York state racketeers and political gangsters, he may possibly be telling the truth.

Speakeasydom Background.

Sherman Billingsley, proprietor of the club, seems to be the chief stooge of Walter Winchell, America's No. 1 patriot. Mr. Billingsley is a gentleman with the rosy cheeks of an English country squire, the false humility of a Uriah Heap, and a long background of speakeasydom. Together Billingsley and Winchell pass upon the patriotism of those who enter the premises and ban those so fortunate as to incur Mr. Winchell's dislike.

Right now the Stork club is making a great sacrifice. It is welcoming all officers and omitting a cover charge on their bills. Its menu carries a stamped placard, "Give to the USO" and "Buy Victory Bonds" and Mr. Billingsley speaks often of patriotism.

The place glitters with uniforms. In the words of a spokesman, the Stork club "is very sentimental about our armed forces."

"Naturally," said the spokesman, when reminded that very few privates or sailors are seen in it, "we have to have some control over it, or we wouldn't have any place for customers, but they are very gently treated, and," brightly, "we bristle with officers.

"We have a very nice melange of the top people in the arts, social life,

BEACH PATROL MET 4 COMING OUT OF WATER

Pretended to Accept Bribe, Gave Alarm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—The coast guard today lifted the veil of secrecy surrounding the details of the landing of four Nazi spies from a submarine on the beach at Amagansett, Long Island, and gave credit for the discovery to a 21 year old coast guardsman on a midnight patrol.

The story, from official coast guard records and released in a statement by the Office of War Information, tells how John C. Cullen, seaman second class, feared one of the Germans was going to hypnotize him, how they shortchanged him $40 in what they thought was to be a $300 bribe and how he gave the alarm that led to the eventual capture of the four who landed on Long Island and four others who came ashore in Florida.

Meanwhile, trial of the eight U-boat landed Nazis continued in the department of justice building. The military commission trying them for their lives announced late today that during the afternoon it heard "a very long statement which had been made by one of the accused to the FBI."

May Be Dasch Story.

The prisoner was not identified, but there has been speculation—intensified since the disclosure that Col. Carl L. Ristine had been appointed as his special defense counsel—that one of the eight, George John Dasch, had been helpful in the preparation of the government's case.

The reading of the statement required the entire afternoon and will continue tomorrow, said the announcement by Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, president of the commission.

The announcement said:

"The afternoon session was devoted to the reading into evidence of a very long statement which had been made by one of the accused to the FBI. The reading of this statement will be continued tomorrow."

Visibility Almost Zero.

On the night of the landing Cullen left his station at midnight for the six mile east patrol. The weather was thick; visibility poor. He had covered only 300 yards when he saw three men. One of them was in civilian clothes and the other two were in bathing suits. The man who was dressed was on the shore. The other two were in water up to their knees.

Cullen called out, "What's the trouble?"

Nobody answered. The man on shore started toward Cullen.

Cullen called again, "Who are you?"

There was no answer. The man kept advancing.

Posed as Fishermen.

Cullen reached to his hip pocket for a flashlight. The foremost man saw the motion, and, apparently thinking the coast guardsman was reaching for a gun, cried out, "Wait a minute. Are you the coast guard?"

Cullen answered "Yes. Who are you?" "A couple of fishermen from Southampton who have run aground."

"Come up to the station and wait for daybreak."

Cullen recalled later that the weather seemed to get worse and the fog closed in.

The spokesman snapped, "Wait a minute—you don't know what's going on. How old are you? Have you a father and mother? I wouldn't want to have to kill you."

A fourth man, in a bathing suit, came up thru the fog, dragging a bag. He started to speak in German.

Cullen spoke up. "What's in the bag? Clams?"

Cullen knew there were no clams for miles around.

Here's Some Money—$100.

Cullen's pretended gullibility appeared to influence him. In a friendly voice he said, "Why don't you forget the whole thing? Here is some money. One hundred dollars."

Cullen said, "I don't want it."

Cullen thought fast. He answered, "O. K."

The stranger gave him the money, saying, "Now look me in the eyes."

As Cullen explained to his superiors later, he said he was afraid he might be hypnotized. The stranger insisted. Cullen braced himself and looked directly at the man. Nothing happened, to Cullen's relief. As he looked at him the stranger kept repeating, "Would you recognize me if you saw me again?"

Alarm Is Telephoned.

Cullen started away and as soon as he was enveloped in the fog he raced to the coast guard station and told Carl Ross Jenette, B. M. 2C [boatswain's mate, second class], who was officer in charge, what had happened. Jenette telephoned the alarm to his superiors, reaching Warrant Officer Oden and Warren Barnes, C. B. M. [chief boatswain's mate], at the latter's home near by.

Meanwhile, Jenette had gathered three other men and armed them all and Cullen with 30 caliber rifles. They hurried to the spot on the beach but they could find no trace of the landing.

Jenette posted Cullen and two other men on guard, and, with the fourth, started to explore the dunes.

Hear Noise of Motor.

Within 15 minutes after he had received the alarm, Barnes was on the scene to take charge. As he arrived at the spot, he saw, thru a rift in the fog, a long, thin object, about 70 feet long, about 150 feet off shore. Cullen is reported to have heard the noise of powerful Diesel engines just off shore. Barnes, fearing a landing, distributed his men behind sand dunes with orders to resist invasion. But fog swallowed up the ship and the noise died away.

At this point, a seaman summoned Cullen back to the station, where he gave a more detailed report to Oden, who was in charge of the Amagansett station, and several others. As soon as he could, Cullen started back to the landing spot. On the way, he encountered Jenette's searching party. They saw a light on a distant dune, but when they got there they could find nothing in the dark.

Cullen and Barnes returned to the station where Cullen insisted on getting the bribe money out of his hands. Barnes made out a receipt for the money and it was at that time they discovered that it consisted of two $50 bills, five $20 bills, and six $10 bills—$260.

Engines Heard Again.

They returned to the search of the dunes. At this time they heard the chugging of engines again. As Barnes said, "it started with a roar and then became a steady Diesel throb. The boat went in an easterly direction."

Thruout the night the coast guard men searched. The first alarm had been relayed to army and navy stations and before dawn soldiers joined the search.

As dawn broke, Cullen and Barnes found some cigarets of German manufacture half buried in the sand. The cigarets were in silver paper in a cardboard pill box. About the same time Seaman Brooks discovered a furrow in the sand caused by a dragging object. The searchers followed it to a spot in the sand that seemed wetter than others, as freshly disturbed sand looks. Cullen said later that if they had arrived a few minutes later, the wet spot would have evaporated in the morning sun and they might never have found it. Some distance off, possibly arranged as a marker, a searcher discovered a pair of wet bathing trunks.

Coast guards poked a stick into the wet spot and felt something hard. They dug and in a few minutes came upon four cases, two heavy and two light. The heavy one weighed about 70 pounds. The cases were of wood and bound with marlin that made a handle. They ripped off some of the wood of one case and found an inner case of tin.

Digs Up German Clothing.

Barnes, meanwhile, had found another wet spot and had dug up some German clothing, including two German dungaree outfits, a reversible civilian overcoat, overshoes and an overseas cap with a swastika.

At the station, a seaman opened one of the tins with a can opener and found a large number of pen and pencil sets. A larger box was filled with loose powder and glass tubes—all of which they concluded were material for incendiary bombs.

The material was taken to the Barge Office in New York City. Three crates were opened in the office of Capt. Bayliss, but when they started to open the fourth, a hissing sound was heard.

"It was suggested," says a report in the Coast Guard files, "that they open it at the end of the pier."

FBI Takes Up Hunt.

Lieut. Comm. J. A. Glynn and Lieut. [j. g.] F. W. Nirschel and Lieut [j. g.] Sydney K. Franken opened the box there. They discovered the hissing sound had been caused by the contact of salt water with TNT.

FBI men under J. Edgar Hoover took up the chase from there and rounded up, not only the men who had been landed in the fog on Amagansett beach, but another group that had been landed on the Florida coast. Both groups are on trial before the military commission.

Seaman Cullen lives at Bayside, N. Y. He left Bayside High school in 1939 to work for Macy's delivery service and in December, 1940, enlisted in the coast guard.

Fighting for Control of Egypt

BOMB SMASHES FRENCH PRO-AXIS PARTY'S OFFICE

Place New Restrictions on Jews.

VICHY, France, July 15 (AP).—More demonstrations against pro-axis elements in the occupied zone were disclosed today as the Gestapo [Nazi secret police] and the Vichy government proclaimed new and tighter restrictions on Jews.

The Paris newspaper of Jacques Doriot's pro-axis French Popular party reported that the party's Biarritz headquarters was bombed on Monday night. The blast wrecked the front of the building and damaged furnishings in the interior.

Anti-Soviet Office Smashed.

The paper also said that on the same night the shop window of the anti-soviet "Tricolor" legion office at Gisors, about 40 miles northwest of Paris, was smashed.

[The German radio also broadcast a report that Doriot's headquarters at Boulogne-sur-Seine, a northwestern suburb of Paris, was bombed yesterday.]

A Vichy government decree put the management of all Jewish controled property, businesses, leases, and rights in the French colonies under the colonial office. The decree stated its object was "to eliminate all Jewish influence in colonial economy."

More Severe Than in Berlin.

The new Gestapo restrictions are more severe than the anti-Jewish regulations in Berlin. They were signed by the head of the Gestapo and Nazi storm troops in France instead of the commander of military occupation forces, as was the case in previous measures.

The order listed these places as forbidden to the Jews:

Restaurants and eating places of all sorts, cafés, tea rooms, and bars, theaters, motion picture houses, concerts, vaudeville theaters, and other amusement places, public telephone booths, markets and fairs, swimming pools and beaches, museums, libraries, public exhibitions, castles, museum palaces, all buildings of historic interest, sporting meets, either as participants or spectators, race tracks and betting offices, camping grounds, and parks.

CHINESE PROMISE MORE ATTACKS IF GIVEN AID IN AIR

CHUNGKING, China, July 15 (AP).—The Chinese today acknowledged the loss of Wenchow, seaport in southern Chekiang province, but a spokesman pledged that with increasing air support the Chinese army would intensify its counterattacks and immobilize more Japanese troops in China than ever before.

"We will not allow Japan to transfer a single soldier out of this country to other areas," the spokesman declared.

A communique confirmed the Japanese capture of Wenchow on Saturday midnight and Juian, 12 miles southwest, on Sunday, but the spokesman said this did not mean that Chinese forces had been trapped.

The Chinese communique said 3,000 Japanese who moved southward from Patuchen in eastern Kiangsi had suffered heavy losses and retreated.

NEWBERRY LIBRARY DISPLAYS STUDY OF WAR POSTER TRENDS

A study of modern trends of communications from the government to the people during wartime is on display at the Newberry library, 60 West Walton street. The exhibition, open daily from 9 a. m. to 9:45 p. m., consists of propaganda posters, pamphlets, and cartoons issued by the united nations and the conquered countries during the current war.

"The posters of this war are less beautiful but more forceful than those of the first World war," George B. Utley, veteran Newberry librarian, who will retire in September, observed. "The posters of the present emphasize the message. Almost without exception they tell the man in the street what he can do to help win the war. Posters of 25 years ago stressed destruction of objects, of civilizations, of traditions."

YANK BANDSMEN IN AUSTRALIA ASK FOR THE GROOVE

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, July 15.—Musicians of the soldier band formed here by American troops have appealed to top flight band leaders in the United States for copies of musical scores, preferably swing. What they want is not run of mine arrangements but some of "your good specials."

The boys are good musicians and morale builders, but they are getting tired playing the same things. All previously were professional musicians. Most of them are midwestern boys. Their average age is 24 years. Some of them are:

Sergt. William S. Walker, River Forest, Ill.; Pvt. Norman Schneider, New London, Wis.; Sergt. Jack Frey, Beaver Dam, Wis., and Corp. Vic Bohacek, Manitowoc, Wis. Sergt. Walker, an Amherst graduate, is the pianist and principal arranger.

Note Benny Goodman, Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, et al: Your arrangements should be sent to Capt. Herbert Krueger, army postoffice. 32, care Postmaster, San Francisco. Don't let that San Francisco fool you. The boys won't be playing that circuit for some time.

5 CHUTISTS SLAIN WITH HEYDRICH KILLERS: BERLIN

BERLIN, July 16 [Thursday] [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German radio quoted the Prague press today as saying that five other "parachutist agents" had been shot dead at the same time the two assassins of Reinhard Heydrich were slain in the Borromaeus church in Prague June 18.

All seven, declared by German authorities to have been sent to the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia by parachute, had taken refuge in the church, it was said.

BRITISH SURPRISE BLOW HITS AXIS IN CENTER OF LINE

Hurl Back Attack Along Egypt's Coast.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 15 (AP).—British forces striking suddenly in the central sector of the El Alamein battleground captured an "appreciable" number of prisoners in a sharp offensive tonight while Australians on the coastal road were throwing back a strong attempt by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel to regain lost ground.

A considerable amount of British armor was known to have been massed in the central sector of the desert battleground some 80 miles west of Alexandria.

The RAF was active, fighter bombers and light bombers scoring many direct hits on tanks. The pilot of one light bomber who destroyed an enemy tank said he saw it "turn inside out."

The new Nazi effort to retake the desert coastal ridge five miles west of El Alamein began with a sundown attack by motorized infantry and tanks yesterday, wore on thru the night and continued until it was beaten off this evening. Attacks in other sectors also were thrown back.

EYEWITNESS STORY

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH BRITISH ADVANCE FORCES, EL ALAMEIN, Egypt, July 15.—The Germans made their heaviest attack yet on the British positions five miles west of El Alamein at dusk yesterday, but they ran into terrific shellfire and failed to dent the defenses.

Apparently the axis threw the whole works into this effort to break thru. Artillery, tanks, motorized infantry, and Stuka dive bombers all opened up. They were met by a storm of gunfire that held them at bay.

Attacks from Sun.

Just at sunset yesterday the axis began its third attack so far on the heights of Tel el Eisa—"the hill of Jesus"—the coastal ridge taken last Friday during the British 10 mile advance west of El Alamein. It was Field Marshal Rommel's usual trick of attacking with the glare of the sun behind him to dazzle the defenders. If such an attack fails the Germans have darkness to protect their retreat; if it succeeds they push armored forces forward for a fresh attack at dawn.

Rommel's problem on this front has been to get at a British mine field and remove the mines so that his tanks can pass, but the British artillery and machine gunners haven't given him a chance.

Axis tanks crept close to the mine field, accompanied by truck borne infantry and engineers. All night the barrage kept them from the mine field and the fighting patrols which went out just before dawn reported they had withdrawn—only to return later.

The sunset attack opened on the front near the coast held by the Australians, but the push also covered the left flank sector held by the South Africans.

Watches from High Point.

From a high point near the coastal road I could see gun flashes around the whole horizon and the shells from both sides bursting in the disputed area in front of my position.

The battle began with mild gunfire which we at first thought was the "evening hate." Suddenly, with one great crash and rumble, guns on all sides opened up, firing round after round without pause.

Ahead of us and on the left as we watched from the ridge were bright flashes of enemy guns, followed by red spouts as the shells burst. Farther away were the bursts from British shells, occasionally followed by a great burst of red flame and then a steady red glow, proclaiming that something had been hit.

British Tanks Not Needed.

A British tank crew was standing beside its machine ready to go into action if summoned, but they were not needed. The guns did the job.

By 9 p. m. the flicker of enemy gunfire along the plain had slackened. At 10 p. m. there was no more than normal activity, except for a succession of star shells and flares lighting up the no man's land around the forward defenses, to expose any new effort to creep in to remove the mines.

Thru the night everything was comparatively quiet, but just after sunrise today the Stukas began their noisy visits.

Four days of unsuccessful attacks of growing violence show the importance the Germans attach to getting that strip of land jutting along the coast and held by British forces. It not only means a detour from the main route to take supplies to the axis forward forces but offers a constant threat to Rommel's flank.

Claim Repulse of Patrols.

ROME, July 15 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Strong British reconnaissance units have been repulsed eastward in the southern sector of the Egyptian front, the Italian high command reported today.

Italian aircraft attacked troop concentrations east of El Alamein and set fire to or destroyed several dozen motorized units, a communique said.

Flyer Saved in Mediterranean

Three British seamen swim around the tail and rear turret of a Wellington bomber from which they rescued an air gunner in the plane when it crashed into the Mediterranean sea. The tail and rear turret were blown from the rest of the craft. The gunner, trapped in the turret, was able to keep his head above water while the sailors sawed at the wrecked framework for three hours.

4 PLANES CRASH; 7 BRITISH CADETS, U. S. OFFICER DIE

Valdosta, Ga., July 15 (AP).—Seven British air cadets and a United States army officer were killed early today when the four planes in which they were making a routine flight crashed, a Moody field officer announced.

At least one of the planes burned, the officer said, but the condition of the other three had not been determined. The American officer was Second Lieut. Samuel T. King of Egypt, Miss.

Five Die in Bomber Crash.

Walla Walla, Wash., July 15 (AP).—Two officers and three enlisted men were killed today in the crash of a four-motor army bomber. Lieut. Col. Earl T. Vance, Walla Walla base commander, reported the plane struck a mountainside and burned. None of the dead was from the middle west.

Two Die in Gulf Crash.

Houston, Tex., July 15 (AP).—Two persons were killed and another injured when an army plane crashed in Galveston bay off Point San Leon today. Ellington field authorities said the dead were Capt. Bearle E. Sampson, 28, Oskaloosa, Ia., pilot, and Tech. Sergt. Ralph Bottolfson, 36, Des Moines. Their bodies were recovered. Sergt. John W. Knight of Des Moines is being treated at the Ellington field hospital for minor injuries.

HEAR AXIS TROOPS ARE SHIFTED TO ISLES NEAR TURKS

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 14 [Delayed] (AP).—Extensive movements of German and Italian troops, motor transport and war supplies from Greek ports, chiefly Salonika, into Italy's Dodecanese Islands have been observed during the last month, according to reports which allied observers here believe reliable.

About six divisions have been reported moved into the Italian islands close to Turkey's western shore and only 300 miles from Britain's great eastern Mediterranean stronghold of Cyprus. They consist, according to this information, of four divisions of Italian infantry or marines, one division of German infantry, and possibly one German motorized division.

URGE COLLEGES TO LIST WOMEN FOR NAVY CORPS

Des Moines, Ia., July 15 (AP).—Communications on letterheads of the Office of Naval Procurement, Chicago, have been sent to accredited colleges and universities in the 9th naval district requesting names of women graduates who might be chosen for training as officers of a women's service of the United States navy. A bill creating such a group, similar to the Women's Army Auxiliary corps, is pending in congress.

"It is desired that the group of young women who shall be chosen for training as officers be a selected group who during their college years excelled in scholastic achievement and showed qualities of leadership and ability to coöperate in group life," the letter said.

Candidates must be between 21 and 30 years of age; they may be married, but must not have children, and they must have had four years of college, or two years of college and at least two years of business or professional training.

Paper Urges Chinese Rule of Thailand After the War

CHUNGKING, China, July 15 (AP).—Thailand's recent recognition of the Japanese sponsored Wang Ching-wei government of Nanking led the newspaper Ta Kung Pao today to demand virtual Chinese sovereignty over that little kingdom after the war. "Since Thailand has made herself a junior partner of the Japanese aggressor," it said, "we hereby declare her to have lost her status as an independent country."

BRITISH GUNS ALL PRE-WAR! CHARGE BY HORE-BELISHA

'New' Weapon Is Tagged 'Made in Germany.'

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 15.—Charges that the British army still is equipped exclusively with weapons of prewar design and that the newly announced British Sten submachine gun is only a slightly modified version of a German gun rejected by the British government in 1940 were hurled today at Prime Minister Churchill's régime.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, former war minister who Churchill recently asserted had a share in the responsibility for the army's lack of equipment, warned a London meeting that the "situation and prospects" of Britain are now graver than at any time in the war.

Replying to assertions that British weapons are superior to the German, Hore-Belisha retorted: "All equipment being used is of prewar design." Britain's "technical ascendancy must indeed have been great," he continued. "Let us hope that it will be retained."

"Can't Blame Production."

Claimed superiority of British equipment over German in Africa, the former war minister said, implies that the blame for the defeat must rest elsewhere than the production administration.

"If those responsible for the central direction of the war seek to impugn openly or by inference the competence of those in the field, however," he asserted, "then it is incumbent upon them to say what reforms are being made which will improve the leadership."

Unless drastic changes are made in the organization and personnel responsible for the war effort, he warned, the "same causes will continue to produce the same effects until it will be too late to avoid disaster."

In the final stage of the two day debate in the house of commons on war production, Lewis Silkin, Laborite, said today that a Belgian manufacturer had offered in 1940 to set up a factory in Britain for production of the Sten gun.

16 Month Delay Charged.

Months after the ministry of supply rejected the gun, then known as the Schmeisser, the manufacturer offered it to the air ministry, Silkin declared, and subsequently it was put into production, involving a delay of from 16 to 18 months. The chief virtue of the gun, which Silkin asserted had been supplied to the German army for years, is its simplicity and cheapness of production.

Silkin contended that the ministry of supply was "not justified in taking to themselves the high praise for production of the Sten gun and giving the country the false impression that Col. S. T. Major designed and invented it and that it was one of our most remarkable achievements."

Silkin's charges were left unanswered by Minister of Supply Sir Andrew Duncan in winding up the debate on behalf of the government.

The supply minister also was silent on searching questions from Liberal Owen Evans as to why "the terrible summer" forecast for Germany by Prime Minister Churchill had failed to materialize, and why there is a lull in the air bombing of Germany at a time when Russia is hard pressed.

Find Production Slowed.

Other speakers in the debate showed disquiet concerning factory output and the handling of labor. Conservative Sir Patrick Hannon complained that because of idle machinery production is from 30 to 40 per cent below the maximum, and Silkin estimated absenteeism is still as high as 25 per cent. Conservative Sir Herbert Williams protested against the British being dependent on the United States for synthetic rubber.

Rear Adm. Sir Murray Sueter, Conservative, who helped design tanks in the last war which were armed with six pounders, wanted to know who was responsible for arming the tanks in Libya with only two pound guns.

Meanwhile authoritative sources reported that Germany was turning from dive bombers to fighter bombers because the Stukas had proved an easy target for anti-aircraft batteries. Regarding efforts to provide aircraft with cannon capable of penetrating tank armor, these sources expressed the view that at present no country had evolved a "proved tankbuster."

2,500 SERBS KILLED IN UPRISING, PREMIER OF HUNGARY SAYS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, July 15.—Premier Nicholas von Kallay of Hungary disclosed today in Budapest that Hungarian troops had killed about 2,500 Serbs last January in putting down an "organized open revolt."

He said the engagement to which he referred occurred near Zabalj, northeast of Novisad. The insurgents, he added, had "undoubtedly been reenforced by Communist agitators from the Banat"—an oblique jibe at Rumania for preventing Hungarian annexation of the fertile Banat province at the end of the Jugo-Slav war.

In the three day uprising which began Jan. 4, "some innocent citizens of Ujvidek were among the victims" due to the fact that they had thronged the streets to watch the fighting," the premier said.

16 FLYING TIGERS, ONE OF MAYWOOD, LAND IN FLORIDA

Miami, Fla., July 15 [Special].—Paul Frillman of Maywood, Ill., who acted as chaplain, interpreter and liaison officer with the American Volunteer group, commonly known as the Flying Tigers, during their service in Asia, was among 16 members of the AVG who landed here today.

Frillman said the returning flyers elected to return home for a visit before resuming active service when the AVG operations were taken over by the United States army recently.

"Look at them," said Frillman, as the khaki clad men cleared their baggage thru customs. "They're adventurers. They went into war with just one thing in mind, kill or be killed. They thrived on taking chances." Among the returning flyers was F. E. Wolfe of Shawano, Wis., who spent a year with the AVG in China and is credited with bringing down four Jap planes.

Reveals Japs Have a New Model Zero Plane in Use

CANBERRA, Australia, July 15 (AP).—Air Minister Arthur Drakeford announced today that the Japanese have a new model Zero fighter plane in operation against allied forces to the north of Australia. The new model has greater structural strength and about 1,000 horse power, compared with 800 in the old, Drakeford said, but climb and maneuverability have been lost. He expressed doubt that the new planes could be launched from aircraft carriers.

RALLY TO HONOR HEROES OF HOME AND WAR FRONTS

Leaders to Meet at Bond Breakfast Tomorrow.

The bravery of the fighting man, the dogged determination of the war worker, and the silent courage of the parents who sent their boys to war, some to die, will be honored in a ceremony tomorrow morning at the Chicago Heroes breakfast in the Stevens hotel.

Forty Chicagoans, chosen to typify all war heroes from battlefield, factory bench, and the home, will receive the homage of an expected 1,500 of the city's business, civic, and military leaders.

One of Chain in Nation.

The breakfast will be one of a chain thruout the country which will spotlight American Heroes day in the National Retailers for Victory July drive to sell 1 billion dollars of war securities.

Participants in the Chicago breakfast are expected to buy from "war bondettes," young volunteer saleswomen, more war bonds than have been sold at any other Chicago rally. Large purchases are expected to be made by executives for their companies and for themselves.

Honor 10 of Lexington Crew.

Among the heroes to be honored will be Lieuts. Thomas C. Griffin and Charles J. Ozuk, who participated in the bombing of Tokio, and 10 members of the crew of the aircraft carrier Lexington which sank in the Coral sea battle.

Mayor Kelly proclaimed tomorrow as American Heroes' day and designated the bond breakfast as the official event to honor Chicago's heroes. He said the celebration is "one of the most significant tributes we at home can pay to the thousands of heroes this war already has created."

At the Acme Steel company plant, 2840 Archer avenue, three workers who led their individual divisions by devoting from 23 to 48 per cent of their weekly pay to war bonds will accept for their company the Minute Man flag from the treasury department. The ceremony will be held at noon tomorrow.

Present Flag to Workers.

The workers are Edward Lyskawa, 32 years old, 3216 Aberdeen street, an inspector, who put 48 per cent of his pay in war bonds; Miss Catherine Deady, 8014 Loomis street, a telephone operator, 26 per cent, and William Holsworth, 21, machinist apprentice, 23 per cent. The flag will be presented in recognition of the workers' participation in the pay allotment plan for war saving.

Three children of Arthur and Helen Moylan, 3543 Belmont avenue, carried a gallon jar of pennies to the Tribune Tower Public Service office to buy three $25 war bonds. The jar contained 5,100 pennies and Moylan contributed the rest.

Moylan, who works for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company as an inspector, said the children started saving pennies last Dec. 7. The children are Phyllis Jean, 10, Arthur Jr., 8, and James John, 3.

War Department Takes Over Alaska Communications Lines

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—The board of war communications today delegated to the war department authority to use, control, supervise or close stations and facilities for wire or radio communication in Alaska. The order applies to all facilities except those controled by the navy department.

The order said national security and defense made it necessary for the war department to have jurisdiction over all nonmilitary stations and facilities for radio and wire communication in Alaska.

Still Silent on Activities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Altho the Japanese claim to be strengthening the foothold they have gained on the Aleutian islands, the army and navy today continued to maintain a strict silence on developments in the Alaskan theater.

It has been 10 days since the area was last mentioned in an official American communique. At that time the navy reported the bombing of Jap ships and shore installations on the islands of Attu and Kiska. At Kiska is the largest harbor in the mid-Pacific area.

Army and navy officers have said that the lack of information has been due to the weather. Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air forces, told a senate committee that fogs sometimes make air operations impossible for as long as 20 days at a time.

Foe Claims Large Convoys There.

In the meantime enemy radio broadcasts, from Berlin and Tokio, have claimed that large Jap convoys have been sent to the area. While army and navy officials would not comment on the enemy broadcasts, Anthony J. Diamond, Alaska's delegate in congress, said he would not be surprised if this were true.

"If the Japanese can hold the Aleutians," he said, "it will partially make up for their loss of aircraft carriers in the naval battles in the Pacific. They will have three or four nonsinkable bases then."

The islands the Japs occupy lie athwart the air route from Alaska to Siberia. The Japs have troops at Attu and Kiska and probably also hold Agattu Island, which lies between the two.

Say Japs Seek to Halt Aid.

Some observers believe that the Japs seized the islands in order to balk a trans-Pacific juncture between the United States and Russia. These observers, who are in the minority, hold that the Japs seized the islands because they feared to attack the Russians and yet wanted to forestall close American-Russian coöperation.

Most military experts are positive that the Japs seized the islands as bases for attacks against Alaska and continental United States and also to prevent their use by this country in operations against Japan.

The Japanese have officially assured the soviet union that the attacks on the Aleutians "in no way threaten the integrity of Russian territory." While experts recognize that such assurances have no value, they feel that any vantage against Russia the islands offer is merely incidental in Jap plans against the Aleutians.

BRITONS PRESS FOR QUICK ACTION ON SECOND FRONT

Support New Plea by Reds to Stall Nazis.

LONDON, July 15 (AP).—Advocates of a second land front in Europe to help Russia pressed firmly tonight for quick action.

Qualified London sources, who declined to permit use of their names, said Russia was pleading again thru her envoy, Ivan Maisky, for prompt help by a British-American expedition to Europe to take some of the tremendous Nazi pressure off the Red army.

The Russians in Moscow were indirectly presenting a case for a second front with official reports that the Nazis, suffering huge losses in the battles in southern Russia, had in the last few days hurriedly transferred several divisions from France and Belgium to the Russian front.

See Jap Attack on Siberia.

One argument advanced by second fronters here is that if the Germans can set the stage with victories in southern Russia, the Japanese might attack in Siberia.

The Japanese were said to have gathered at least 24 divisions, some 360,000 men, in Manchukuo with air reënforcements from the home islands. In that connection, it was pointed out also that August and September are the best months for campaigning in Siberia.

Public sympathy for Russian pleas for a second front now was seen in week-end massmeetings at Glasgow and Liverpool, in which a new front and all aid for Russia were demanded.

Soviet strategists declared themselves not satified that the British air offensive against Europe was heavy enough to pull German troops from the eastern front.

Want Permanent Second Front.

But, with all the talk of a second front, military sources here envisioned such an effort as a permanent, well considered attempt requiring exhaustive preparation and not just a hit-run affair.

"All preparations for opening a second front are under way and the objective is a front which will be permanent, not only a large hit and run raid," one informant said. "The type of operation now being done by the commandos will be part of any major invasion scheme."

An RAF commentator reported progress in the British war on submarines. He said flyers were hammering at submarines in all stages of production and at their seacoast bases and were keeping up "large scale attacks on German war industry."

Factories Attacked.

The bomber command has attacked factories making submarine parts, submarine storage batteries, submarine under construction on slips, and the huge submarine ports on the Atlantic. Other planes have mined waters where submarines carry out training operations.

On another factor which must be considered in second front talk—munitions—Sir Andrew Rae Duncan, minister of supply, told the British that they had a "growing sufficiency." His assurances climaxed the second and last day of debate in the house of commons on war production.

Red Treaties Omit Japs—Togo.

TOKIO, July 11 [from Japanese broadcasts] — (AP). — Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo, speaking at Osaka today, declared that the soviet government had assured Japan that Russia's new treaty of alliance with Great Britain and her agreement with the United States contain no provisions regarding Japan. Relations between Japan and the soviet union continue to be regulated by their 1941 treaty of neutrality, the foreign minister declared.

Finns Confer High Honor on the Emperor of Japan

BERLIN, July 15 [from German broadcasts] (AP).—A German dispatch from Helsingfors reported today that President Risto Ryti has conferred on Emperor Hirohito of Japan the Finnish decoration of the grand cross of the white rose with chains. The emperor telegraphed his thanks.

CAUCASUS RICH IN FOODSTUFFS AS WELL AS OIL

Nazi Drive Perils One of Reds' Best Areas.

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—The German advance into the Don river area north of the Caucasus mountains threatens an important agricultural region upon which Russia has been depending for grain, meat, and other food supplies for her southern armies.

The loss of this area would increase Russian demands for American food supplies at a time when there is an acute shortage of ships to move war materials across submarine infested waters and along axis air patroled sea lanes.

The value of the north Caucasus as a food producing area was emphasized in an agricultural department report issued today.

Rich Food Area.

"Altho much has been written since the beginning of the present war about the Caucasian oil fields, little attention has been given," the report said, "to the southern Russian 'bread basket,' often associated in the public mind with the Ukraine only. North Caucasus is one of the richest agricultural areas of the soviet union."

The Russians were said to have planted extensive crops in the north Caucasus this year, using machinery and other equipment moved from the Ukraine when the Germans moved into that area a year ago. It is possible that the Russians may be able to get much of the Caucasian wheat and barley crops harvested and moved out of German reach. The region has an early harvesting season. Most of its grain is of the winter variety which matures about this season.

See Hitler in Need of Food.

There may be less opportunity to salvage the valuable vegetable oil crops, corn, and tobacco. American officials who declined to be quoted by name expressed belief the Russians, if forced to give up the north Caucasus, would apply the "scorched earth" policy which a year ago left the Ukraine a barren land for the invaders.

The need for additional food supplies as well as oil is believed by agricultural department officials to be one of the factors prompting Hitler to press for a quick seizure of the north Caucasus. These officials have obtained reports from Europe indicating that Germany faces a critical food shortage this winter unless European crops are exceptionally good or Nazi armies are able to get supplies now out of their reach.

CORP. ALBERT GOOSSENS.

The young men of Australia haven't a chance with their girls when the Americans come calling. The Aussie girls say a quick "be seeing you" to their Australian escorts and grab the chance to strut thru the streets and parks with the men in American uniforms.

These were among observations yesterday by Corp. Albert Goossens, 1624 North Shore avenue, who is home pending reassignment after a long voyage.

Goossens, who is 24 years old, was enlisted in the army in January, 1941, after working five years in the Tribune composing room. His father, John Goossens, is a veteran of 27 years in the composing room.

Not only in Australia, but in many other South Pacific ports, the Americans receive beaming welcomes, young Goossens said.

The biggest name in the South Pacific is that of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the corporal said. The residents pin their hopes on his military wisdom and strategy.

American Freighter Sunk by Subs in Mozambique

LOURENCO MARQUES, Portuguese East Africa, July 15 (AP).—An American freighter was among the undetermined number of vessels sunk recently by axis submarines in Mozambique channel, between the East African coast and Madagascar, it was disclosed today. Out of a crew of 55, 14 of the Americans are missing. The rest have been landed here.

TELLS HOW JAPS FEAR DEADLY U. S. TORPEDO PLANES

Midway Battle Described by Glen Ellyn Pilot.

Japanese fear of American torpedo planes, heightened by the havoc wrought by the "tin fish" in the Coral sea battle, caused them to concentrate their defense against this particular aerial weapon in the Midway battle—but to no avail. This was one point of the story told last night by Lieut. Irvin H. McPherson, navy pilot, who believes his torpedo struck an aircraft carrier of the Kaga class in the Midway engagement.

Pilot McPherson recalled his part in the battle as he sat in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McPherson, at 465 Bryant avenue, Glen Ellyn. He also mentioned casually that he unleashed a torpedo against a Japanese light cruiser in the attack upon the Marshall Islands earlier.

Hear Jap Is Coming.

"Intelligence informed us early in the morning of June 4 that the Jap fleet was approaching and at that time was about 150 miles northwest of Midway," Lieut. McPherson said.

"At 10 a. m. our dive bombers left our carrier and 15 minutes later the torpedo planes took off, with me in one of them. We were operating in conjunction with other carriers, one of them the Yorktown.

"Our dive bombers had missed the Japs because the Japs had changed course, but our torpedo planes sighted the Japs at about 11:30 a. m. I noted that the Jap ships were more widely spread than ours ever were.

"We circled, trying to get set for broadside shots, but the Japs did some clever maneuvering. All of a sudden Jap dive bombers appeared about us—I learned later that none of our boys had seen them take off so that we guessed they had been 'way up there somewhere waiting for us.

"Immediately we dived to gain speed and to get close enough to the water to make it dangerous for the Jap dive bombers to get within gun range of us. You see, they require room to flatten out when they dive and it might mean landing in the drink for them to dive too low.

"Two Zeroes came at my plane, but they didn't have what it takes. Either they were short of ammunition or lacked experience. Nothing hit my plane except the concussion of an anti-aircraft shell, which smashed a bit of my 'window.'

"My squadron — three planes — launched its torpedoes and my radio operator said he saw mine hit a carrier of the Kaga class. There was a lot of anti-aircraft stuff coming our way.

"The Japs concentrated their fire on the torpedo planes, paying little attention to our fighters. Probably that was because of what our torpedoes had done to them in the Coral sea battle.

"It didn't do the Japs much good. Altho they got 10 of our torpedo planes, three which returned to our carrier believed they had scored.

Jap Misses Good Target.

"On my way back, a single Jap fighter attacked but didn't come close, altho my TBD-1 was fairly large and slow and made a good target.

"Our dive bombers were unlucky. Only half of them returned, but only one or two had been shot down. All of the others ran out of gas because they were determined to get at the Japs even after the change of course.

"My radio operator and I saw three Jap carriers in flames, so we know that the Nips are in bad shape for a long time to come."

Lieut. McPherson's infant daughter, Dianne, was the first child born in the United States in 1942—3 seconds past midnight, he said. Pearl Harbor spoiled his plans to be here for the event, and he didn't get to see her until July 1 in San Diego, Cal.

With his wife, formerly Eva Glissendorf of Phillips, Wis., he will visit her parents there before returning to duty Aug. 4.

200 RAF FIGHTER PLANES GUN GERMAN SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

LONDON, July 15 (AP).—Two hundred Spitfire fighters flying only a few feet above the ground shot up 200 miles of the French coast in a low level attack today, blasting camps, gun posts, and scattering German troops "all over the countryside."

A squadron of "Fighting French" airmen played a leading rôle in the attack, the air ministry news service said, sweeping over the cliffs at Fecamp to attack light anti-aircraft field artillery batteries, wireless stations, freight cars, and troops.

Four offensive operations were reported, centering on the Etaples area, across the channel from England, and over Fecamp, St. Valerie-en-Caux, and Dieppe.

The news service said gas works at St. Valerie-en-Caux were "set alight." In another operation a 500 ton coaster towing a target for German anti-aircraft batteries was sunk by Spitfires off the Dutch coast, the ministry added.

'HOOD SURVIVOR' IS REVEALED AS VICTIM'S BROTHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 15.—The mystery linked to the sinking of the British battle cruiser Hood was cleared up in a West London court today when Frederick Silk, who had previously claimed to be a survivor of the vessel, admitted that he was posing as his brother who was officially reported lost when the Hood was blown up in action against the German battleship Bismarck last year.

When taken to Brixton jail as a deserter last week, Silk said he had drifted on a raft for three days and was picked up by a trawler but after landing did not report as a survivor. Today he was identified at the jail by his brother's 19 year old fiancée, Jean Hopper, who got special leave from a war factory to attend the court.

"I couldn't believe it was true," she said, "and as soon as I saw him I knew he was not my Jack."

"Silk," said the police, "has lived a life of petty crime and has been a continual deserter from the army." He was sentenced to three months in jail for producing a false identity card and giving false particulars of his identity when arrested.

USO CAMPAIGN REACHES 74 PCT. OF CITY'S GOAL

The United Service organizations' War fund campaign reached $1,286,749, or 74 per cent of its $1,749,432 goal, yesterday, Holman D. Pettibone, general chairman, reported.

"The contributions are coming in at an average of $50,000 a day," he said. "If they continue to do so we will be over our quota by the deadline on July 31."

Outstanding gifts received yesterday included $16,000 from the Sinclair Refining company, $2,000 from Wieboldt Stores, Inc., $1,050 from the Wells-Gardner company and employés, $793 from the National Biscuit company and employés, and $636 from the Pheoll Manufacturing company and employés.

Mayor Kelly issued a proclamation designating next week, the final one of the drive, as American Legion week for the USO and urged every citizen to coöperate.

WHERE ARE LOUD WAR SHOUTERS? SAFE AT HOME

Survey Shows Records of 'Freedom Fighters.'

Now that the nation has been at war for more than seven months, where are the loudest prewar shouters for war—the leaders of Fight for Freedom, Inc.?

This question was suggested by the ruckus raised in New York by Ralph Ingersoll, editor of PM, who was another vociferous advocate of war before Pearl Harbor because his draft board classified him as 1-A.

The navy accepts applicants below the age of 50 years and 6 months. In the army the limit is 45 but older men with service records may enlist. The marine corps waived its nominal 29 years limit for former Ald. Paul H. Douglas, who is 50. And in the coast guard the top is 55 for recruits.

Roll Call in Chicago.

Courtenay Barber Jr., 36 years old, director of the Chicago chapter of Fight for Freedom, became angry when he was asked to what extent members were backing up their prewar prowar speeches with deeds.

"The only people who have asked such questions have been America Firsters and Tribune reporters, who do just as they are told," Barber said.

"There isn't a single member of Fight for Freedom who has not done and will not do everything he is called upon to do—such as answering the draft call when, as, and if it comes. Also we are counteracting subversive elements within our midst, many of which are not foreign born."

He said that one FFF member, William McGovern, who was born in the orient and speaks Chinese, became a lieutenant commander in the navy on Dec. 9.

Parry Absent from City.

Dr. Albert Parry, 41, who was executive secretary of the FFF group here for a time, is not in the armed services, but was absent from the city, his wife said. Born Paretzky in Russia, he gained considerable military experience by fighting on both sides in the Russian revolution.

Clifton M. Utley, 37, said merely that his radio broadcasting work keeps him busy as a civilian. A friend said that Utley had tried to enlist.

Charles P. O'Donnell, 36 years old, a member of the FFF executive committee, is not in the army, it was said at his home, but is employed in Washington by the priorities division of the War Production board.

National Leaders at Home.

John Hay Whitney, 37, who echoed the war-like cries of FFF before Pearl Harbor, now quietly directs the motion picture division of the Office of the Coördinator of Commercial and Cultural Relations Between the American Republics.

John Farrar, 46, who was in the air force of World War I, has relaxed from his pre-war FFF activities to write a new play. The title is "My Brother's a Hero."

Herbert Agar, 44, was one of the half dozen leading intervention propagandists in the country before Pearl Harbor, but he is not in uniform. He was in the naval reserve during the last war.

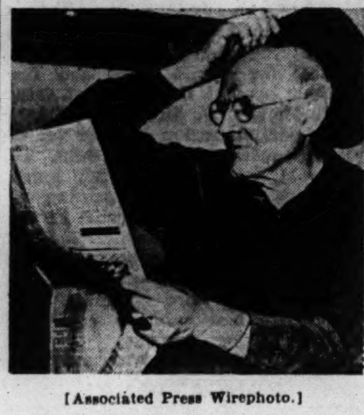
Millis Remains Civilian.

Walter Millis, 43, author of "The Road to War," who was an army lieutenant in the United States in World War I., is another FFF writer who remains a civilian. A few days ago he wrote an editorial for The New York Herald-Tribune defending Ingersoll's stand on the draft issue.

Contrast to the Fight for Freedom, Inc., pattern is provided by the former leaders of the America First committee. R. Douglas Stuart Jr., the executive secretary, has two children but enlisted in the field artillery and is now a lieutenant.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, honorary national chairman, is 63 years old but became a member of the army's Chicago ordnance district. Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, 58 years old, chairman of the Chicago chapter of America First, is serving the army in a similar capacity.

His Son a Hero



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Fred Henderson, at work in Lorain, O., shipyard, takes time out to read of exploit of his son, Maj. Lofton R. Henderson, marine flyer.

Lorain, O., July 15 (AP).—The mother of a marine corps aviator who dived his plane into the smokestack of a Japanese aircraft carrier at Midway said today that "if and when he had to go he wanted to go aboard his plane, with his boots on."

She is Mrs. Fred Henderson, wife of a retired steelworker now helping to build ships. Their son, Maj. Lofton R. Henderson, 39 years old, and his group of scout bombers launched the first attack on the main body of the Japanese fleet at Midway, the navy reported. His plane was the first hit, and burst into flames, but he dived it into the objective.

Mrs. Henderson said she was proud he had "distinguished himself in the service of America," but declared there were "countless other sons" equally brilliant.

Maj. Henderson was born in Cleveland and grew up in Lorain. He was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis in 1926, entering the marine air corps.

In 1940 he was in charge of construction of a marine air base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. He had been in command of the marine air detachment on Midway Island since May.

MacLEISH GOING TO LONDON SOON FOR OWI PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Archibald MacLeish is going to London in the near future to assist in establishment of a branch of the new Office of War Information.

MacLeish, who was director of the Office of Facts and Figures, absorbed by OWI, is assistant director of OWI under Elmer Davis. He is expected to be in London only long enough to discuss general information policies with British officials.

The London branch of OWI will be new chiefly in name. It will consist of what was formerly an office of the foreign information service of the coördinator of information, also absorbed by OWI.

Accompanying MacLeish will be James P. Warburg, deputy director of the overseas branch, and Murry Brophy, chief of communications facilities of the overseas branch. Warburg will be in charge of the office throughout its period of organization. Brophy will discuss broadcasting problems with British officials.

WOMAN REPORTS MANY SURVIVORS LAND AT TRINIDAD

Stories of censorship and ship sinkings in the Caribbean sea were told yesterday by Mrs. Vernon Steedman, a former Tribune employé who recently returned from Trinidad. Mrs. Steedman, whose husband is a construction superintendent at the new Caribbean base, lived in Trinidad 10 months.

Survivors of torpedoed ships were brought to the island almost every day, Mrs. Steedman said. So many were landed it was necessary for residents of Trinidad to collect all available clothes and send them to the USO to be given to the men. Stories of sinkings and rescues were not publicized, Mrs. Steedman said, and little news was available thru the newspapers or the radio.

Mrs. Steedman returned to the United States on a Pan-American plane taken over by the army for use as a transport. The plane left Trinidad Saturday morning and arrived in Miami Sunday night.

Torpedo Victims Say Nazi Knew Destination.

The sinking of three more ships in American waters was announced yesterday by the navy. Two of them were medium sized United States vessels, one torpedoed off the Atlantic coast and the other lost in the Caribbean. A Norwegian vessel was sunk off the northern coast of South America.

374

These sinkings bring to 374 the number of vessels sunk in American and adjacent waters since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial Associated Press tabulation. Of these 318 have been sunk in American coastal waters. The number of dead totals 1,965, with 1,820 missing and 10,681 rescued.

SHIP MOVEMENTS KNOWN

A Gulf Port, July 15.—Evidence that German U-boat commanders have advance information on movements of merchant ships was given here today by survivors of a medium sized Norwegian vessel who told also how natives in the West Indies mistook them for invaders.

One man was killed in the explosion when the ship was struck by a torpedo in the night, May 17, in the Atlantic. Thirty-one other members of the crew escaped, the 8th naval district revealed.

Survivors of the Norwegian vessel rowing away in three lifeboats were stopped by a submarine whose officer, speaking English with a German accent, asked the name, tonnage, and nationality of the sunken ship.

Knew Port and Destination.

The sub commander then recited the name of the port from which the ship sailed and its destination and asked if that were not correct. The captain told him he was correct.

At a West Indies port Gunliev Gunersen, seaman, said natives where they were landed became alarmed and thought their island was being invaded by Germans. When the government announced that the status of each man landed was being investigated, the matter was dropped.

SEES 'MONKEY BUSINESS'

An East Coast Port, July 15 (AP).—Capt. William R. McDonough expressed belief that there was "monkey business" in the sinking of his medium sized United States merchant ship in daylight July 1, in the Carribbean sea.

"In my opinion," said Capt. McDonough of Mobile, Ala., on his arrival here, "the crew of the submarine knew we carried a valuable cargo, and our destination and route were known to them."

Three members of the crew of 42 were killed when two torpedoes struck the ship. Four members of the 14 man navy gun crew aboard are missing. The survivors were picked up after six hours in lifeboats.

Four shots were fired at the submarine's periscope by the gun crew, but there was no evidence of a hit being scored.

372 RESCUED; 9 LOST

An East Coast Port, July 15 (AP).—A medium sized American merchant vessel, carrying 381 passengers and crew, was torpedoed and sunk 400 miles off the Atlantic coast about two weeks ago, the navy disclosed today, but expert work by the crew saved all except nine men.

Survivors landed at an east coast port said the ship was struck on a clear evening and sank within four minutes. The captain and first officer literally stepped into the sea, so quickly did the vessel go down.

The passengers, including three women, took their positions in lifeboats or near lifeboats under the guidance of the trained 48 man crew. All wore life preservers, and about 75 men swam in the warm, moonlit water, eventually climbing aboard floating wreckage.

Report British Ship Torpedoed.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 15 (AP).—Advices received from Fortaleza, Brazilian seaport, said today that the British freighter Cortona was torpedoed off Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, last Monday. Additional details were not available. [Lloyd's Shipping Register lists the Cortona as a 7,093 ton freighter, sailing from Glasgow.]

British Freighter Sunk.

Washington, July 15 (AP).—The navy announced tonight that a large British merchant vessel had been torpedoed approximately 1,500 miles off the Atlantic coast and that survivors landed at an east coast port.

The survivors included 77 crewmen and 20 passengers. Three seamen were killed when the torpedo struck, three others were lost in abandoning ship, and two died in lifeboats from injuries. One lifeboat carried 47 persons and the other 52. Both groups were picked up after drifting four days.

Join Fight on Japs

Earl and Courtney Shanken, 21 year old twins, acrobats and holders of several collegiate gymnastic titles, are now going to do their flying thru the air in a pursuit of Japs. The young men were sworn in as army aviation cadets yesterday by Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, army air force recruiting officer in Chicago.

They are sons of Albert Shanken, 1367 East 52d street, a textile salesman, and recently were graduated from the University of Chicago. They've been together all their lives and hope to fly pursuit planes in the same squadron, they said.

INGERSOLL DRAFT APPEAL DELAY ASKED BY FIELD

New York, July 15 [Special].—Louis S. Weiss, counsel for Marshall Field, owner of the paper PM, has asked for a delay in consideration of the draft appeal for Ralph Ingersoll, editor of the paper, so that additional material in the case may be filed, Col. Arthur V. McDermott, selective service director, disclosed today.

The request was not necessary, Col. McDermott said, because the appeals board which has jurisdiction of the case would not reach it before next week.

Meantime, Ingersoll, whose induction as a 1-A draftee was stayed by Field's first plea that he is "indispensable" to PM, renewed his efforts to escape army service. In a "statement to the press" the former war crusader repeated his claims that his draft board was "prejudiced" against him.

DON'T SEND US SO MANY GIFTS, U. S. ASKED BY BRITAIN

Churchill Makes Plea to Save Shipping Space.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 16 [Thursday].—At the request of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, American gifts for British citizens will be drastically curtailed to save shipping space for war materials, it was announced today. The request was made in an exchange of letters between Churchill and President Roosevelt.

In the future, cargo space for gifts will be allocated only to direct consignments thru the American Red Cross to the British Red Cross and the women's voluntary services and thru the British War Relief society to the Personal Service league. However, monetary gifts will not be affected by the restrictions.

Any British organizations, aside from the Red Cross and the War Relief society, wishing to make a request to America for a specified gift to meet a special need, may apply only to the American Gifts committee for shipping space.

Ambulances Among Gifts from U. S.

Among the gifts which have been sent here from the United States are ambulances, mobile canteens, X-ray apparatus, drugs, surgical instruments, clothing, and food, as well as such personal items as toilet goods, children's toys, tobacco, and delicacies unobtainable in England.

Churchill wrote President Roosevelt on June 14, setting forth the new conditions for gifts and thanking the American people for their gifts. He said, in part:

"For a long time I have watched with grateful admiration the vast stream of gifts which . . . has been flowing from America for the relief of suffering and the succor of distress. . . . The generosity of these gifts, each one of which represents a personal sacrifice by an individual, is overwhelming and without precedent. . . .

Plans "More Warlike" Cargoes.

"My second purpose in addressing you is, unhappily, one of informing you that we now feel under the necessity of asking that this brotherly flow of material shall be diminished . . . due to additional demands on shipping resulting from the enormously increased flow of war materials for which ocean transport has to be provided. I shall have, therefore, to assign to goods of a more warlike character the shipping space which has hitherto been available for the relief of our people. . . ."

In his reply, on July 9, the President expressed his gratification that the gifts had given comfort to the British people "during their days of great trial" and pledged the coöperation of the American Gifts committee in the new arrangements.

The President said he felt the gifts from America were "indicative of the profound admiration felt in this country for the heroic stand of the British people against a barbarous foe."

BULLITT ARRIVES IN LONDON ON SPECIAL MISSION FOR NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 15.—William C. Bullitt, special assistant to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, arrived in London this afternoon and within an hour was closeted at the admiralty with First Lord A. V. Alexander.

Bullitt told newspapermen: "I am here on navy business and only navy business." He said he intends to open an office in the United States embassy building.

Prime Minister Churchill, warning against speculation on the purpose of Bullitt's visit, said that a "shrewd surmise" is often as revealing as actual fact.

BRITISH ON HONOR TO CUT DOWN HOLIDAY TRAVEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 15.—The British public is being placed "on its honor" to avoid long journeys during the August bank holiday week-end, Lord Leathers, minister of war transport, announced today.

Members of the house of commons again clashed over the war transport ministry's decision to run extra trains to holiday resorts. The discussion showed a sharp cleavage of opinion. Members criticizing the ministry's concessions were called killjoys by Independent Laborite Campbell Stephen, and Laborite Rhys Davies asked how they would "like spending a week's holiday in Manchester or Oldham with Blackpool only 40 miles away."

Sir Arthur Salter, the ministry's parliamentary secretary, gave assurance that the railroads were permitted to run extra trains only if they did not interfere with freight traffic.

FORCE TAX BILL TO HOUSE FLOOR UNDER GAG RULE

Expect Stormy Debate on 6 Billion Measure.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Under a gag rule imposed by administration forces, the 1942 revenue bill—biggest in the nation's history—will reach the house floor tomorrow. Indications point to a stormy debate.

The measure is designed to increase the tax load on Americans by 6 billion 144 million dollars annually, pushing the prospective federal tax burden to the unprecedented total of about 23 billion dollars in the first full year of its operation.

Added to state and local taxes of about 9 billion dollars a year, the measure will impose a total tax load of about 32 billion dollars—roughly, one-third of the present national income.

Another Tax Bill to Come.

This means that one dollar out of every three received by the American people will be absorbed in taxes. Administration tax experts are talking of another tax bill to be imposed after the pending measure is passed.

The new revenue measure emerged from the house ways and means committee amidst warnings that drastic new taxes on corporations, approved at the last minute thru a New Deal push led by Rep. Raymond S. [Small Potatoes] McKeough [D., Ill.], will sound the death knell of thousands of small businesses thruout the nation.

This warning was voiced last night by Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] in a minority statement filed with the house. Rep. Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.], altho voting to report the bill, agreed with Knutson in a supplemental statement filed today.

[Details of the important corporation tax changes, including those to which Knutson and Treadway objected, will be found in the financial section.]

Favors Recommitment.

"It is a short-sighted policy which taxes business out of existence so it cannot continue to pay taxes to the government, maintain employment, and sustain the communities wherein it is carried on," said Treadway's statement. He said he will support on the floor any motion to recommit the bill for adjustment of the corporation tax rates to make them more equitable.

Treadway and Knutson both expressed opposition to the proposed combined 45 per cent normal and surtax and the 87½ per cent excess profits rate. Knutson, saying the proposed rates were "arrived at thru a series of trades and shameless logrolling," declared he preferred rates of 40 and [illegible] per cent.

Treadway said: "The committee bill, in its present form, places too much of a burden on normal profits, and not enough on excess profits."

Would Lift Single Exemption.

Treadway and Rep. John D. Dingell [D., Mich.], another committee member, also expressed formal opposition to the committee's action in reducing individual income tax exemptions from $750 to $500 for single persons and from $1,500 to $1,200 for married people. Dingell termed the action "unfair and unjust." Treadway said the single person's exemption should be $600 instead of $500.

The administration majority on the ways and means committee obtained a rule from the rules committee which gags all attempts to amend the bill on the floor except for amendments which may be sponsored by the ways and means committee. No such amendments appear likely at present. Debate on the bill is limited to three days, with passage expected Monday.

Yearly Deficit 52 Billions.

The committee's report on the bill, presented to congress today, recognized the tremendous burden of financing the war effort. Appropriations for the military and naval establishments since the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor have totaled 130 billion dollars, or $1,000 for every man, woman, and child in the nation. Appropriations for national defense and the war effort have totaled more than 200 billions for the period between July 1, 1940, and June 30, 1943, the report said.

While the pending tax bill is estimated to produce 6 billion 144 million dollars in a full year of operation, its yield for the 1943 fiscal year [ending next June 30] is placed at only 4 billion 26 million dollars. This will leave an estimated deficit of 52 billion dollars in the current fiscal year, total estimated expenditures of 73 billion dollars being offset by only 21 billions in anticipated federal taxes. The current federal tax burden is about 17 billion dollars a year.

All the Nation Can Bear.

Public debt will reach 129 billion dollars by June 30, 1943, according to the committee report. This will compare with 77 billions on June 30, 1942.

"Thus it is apparent," said the report, "that our revenue needs are extreme and your committee has endeavored to obtain every dollar of additional revenue which, in its opinion, the national economy can bear."

The bill will produce the estimated 6 billion 144 millions in additional revenue thru the following tax increases:

Corporation income and excess profits taxes, 2 billion 479 millions; individual income taxes, 2 billion 906 millions; liquor taxes, 339 millions; tobacco taxes, 87 millions; manufacturers' excise taxes, 12 millions; miscellaneous taxes on such items as transportation, telephones, pari-mutuel and slot machines, 378 millions.

Capital stock and estate taxes are reduced under the measure, offsetting some of the increases, but only about 58 million dollars.

Relief for Nation's Fighters.

Altho lowering individual exemptions, the bill provides special relief from this provision for members of the armed forces, leaving exemptions for them at present levels.

The bill boosts the normal tax on individual incomes from 4 to 6 per cent, the same rate as adopted in 1918 on low incomes. In addition, the measure provides for drastic increases in surtax rates, jumping them from 6 per cent on the first $2,000 of surtax net income to 13 per cent. The new rates graduate to a maximum of 82 per cent on incomes in excess of $5,000,000. The present top rate is 77 per cent.

The new bill continues the optional use of the simplified tax return, in which the tax payment is calculated by the treasury, for those having gross income of $3,000 or less.

Tax Deduction at Source.

One revolutionary provision of the new bill calls for collection of income taxes at the source of income, in an attempt to make the burdensome taxes easier to pay and to reduce spending power of the individual.

Beginning next Jan. 1, under the bill, 5 per cent of most salaries and wages will be withheld by employers and turned over to the treasury. On Jan. 1, 1944, the withholding rate will increase to 10 per cent.

Certain deductions are allowed before the 5 per cent rate applies, the amount depending on whether the person is married or single and the number of his or her dependents. For example, a single person will be allowed an exemption of $11 weekly before the 5 per cent deduction is made. For a married person this exemption will amount to $26 plus an additional exemption of $8.50 a week for each dependent.

These deductions will be accredited against tax payments when they become due.

Estate Tax Revised.

The bill changes the estate tax law by providing for a flat exemption of $60,000 regardless of whether life insurance is involved. At present a specific exemption of $40,000 is allowed, as well as an exemption on the first $40,000 of life insurance.

On the controversial issue of community property—whereby in community property states the estate tax has been dodged because one-half of a man's property, after marriage, is treated as belonging to the wife—the committee attempted to bring some of this property under estate tax rates by requiring that such part of the estate automatically considered the wife's must be included in the gross estate of the husband, unless it can be shown to have been received as compensation "for personal services actually rendered by the surviving wife" or derived from separate property of the surviving wife.

Gift Taxes More Stringent.

On gift taxes [illegible] existing deduction of $40,000 [illegible] in computation of the net gifts [illegible] reduced to $30,000. This specific exemption may be taken in one year or spread over a period of years, at the option of the donor. The bill also reduces from $4,000 to $3,000 the value of gifts to any persons during the year not counted in the total of net gifts subject to tax.

The bill also provides the following increase in excise, or nuisance taxes:

Distilled spirits, the tax is raised from $4 to $6 a gallon; imported perfumes, from $4 to $6 a gallon; fermented malt liquors, from $6 to $7 a barrel; still wines, from 8 to 10 cents, 30 to 40 cents, and 65 cents to $1 a gallon, according to classification; sparkling wines [natural] from 7 cents to 10 cents per ½-pint; sparkling wines [artificial] from 3½ cents to 5 cents per ½-pint.

Tobacco Taxes Increased.

The cigaret tax is increased from $3.25 per thousand to $3.50 per thousand.

On cigars the bill imposes various rates of increase, according to grade and price, but on nickel cigars the tax jumps from $2 to $5 per thousand; smoking tobacco, from 18 to 24 cents a pound.

On telephone and radio-telephone toll service the tax is jumped from 5 cents to 20 per cent of the total charge; telegraph, radio and cable messages, from 10 to 15 per cent of the charge; local telephone service, from 6 to 10 per cent of the bill.

On photographic apparatus the tax is increased from 10 to 25 per cent of manufacturer's sale price; lubricating oils, from 4½ to 6 cents a gallon.

The transportation of persons tax is raised from 5 to 10 per cent of the amount paid and on the transportation of property a new tax of 5 per cent of the amount paid is imposed.

EMPLOYMENT IN JUNE SETS NEW PEAK WITH 53.3 MILLIONS ON JOB

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—Total employment in the United States reached a new peak of 53,300,000 in June. The Works Projects administration reported today. A rise of 1,700,000 between May and June was revealed.

The announcement followed closely a report by Man Power Chairman Paul V. McNutt that 12,500,000 persons now were engaged in work directly connected with war production.

Despite the rise in employment, however, an increase of 200,000 was reported in the number of persons listed as unemployed, due to the fact that from May to June, the civilian labor force increased by 1,900,000, as young people just out of school sought jobs.

The number of unemployed in June was estimated at 2,800,000 and the total labor force [the number employed plus those seeking jobs] at 56,100,000.

3 GET HUGE FEES ON WAR WORK IN U. S. BUILT PLANT

Contract 'Cut' Revealed; Millions in It.

thought Decker was justly entitled to part of the commission.

Chairman Carl Vinson [D., Ga.] asserted that the three "sales engineers," holding commission contracts with more than two score manufacturers, had an "inside track" at the navy department which had helped them make a profit of $646,701 during the first six months of the year.

"You three men, sitting here in Washington," Vinson declared angrily, "are getting $1,150 each a day, every day for the first six months of this year, including Sundays, while boys are dying at Bataan and Corregidor and on the Lexington.

"I am going to see if I can break up this practice of contingent fees. There's no justification for it. You've built up a clientele and created the impression that these people [the manufacturers] have to come to you to get business with the government, and that you can get specifications changed so that they can handle the work."

"A Fine Approach."

Vinson observed in an exchange with Shirley that "your firm has a fine approach to both the army and the navy—you as a former major and the other two as former navy employés in responsible positions."

With representatives of the justice department, the army, and the navy sitting in, Thomas Hinkel, committee counsel, drew upon a mass of photostatic copies of the firm's records of its operations in recent years.

He read letters from Shirley to the company's clients which contained references to "delightful friends" in the navy department, and to pulling "every possible string" to obtain priority ratings for manufacturers.

"Parasites" Denounced.

In one letter outlining his firm's qualifications to obtain contracts, Shirley denounced "promoters, lobbyists, and fly-by-night" operators engaged in similar work and said that they "simply act as parasites."

He acknowleged that his company, operating as a "jobber," had realized a profit of $50,000 on a government prime contract for chains, altho it had no facilities for manufacturing chains.

Olcott told the committee that his firm was renegotiating contracts with some of the firms it represented at reduced fees.

"The truth of the matter is you folks were getting more money than you knew what to do with, weren't you?" asked Vinson.

"Yes, I guess that's about right," Olcott replied.

Olcott insisted that operations of his firm were legitimate and proper.

Justice Department Represented.

Representatives of the justice department and the army and the navy sat in as Thomas Hinkel, committee counsel, opened the inquiry. He said he would show that:

1. Horace Ward, "an individual who acts for his principals on a contingent fee basis, generally in the amount of 5 per cent," had received a total net income of almost $376,000 for the 18 months ending June 30.

2. The firm of William Scrimgeour and Sons, who furnish "so-called engineering services in addition to their sales activity," had received over $200,000 on naval contracts alone since 1939.

3. John J. Orr, a graduate of the naval academy and a former employé of the Federal Housing administration, had received over $50,000 since January, 1941.

8,500,000 Tires Promised from Dry Ice Rubber Process

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Prompt production of tire material from a new process using makeshift equipment was promised today by W. S. Farish, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. This heretofore unannounced program by America's petroleum refiners, according to the industrialist, will begin to add to the nation's synthetic supplies within the next three or four months and by the end of next year will have made 50,000 tons, enough for 8,500,000 tires.

W. S. Farish.

The new process, Farish told a house mines and mining subcommittee, employs dry ice to obtain a temperature of 150 degrees Fahrenheit below zero for a key chemical operation. The employment of extreme cold, rather than pressure, to keep chemicals in liquid rather than gaseous form is the novelty. Farish said the supply of dry ice will be the limiting factor in the volume of production.

Supplements U. S. Program.

This output from improvised equipment will supplement the government's 650 million dollar program for construction of synthetic plants to have a capacity of 800,000 tons a year. The production from these plants is expected to total 32,300 tons this year and 338,000 tons in 1943. The capacity rate of output is to be reached sometime in 1944.

"The makeshift product will be more costly and will not be as good as the product from the expensive synthetic plants," Farish testified. "But every ton means 170 additional tires, and tires from this emergency rubber will deliver 40 mile an hour service for 10,000 miles under ordinary conditions.

'Not Out of the Woods.'

"This is good news but it doesn't warrant undue optimism on the part of American motorists. We are not out of the woods in this synthetic business. There is still a need for conservation, for a reduction in speeds and for an elimination of unnecessary driving."

A. L. Viles, president of the Rubber Manufacturers' association, this afternoon issued a statement saying that his industry is exercising all of its ingenuity and its technical talents in devising a plan to keep essential war materials and war workers moving over the highways.

"Our plan," said Viles, "does not envision relaxation of present restrictions. It does not permit pleasure driving. When all the facts are compiled and assembled, the plan will be presented to the proper government agencies."

Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones relayed to the senate banking committee a statement from the rubber industry that "with a minimum amount of natural rubber and a modest amount of scrap existing tires can, with careful driving and constant attentions, be kept going for two years or longer."

Retreading with thiokol, which uses small amounts of critical materials, can add 5,000 to 10,000 miles to the life of a tire, he said, and a material called "flexon" made from oil derivatives is promising, while the "so-called butyl rubber bids fair to make a tire probably half as good as natural rubber."

The flexon process mentioned by Jones was one of two methods on which Farish was counting for the extra output. The other was a "quick butadiene" process.

The previously planned 800,000 ton production, he said, would be sufficient to meet the military needs of the united nations, but none of it could be used for nonessential civilian motoring.

Estimate of Production.

Jones testified that it was "believed, from the information at hand, that we will have a production capacity of approximately 100,000 tons by the end of 1942, 300,000 tons by August, 1943, and the entire 800,000 tons by the end of 1943." He emphasized that these were production rates to be attained at the end of 1942 and 1943 and added that "this does not mean that we will produce 800,000 tons in 1943 nor 100,000 tons in 1942." Farish indicated that the additicnal 200,000 tons production might be superimposed upon the government program but mentioned no dates.

In connection with demands for the use of alcohol instead of petroleum for rubber, Jones explained that petroleum appeared to be the only source that was readily available in the early stages of the program.

Predicts Rubber Famine in 1943.

New York, July 16 (AP).—The Lamp, magazine of the Standard Oil company [New Jersey], said in its current issue the united nations will face an absolute rubber famine by the end of next year, despite an expected synthetic production of 300,000 tons in 1943.

Analyzing total supplies of rubber reported by the Office of Price Administration, the magazine said they indicated less than one civilian consumer out of three would receive new rubber in 1943.

"And every pound allocated will go to strictly essential uses, which do not include any new automobile tires for so-called normal driving," it added.

TIRE BAN EASED ON WAR JOBS IF CAR IS SHARED

War workers who participate in car pooling plans yesterday became eligible for second grade new tires if their present tires are not recapable, Michael F. Mulcahy, Office of Price administration director for the Chicago metropolitan area, said. The grade II. tires are of third, fourth, and fifth line quality containing rubber which is not so durable as that in first grade tires.

The grade II. tires were made available to war workers under a recent amendment to tire rationing rules. Previously war workers could get only recaps or retreads.

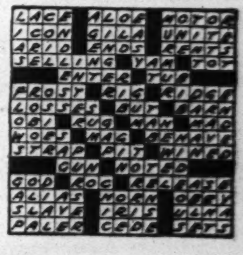
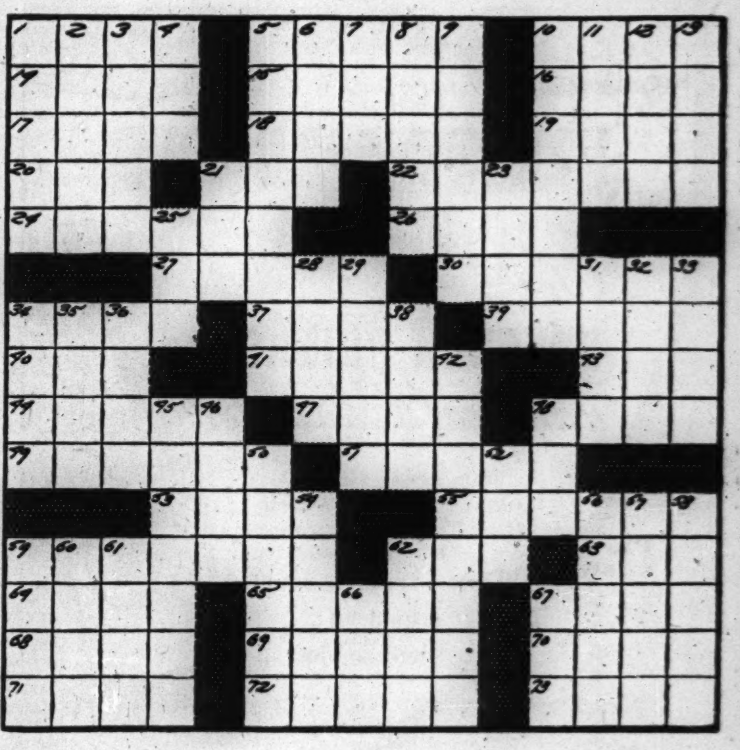
PUZZLE OF WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, SOLVED





CRIME FIGHTERS DEMAND MAYOR FIRE TRIAL BOARD

Base Action on 'Whitewash' of 4 Policemen.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

A blunt request to Mayor Kelly to fire the three members of the city civil service commission was made yesterday by the Chicago Crime commission thru its president, Bertram J. Cahn. The request cited the recent "whitewashing" of four policemen of the former gambling detail as grounds for the removal of the civil service officials whose decision, the anti-crime organization said, "has shaken the confidence of the public in their ability to serve the citizens of Chicago."

The request was contained in a letter addressed to the mayor. It followed by a few days a public statement issued by the executive committee of the organization, which is an affiliate of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The civil service board's exoneration of Police Capt. Martin E. McCormick, Sergt. Tom Lee and Patrolmen Fred L. Trauth and James E. Kehoe was held to be indefensible.

Three Members Responsible.

The officials whom the mayor was asked to fire are the following:

Joseph P. Geary, chairman of the board, Democratic committeeman of the 4th ward.

Wendell Green, Negro lawyer, appointed as Republican member of the commission but recently nominated as a Democratic candidate for Municipal court judge.

William P. Ronan, flour merchant and Board of Trade member, appointed last spring to his first public office.

The crime commission set forth several reasons why Mayor Kelly should oust the three city officials who, it was charged, displayed a biased attitude in the trial of the four policemen, and who made it evident they intended to whitewash the four. The decision was contrary to the evidence, the letter to Mayor Kelly stated.

Rulings Favored Defendants.

Commissioner Green, who conducted the hearings in which the charges of neglect of duty, making false official reports and general inefficiency were considered, took advantage of every technicality to exclude evidence damaging to the policemen, Mayor Kelly was told.

"The evidence introduced and considered by the civil service commission showed gross incompetence within the police department," the letter stated.

"Apparently the sole concern of the city civil service commission was to 'protect' the interest of the accused officers."

The crime body said the evidence showed that Capt. McCormick, then head of the morals division, the department responsible for suppressing gambling, was advised of the existence of 10 gambling establishments in full operation in the loop on June 12, 1940, and that he did nothing about it. Capt. McCormick admitted he had withheld this information from Commissioner Allman, the letter stated.

In Name of Decent Government.

"The Chicago crime commission urges you, in the interest of decent local government, to remove the three present members of the civil service commission," the letter concluded, "and to replace them with representative citizens who will uphold the integrity of our city and protect the welfare of its citizenry."

Several gambling raids were made yesterday by city police, and State Attorney Courtney was proceeding against a number of tavern keepers in the southern part of the county in whose places slot machines were found.

Raid Handbooks, Saloons.

Capt. Michael Naughton of Commissioner Allman's office led raids against handbooks at 433 and 1120 North Clark street, arresting several persons in each place. Capt. Edward J. Kelly of the Pekin Inn station reported a raid on a policy racket headquarters at 226 East 31st street and a large handbook at 3021 Indiana avenue.

Justice of the Peace William Donahue at Homewood imposed fines of $10 and costs of $5 against Fred Kohlman, owner of a tavern at 159th street and Cicero avenue, in Oak Forest; Peter Corsi, owner of a tavern at the same intersection; Kalis Zigmund, 12314 South Halsted street, Calumet Park; and Peter Dicola, 12200 South Green street, Calumet Park. All were found guilty of operating slot machines. The taverns of Kohlman and Corsi are at the entrance to the county infirmary and poor farm.

CLERGYMAN TELLS OF JAP PILLAGE, KILLING IN CHINA

Reaches Here After a Plane, Boat Trip.

Japanese officers give their men three days in which to loot and kill in invaded territory in China, it was charged yesterday by Dr. Casper C. Skinsnes, one of six Norwegian Lutheran missionaries who arrived yesterday in Chicago after spending six years in China.

In the province of Honan, where Dr. Skinsnes operated a hospital, the Japanese left the conquered people in turmoil. Sixty-four bodies were found in one well and 34 in another.

"All," said Skinsnes, "were the victims of Japs."

Flew Out of China.

The doctor and his companions, one man and four women, fled China by airplane to Calcutta, India. They traveled around Capetown by ship and arrived last Monday in New York.

Sister Hilda Peterson of 5120 Altgeld street, left her hospital station in Honan province late in January and traveled by various methods of transportation to another point in unoccupied China where she met other members of her party more than a month later. The missionaries used wheelbarrows, bicycles, and chairs. "Sometimes," she said, "we got rides on trucks."

The Rev. Harold Martinson of Fresno, Cal., reported that many mission hospitals in China have been shut because of a shortage in medical supplies.

Pin Faith on United States.

"The Chinese have great faith in the ability of America to help them win the war," he said. He explained that the Chinese people believe that, having fought against the Japanese for more than five years, they will be able to continue the fight until their allies can give them more aid.

Other members of the party included: Miss Cora Martinson, sister of the Rev. Mr. Martinson; Miss Ethel Jones, and Miss Clara Peterson, nurse. Miss Martinson and Miss Jones are residents of Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Peterson lives in Atwater, Minn.

COUNCIL GROUP CONSIDERS NEW BUSINESS TAXES

A proposal to tax various forms of industry and business thru licenses to offset the deficiency in city revenue expected next year with the reduced use of automobiles and general decrease in other revenue, was discussed yesterday by a special aldermanic subcommittee. The subcommittee, headed by Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], has been charged with studying the city's 1943 budgetary problems. Usually the study of tax problems is not made until November.

The committee indorsed Mayor Kelly's action when he turned down a proposal made last week at a meeting of the executive committee of the Conference of Mayors which would have called on the federal government to supply funds for cities during the war period. The committee agreed that no increases should be made in real estate tax bills.

Frank Flanagan, budget expert for the finance committee, told the aldermen, "You can expect a decrease in the payment of local taxes next year. Our whole revenue is tied up by the tremendous taxes being levied by the federal government."

Turk Envoy Warns British of Dangerous Propaganda

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 15.—Rauf Orbay, Turkish ambassador to Great Britain, today warned a luncheon audience at Birmingham that the British people should not be "influenced by mischievous propaganda which tried to drive a breach between the two countries." Turkey now is quite as strong as last year, he emphasized, but a "false step at present might ruin everything and put both of us in a most difficult position."

HOTEL OWNERS MEET OPA RENT BOSS; AGREE TO SUPPORT CEILING

Control of rents for hotel rooms will require a minimum of enforcement, Earl Dean Howard, Chicago area rent director, reported yesterday after conferring with hotel executives and representatives of hotel associations.

"Hotels have problems different from those in apartments," Howard said. "This is true particularly with regard to the varied services provided by hotels.

"I have advised the hotel associations that when proprietors are uncertain on provisions of the law they should present their problems to the rent director's office and we will make every effort to straighten out difficulties."

Howard said he was gratified by his survey and was assured of the hotel men's support. Rent control affecting hotels, rooming houses, trailers, and other transient accommodations in Cook, Du Page, Lake, and Kane counties became effective July 1 at the same time that rents on apartments, houses, and flats were frozen at March 1 levels.

U. S. WAR MONEY, VOTED OR ASKED, HITS 223 BILLION

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—The War Production board reported today that appropriations approved and proposed for the war program total approximately $223,000,000,000. Appropriations and contract authorizations as of today amount to $212,000,000,000, WPB said.

The naval construction act, authorizing the construction of about $8,550,000,000 of additional naval tonnage, was approved by the President on July 9, but did not carry any specific fund appropriation.

During the first two years of the war effort, ended June 30, federal expenditures for military purposes totaled $34,765,000,000. Of the total, $15,650,000,000 went to the army, $10,211,000,000 to the navy, and $4,098,000,000 to lend-lease.

45,000 ELECTRIC RANGES FREED TO PUBLIC BY WPB

2 Requirements Specified for Purchasers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Approximately 45,000 electric ranges were released by the War Production board this afternoon for sale to the public in cases meeting specified qualifications. Approximately 70,000 have been frozen since May 2 in the hands of dealers, distributors and manufacturers.

Today's order releases for sale all ranges in the hands of dealers and all with a factory sales value of $80 or over in the hands of distributors and manufacturers. The remaining 25,000 are being held for defense houses.

Conditions for Purchase.

To qualify to purchase, a person must certify to the dealer that he meets one of the following conditions:

1. That a new electric range is required to replace one that is worn out, damaged beyond repair, or destroyed.

2. That no other cooking equipment is available, that the premises are wired for the installation of a range, and that electric facilities for range operation are installed.

Ranges may also be used to fill orders for the army, navy, maritime commission or the war shipping administration, but it is believed that few if any of the ranges will be needed for such purposes, inasmuch as such agencies use commercial types not affected by the order.

Normal Month's Supply.

Since production has ceased 70,000 ranges represents the total stock available for the duration of the war. Last year approximately 500,000 electric ranges were manufactured or about 100,000 above normal production. Thus, the 45,000 ranges being released to the public represent normally a little more than a month's supply.

Because of the restrictions placed on their sales, it is expected that the supply will last about six months. After that the public will have to depend on electric ranges already in homes and on ranges heated by other fuels.

Retail prices of electric ranges are subject to the general maximum price regulation prohibiting a dealer from charging more than his highest charge last March. A special price ceiling applies to manufacturers.

TRUCK EQUIPMENT STOLEN.

Thieves stole a truck containing $1,100 worth of equipment belonging to the Kellet company, 525 South Dearborn street, while it was parked at Wells and Harrison streets yesterday, Woodrow Powers, the driver, reported to police.

MRS. MABEL DAHLGREN.

Only one person in court was calm when the famous Dahlgren case was called yesterday before Superior Judge Rudolph Desort, and that was big, handsome Ellsworth [Babe] Dahlgren himself. And, in fact, as the court remarked, the former first baseman for the Cubs, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers, was only an innocent bystander.

Mrs. Mabel Dahlgren, the Babe's present wife, and her former husband, Policeman Joseph Morrison, 917 East 82d street, whom she divorced last Dec. 5, were in court in connection with certain household furnishings. It appears they'd agreed on the divorce that she would give him four diamond rings if he'd give her the furnishings, and that until yesterday neither had given up.

Mrs. Wahlgren, Morrison, and their attorneys got into a hot argument the moment the case opened.

Judge Desort threw up his hands, ruled the matter was after all not an emergency and put it all over to the next term of court in the fall.

OPA TO OPPOSE RATE BOOSTS BY ALL UTILITIES

Harry R. Booth, utilities counsel for the federal Office of Price administration, announced yesterday that the OPA is making a nation-wide survey of requests by public utilities for rate increases with a view to opposing the proposed increases.

Booth arrived in Chicago from Washington, D. C., to argue before the Illinois Commerce commission today in support of the request by OPA last week that the commission reduce Chicago's 8 cent street car fare to 7 cents, the level prior to April 20.

The OPA, Booth conceded, does not have jurisdiction over utilities rates, but, he added, rate increases are contrary to the OPA's efforts to prevent price inflation by holding prices of goods and services below the March level. He said the Northwestern Bell Telephone company recently withdrew a petition for a 15 per cent boost in rates in Iowa after the OPA protested.

Town Wild? Tavern Owners Offer to Pay for More Cops

Tavern owners of Calumet City, which has gained nation-wide notoriety for its solid row of all-night gin mills, last night countered the attacks of outraged citizens by offering to dip into their jangling cash registers for money to pay additional policemen.

Some of the citizens considered this a generous offer. Others were skeptical, wondering how tavern paid policemen would enforce the law any better than the tax paid policemen whose conduct was not approved by some.

Mayor John Jaranowski told the citizens that they should appreciate the offer because they were always complaining that taxes were too high. All in all, the meeting in the city hall left the citizens grumbling as they filed out.

In angry groups, the citizens had gathered 75 strong to tell the mayor that they wanted action immediately. They were surprised to see 25 tavern owners walk into the meeting.

"Tell the tavern owners to get out, Mr. Mayor," said Edward Wahl of 105 State street, chairman of the citizens complaint committee.

"Now look, Mr. Wahl, let's be good neighbors and good Americans," the mayor replied. "This is a public place and they have a right here. Think of the license fees they pay—$400 for a tavern and $375 more for cabaret privileges. We need that money."

Shouts came from various parts of the hall recounting the citizens' complaints.

"We have a 4 a. m. closing law which is terrible. Even that's not enforced. Why not?"

"Throw out the hostesses, the gambling, and make the taverns tone down their loud speakers. Our war workers can't get any sleep night or day."

"Make them close at midnight during the week and at 1 a. m. on Saturday."

Mayor Jaranowski interrupted to say that they had arrived at the main fact—that there are not enough policemen. But the city can't afford to hire any more, he added hastily.

Without discussion, the tavern owners quickly said that altho they starve six days a week they will put up the money for more policemen. The mayor will preside over a subcommittee of citizens and tavern owners to see that this is done, he said.

SURPLUS WHEAT SALES VOTED AT 83c PER BUSHEL

House Gives In to Senate as Deadlock Ends.

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—A two month congressional deadlock over an agriculture department program to convert government owned surplus wheat to united nations war needs by feeding it to livestock to produce meat, eggs, and milk came to an end today as the house gave way to a senate proposal designed to make the program effective.

After rejecting a new compromise proposal offered by Chairman Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.] of its appropriations committee, the house agreed to go along with the senate and allow the sale of 125,000,000 bushels of government owned wheat at 85 per cent of the parity price of corn, or about 83 cents a bushel, for livestock feed and industrial uses.

Twice before, the house had voted to bar such sales unless made at the full parity price of wheat, or about $1.35 a bushel.

Adopted as Amendment.

The long overdue $805,000,000 agriculture department appropriation bill with the wheat surplus sale provision as an amendment was then speedily passed by the senate and sent to the White House.

There had been differences between the two houses over funds for the Farm Security administration but compromise figures approved by the house yesterday were quickly agreed to by the senate.

The break in the house stand came only after President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard had made repeated appeals for the senate proposal. They contended that the house sales price figure would either force advances in livestock feed prices and consequently higher food prices, or result in a smaller production of hogs, cattle, milk, eggs, and poultry needed for the war.

Feared Price Break.

The house had taken the position that sales of government grain below parity prices would violate the parity principle of the federal farm programs and cause a break in wheat and corn prices.

The administration countered with the promise that it would attempt to stabilize grain prices at 85 per cent of parity and pay growers subsidies in amounts sufficient to give them a full parity return on their crops.

[Parity is a price designed to give producers the same returns in terms of other commodities as they received from 1909 to 1914. July wheat closed yesterday at $1.19¾ and July corn at 88⅝c.]

The action of the house in receding from its stand came suddenly after members voted, 128 to 204, to reject Cannon's proposal to set the minimum sales price for wheat at full parity for corn, or about 97 cents a bushel.

Adopted 171 to 57.

The motion to recede from the house position and accept the senate version, made by Rep. Malcolm C. Tarver [D., Ga.], was adopted by a division vote announced by Speaker Sam Rayburn as 171 to 57.

The appropriation bill carried $450,000,000 for soil conservation payments for farmers, $135,319,557 for rehabilitation loans and grants for FSA clients, and $34,175,000 for the farm tenant purchase act.

A maximum of 800 men will be trained in the school, units of 125 men enrolling at two week intervals and completing the required course in eight weeks. An instructional staff of 45 civilians will be sent here by the navy to carry on the work and all types of Diesel engines will be made available to the students.

HARBOR RESCUE WINS CITATION FOR CHICAGOAN

A citation for the soldier's medal has gone forth from one of the war fronts for Corp. Steve Aramian, a Chicago youth whose parents live at 2425 Flournoy street. Aramian, about 22 years old, was on his second enlistment in the 33d division when war began.

The citation reports that during a night landing of American troops in an unnamed port one fell into shark infested waters and Aramian, fully clothed, leaped in after the floundering soldier. He relieved the man of his pack and rifle, threw them on the docks, and, clutching a piling with one hand and the soldier with the other, kept him afloat until aid arrived.

SABATH'S GROUP WARDS OFF LAW TO RULE UNIONS

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP)—House action on legislation designed to bring labor unions under jurisdiction of the federal anti-racketeering statute was reported stymied today by refusal of the powerful rules committee to send the measure to the floor.

"The majority of the committee feels that this is no time to stir up trouble, and that is my personal opinion too," declared Chairman Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.].

THE QUESTION.

Has any person radically changed the course of your life?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Rose Fisher, waitress, 4910 Blackstone avenue—My parents died many years before my high school days and I was dependent, financially and otherwise, upon my older brother. When I decided to quit high school and get a job he persuaded me to finish school first. I know I'm more satisfied now because of his help.

R. L. Sanders, housewife, 2210 Prairie avenue—My mother and I had both planned that I was going to be a nurse. Then she died and my father asked me to stay home and care for my five younger brothers and sisters. When that job was finished I was afraid I was too old to begin all over so I was married.

Marjorie Victorine, waitress, 1463 Michigan avenue—My older sister has always been a great influence in my life. She made her music, philosophy, and religion mine. Because I thought so much of her I married a man, mainly because she approved of him so much. That made a radical change in my life.

Mrs. E. T. Hallan, housewife, 2206 Prairie avenue—When my mother died I was destined to grow up and be educated in a convent. Then my father remarried and my stepmother insisted that I come home and live with them. To live with all the members of my family made a big change in my life.

Eleanor Beilke, waitress, 2148 Marshall boulevard—My big brother was an important influence all thru my life. When I decided to get married he asked me to think it over for six months. I learned then it would have been a terrible mistake and now I give him credit for the happy turn of events.

Mrs. Eva Filkins, housewife, 2210 Prairie avenue—A young man from my home town came to visit us in the city. I was engaged to another man when the visitor came. He changed everything by convincing me he was the man I should marry. I married him and now I know he was right.

KERR NOSES OUT PRIMARY FOE IN OKLAHOMA RACE

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 15 [Special].—Robert S. Kerr, Oklahoma national committeeman, won the Democratic nomination for governor in yesterday's primary after a see-saw race with former Rep. Gomer Smith, virtually complete returns indicated tonight. Sen. Josh Lee [D., Okla.] piled up a clear majority over nine opponents for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

With 184 of the state's 3,674 precincts unreported, Kerr, who is 45 years old and an independent oil man of Oklahoma City, had 141,813 votes to 129,145 for Smith. Five of the state's six Democratic congressmen won renomination, but Wilburn Cartwright, representative of the 3d district for eight terms, was nosed out by State Sen. Paul Stewart, Antlers publisher.

In the November election Sen. Lee will be opposed by W. B. Pine, a seasoned campaigner and the only Republican ever sent to the United States senate by Oklahoma. Pine, an Okmulgee independent oil man, was an easy victor for the Republican senatorial nomination. The Republican choice for governor is W. J. Otjen, Enid attorney and former state senator.

GUARDING UNION LEADER CALLED NEEDLESS TASK

Roofers' Officer Fails to Oust Chicagoans.

Frank Wodylak, international vice president of the roofers' union, who has been investigating affairs of Chicago local 11 since April 8, may have to do without his police guard after today.

Sergt. George Barnes, head of the police labor detail, yesterday said he will go before Commissioner Allman today and explain the facts, as follows: That Wodylak was sent here after 130 rebellious members of local 11 filed suit in the Cook county Superior court last Dec. 3, asking for an accounting of funds, an election to replace officers they charged were holding office illegally, and appointment of a receiver.

Two Policemen Kept Busy.

Wodylak asked and received police protection 16 hours a day, thus tying up two men who represent half of Sergt. Barnes' detail. Wodylak began an investigation and supposedly was to order a new election for July 1. This he did not do and allowed the accused slate of officers to hold their jobs.

Sergt. Barnes reasons that since the police protection was afforded Wodylak to guard him from reprisals by the accused officials and, since those officials have not been ousted, Wodylak has nothing to fear. He will tell the commissioner so today.

Meanwhile, Assistant State's Attorneys Francis McCurrie and William B. Crawford yesterday obtained a subpena, ordering the local's officials to produce their books and records tomorrow before Judge Harold G. Ward in the Criminal court.

Accused of Slugging.

This is in connection with prosecution of Harold Erlandson, charged with having slugged Lawrence Belles, 553 Oakdale avenue, one of the rebellious members of the local who appeared before the international union's Philadelphia convention late in March to ask for intercession in the local's affairs. He was slugged shortly after his return.

Erlandson was arrested and identified as one of the sluggers. Officials of local 11 have denied ever having seen him before. The state hopes to prove thru the local's records that Erlandson worked as a roofer with the local's permission for three months last year. Officials on Tuesday declined to bring in the records voluntarily.

Asked yesterday about the progress of the audit of the local's books, Wodylak said it would be continued until he is convinced the Chicago unit can conduct its affairs without supervision of the international, whose full name is the United Slate, Tile, and Composition Roofers, Damp, and Waterproof Workers' association [AFL].

Tired of Being Pestered.

"The present officers will keep their jobs for the time being," Wodylak said. "If they deserve a clean bill of health they will get one. I am tired of being pestered."

At the local's semimonthly meeting last night, Wodylak repeated that he would keep supervision of things for a while. Irvin Rogers, who was a trustee of the local until he resigned July 1, said he rose to protest, but was silenced by threats he would be tossed into the hall.

Despite the occupation of Lithuania by the Nazis, 10 to 20 requests for information concerning the whereabouts of persons last heard from in that country are received weekly from Chicago residents by the Lithuanian consulate here, Petras Dauzvardis, Lithuanian consul, said yesterday. The consulate, which serves the Chicago Lithuanian settlement, the largest in the United States, is unable to provide this information but is active in aiding Lithuanians who are in the United States on students' and visitors' visas and in handling state matters, he said.

REFUSES TO RAISE $500 PER MONTH INCOME OF BOY, 8

Circuit Judge Cornelius J. Harrington yesterday denied the petition of Mrs. Marion Thorne, 179 Lake Shore drive, for an increase in the $500 a month allowed her son, Montgomery Ward Thorne, 8 years old, from the $2,000,000 estate of his father, Gordon C. Thorne, grandson of Montgomery Ward & company's founder.

The court, however, said that hereafter the income tax on the boy's $6,000 annual income might be paid out of the estate. This was the only increased expenditure allowed from the estate to the widow, who claimed maintenance expenses for herself and her small son are $735 more each month than the $2,100 they jointly receive. In his decision Judge Harrington said:

"The wisdom and judgment of Gordon C. Thorne, deceased, in establishing this limitation, the court feels, was predicated on the intention to create a restraint in the nature of a spendthrift limitation . . . which might qualify him more wisely to manage the sizeable estate which will be his. The court deems itself without authority to change the expressed intention of the testator."

Judge Harrington also allowed several firms of attorneys fees totaling $27,500 in connection with litigation in the estate and its tax matters.

BARRETT FINDS U. OF I. TRUSTEE ON U. S. PAY ROLL

Homer Mat Adams Draws $3,800 a Year.

Attorney General George F. Barrett yesterday threw another firebrand into his controversy with the University of Illinois and its legal counsel, Sveinbjorn Johnson, with the disclosure that Homer Mat Adams of Springfield, one of the university trustees, has been drawing $3,800 a year as assistant to Johnson in the latter's dual capacity as state director of the Office of Government Reports.

Barrett previously had brought out that Johnson was receiving approximately $6,500 as chief of the state OGR, New Deal propaganda agency, in addition to $9,000 a year from the university. On Tuesday it was announced in Washington that Johnson is resigning from the OGR, effective July 31.

Citizens' Group Investigates.

Barrett's charges against Johnson and more general accusations that the administration of the university is shot thru with politics are now under investigation by the citizens' advisory committee of the university. The committee last week asked Barrett to air his charges before its members.

The disclosure concerning Adams' federal employment was made in a letter from Barrett yesterday to Benjamin F. Affleck, chairman of the advisory committee. In the letter, Barrett declined to appear before the committee, asserting that while he has the highest regard for many of its members, he considers it in its entirety as a "hand picked creature" of Arthur Cutts Willard, president of the university, and the Democratic dominated board of trustees. He said the committee's report would be no more than a "whitewash."

Barrett also charged in the letter that he is informed the committee is a vehicle for a draft movement to retain Willard as president of the university when the latter reaches the retirement age of 65 years in 1943.

Adams Active in Party.

Trustee Adams is 31 years old and has been active in politics since he was an undergraduate at the university. He was state chairman of the "Horner for Governor" club in 1936 and was elected a trustee that year. He has also served as president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America and was assistant director of the state department of finance during the last Democratic state régime.

In Springfield last night, Adams said he has been manager of the OGR office in that city since Feb. 2 at the salary Barrett stated. He said this is his only source of income as he receives only expenses for acting as a trustee and has not been active in his law practice.

"I didn't know the Johnson matter is a Democratic-Republican fight on the board of trustees," Adams said. "I have nothing more to say at this time concerning Barrett's charges of politics."

Adams said he did not plan to resign his OGR post and did not know what his status would be when the OGR is absorbed by the Office of War Information.

COLLEGE HEADS TO HEAR JOINT RECRUIT PLANS

Representatives of all accredited colleges and junior colleges in the 6th corps area have been invited to attend a meeting tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the La Salle hotel to hear full details of the proposed joint army, navy, and marine corps recruiting program for college students. Replies to the invitations indicate a lively interest in the project, Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding the corps area, said yesterday. The plan would coördinate the present system of voluntary enlistment in the army reserve with similar systems of the navy and marines, thus simplifying work for the colleges by having one joint board handle enlistments for all three branches of the service, Gen. Grunert said.

Six Feet Two

Bushman, the gorilla, in his cage at Lincoln park zoo.

How high is up?
How tall is Bushman?

Until yesterday these two questions fell into the same class for obvious reasons. They were the great unknown. One couldn't safely attempt to find out the answer to either without loss of life or limb.

But it is commonly known that people are better thinkers than apes, and working from that principle, the park district yesterday found Bushman, Lincoln park zoo's famous gorilla, to be the tallest specimen in captivity, 6 feet 2 inches of mountainous flesh, football muscles, thickets of hair, and girlish ticklishness.

Some time ago, catering to Bushman's one domestic habit of lolling in an easy chair, Floyd S. Young, zoo director, discovered the gorilla's weight by installing a scale under the chair. He shook the scales at 505 pounds.

Several days ago they inveigled him into a smaller cage by tickling him in the ribs [he giggles and runs away like a girl]. They kept him there until his big cage had been painted in white stripes, one foot apart. Bushman lumbered into the trap yesterday, viewed the new interior decorating with disdain, threw a bunch of celery with remarkable aim at a news photographer, yawned and stretched . . . to six feet two inches.

LEGION TO OPEN DRIVE FOR OLD SCRAP RECORDS

The American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary will start tomorrow to collect 37,500,000 old and broken phonograph records to be sold as scrap material to record factories. Proceeds will be used to buy new records, at factory cost, to entertain service men at home and abroad.

The collection will be conducted in coöperation with the Records for Our Fighting Men campaign opened last month by Kay Kyser, Kate Smith, Fritz Reiner, Sigmund Spaeth, and Gene Autry. The plan was approved by the President's committee on War Relief agencies. The government will purchase "juke" boxes, which will be placed in service posts in the United States and overseas.

Lynn U. Stambaugh, national commander of the Legion, is head of the executive committee for the drive. The Chicago and Cook county drive is headed by Arthur E. Canty, commander of the county council, and Mrs. T. F. McManus, president of the auxiliary.

BEAT AND ROB CECIL SMITH, TRIBUNE CRITIC

Three strongarm men early yesterday set upon Cecil Smith, drama critic of THE TRIBUNE, on the lake front near Oak street. They slugged him, knocked him down, robbed him, broke his glasses, and took his shoes, and the key to his rooms in the Medinah club at 505 North Michigan avenue. They left him lying on the cement walk between the roadway and the beach.

Suspecting they might use his key to enter his rooms, Mr. Smith said he rushed to the club in a cab within 15 minutes after they assaulted him. When he arrived, he found the thugs had robbed his rooms of everything that could be tossed quickly into a suitcase.

Among the articles taken, he reported to East Chicago avenue police, were a wrist watch, valuable pigskin suitcase, a suit of clothes, underwear, slacks, studs, and a fountain pen.

More Cooks and Bakers Needed by Expanding Navy

The 9th naval district put out a call yesterday for more men who have had cooking and baking experience in restaurants, hotels, country clubs, and CCC camps. Expansion of facilities at the Great Lakes Naval Training station and other training centers in the district has created the need. Applicants must be between the ages of 18 and 50 and able to meet navy physical requirements.

PRE-NAZI GERMAN CHEMISTS HELP U. S. OUTWIT JAPS

Their Process Is Basis of Tin Can Salvage.

A German chemical process, discovered prior to first World war and improved by American science, will help this country outwit the Japanese who gained control of 90 per cent of America's tin supplies, Charles Lindmueller, manager of the Metal and Thermit corporation's detinning plant in East Chicago, Ind., disclosed yesterday.

In a few weeks the plant will start work on the first carloads of tin cans contributed by Chicago metropolitan housewives, restaurants, and others in the War Production board's salvage drive. The collection of tin cans by 150 city garbage trucks and 300 trucks contributed by the Chicago and Suburban Scavenger association starts today.

Hold Patent Rights.

Lindmueller said the detinning process is employed under patent rights acquired 35 years ago by a predecessor of Metal and Thermit from Th. Goldschmidt of Essen, Germany. The method of washing the tin from the steel plate involves a liquid bath containing alkalies.

In peacetime, Lindmueller said the expense of recovering tin from tin cans would be prohibitive. However, wartime necessity overrides cost considerations, he added.

The company will pay $12 a long ton [2,240 pounds] for tin cans delivered at the East Chicago plant. From each long ton the process will extract about 18 or 20 pounds of pure tin, leaving steel scrap which will be sold to Chicago area steel mills.

Mills Agree to Use Scrap.

Ordinarily steel scrap which is a byproduct of detinning is not desirable for steel production, but the mills have agreed to use this scrap because of the scarcity of better grades, Lindmueller explained.

Lindmueller and William L. McFetridge, salvage director for the Chicago metropolitan area of the Office of Civilian Defense, warned housewives and other tin can users not to turn in dirty tin cans or cans which have contained paint, oils, or chemicals. Lindmueller said foreign substances sour or foul the detinning solution.

The Chicago area quota in the permanent tin drive is nine cans per person, or 3,500 tons a month.

One Collection Weekly.

The tin can salvage drive has been limited to the Chicago area in this section of the country because of its proximity to a detinning plant. The industrial conservation bureau of the WPB has planned construction of other detinning plants if the drive provides an encouraging return.

Lloyd M. Johnson, city commissioner of streets and electricity, advised housewives that regular tin can collections may be only once a week and suggested they call their ward yard offices to determine the day collection is scheduled.

McFetridge has asked the 10,600 members of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, of which he is president, to help housewives arrange for saving tin cans.

Ex-Harvard Student Sued for $200 Over Auto Crash

Eugene Golub, 17 years old, the former Harvard student who was convicted in Cambridge, Mass., of indecent assault upon a girl, 10, whom he spanked in his dormitory room, is defendant in a $200 damage suit filed by Irving Wortman as the result of an auto crash Sept. 3, 1941. A motion by William Pepper, Golub's attorney, to quash the case on the ground that the summons was served on Golub's father, 3250 Lake Shore drive, will be argued Friday in Municipal court before Judge Thomas A. Green.

Friend ★ of the ★ Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

L. M. writes: "Recently I read in your paper about a home correspondence course given by the signal corps. I understood that a person may enlist in the signal corps reserve and take a six months home correspondence course, and, upon completion, be assigned to active duty. Where does one apply?"

ANSWER: The Army institute, with headquarters at Madison, Wis., provides "enlisted personnel" the opportunity to carry on correspondence study which will contribute to their military efficiency. More than 80 American colleges and universities are offering a wide variety of courses in coöperation with the Army institute. Half the tuition and text fees are paid by the government and half by the student. The Army institute offers many courses on a high school level as well as professional work directly related to military activity.

The signal corps has a series of 20 week courses designed to train men to be experts in radio and radio engineering, telephone, and other branches of communication. Those selected receive the equivalent of two years' college work in high frequency comparable to that offered in the senior and postgraduate years at better technical institutions. The preradar course embodies training on the junior year level, and the candidates must have had two years of college mathematics and physics. The radio mechanics courses are open to high school graduates and are equal to those offered in the 1st and 2d year in technical schools.

After six months' training, men are called to active duty for a basic training period of 13 weeks, following which the reservist may become a candidate for officer's training. The age limits are 18 to 45. Men with 1-A draft classifications must enlist, but those with a 3-A rating may retain their civilian status and be paid between $1,800 and $2,600, but must pledge to serve a full year after being trained. Write or apply to Personnel and Training Office, Signal Corps, Room 612, 209 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. A. C. G. asks: "Is it true a young man enlisting in the marine corps is not eligible to receive the $15 per month for a mother if he will make an allotment of $22 from his pay? Can't something be done to remedy this grave injustice?"

ANSWER: Either you or the young man has been misinformed. Men in every branch of service have the opportunity to provide for their dependents. All that the young man need do is to apply on official forms available thru his commanding officer. Payments will begin Nov. 1 or later.

M. J. writes: "My friend's husband is 6 feet 7. What classification will he receive?"

ANSWER: For the present he may expect a 4-F classification.

SERVICE CENTER HOSTESS NAMES MARINE IN RAPE

Robert Markham, 19 years old, of Randolph, Miss., will be arraigned in the Boys' court this morning on a charge of rape. According to police, Markham, a student aviation machinist in the marine corps stationed at Navy pier, met a hostess in the Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street, about nine weeks ago. Last Saturday they danced in the Lincoln Park Service Men's center. He later took her to an abandoned police shanty in the park, she said. The young woman complained to the park district police, who notified Markham's officers. They turned him over for trial in the civil court.

KEEBLER'S POST MAY BE VACANT FOR SOME TIME

Springfield, Ill., July 15 [Special].—Gov. Dwight Green has no immediate plans to appoint a successor to Gilbert E. Keebler as administrative auditor—the so-called post of "watchdog of the state treasury"—which Keebler resigned yesterday, effective Aug. 1.

Reporters discussed the matter with the governor this afternoon. Gov. Green said he had given the question no consideration and might not act for some time. Statehouse observers report that the governor is placing more and more responsibility upon his administrative assistant, Mark Saunders, of Kewanee, who has been political trouble shooter for the administration for about six months.

Keebler's relationship with Green was based on a long and close friendship, which led the governor to name Keebler administrative auditor when Green took office 18 months ago. The post places the incumbent in a position to watch expenditures in every department under the governor's control.

NO EMPLOYABLE WHITE MEN ON RELIEF ROLLS, ADMINISTRATOR SAYS

There are no employable white men on the Chicago relief rolls at present, George J. Klupar, city welfare administrator, told an aldermanic subcommittee on relief yesterday.

"We have only the halt, lame, blind, and Negroes on the rolls now," Klupar said. "Many firms will not give work to Negroes, but that feeling is gradually changing."

The subcommittee, headed by Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], rejected requests for salary increases for relief workers and recommended a loan of $1,000,000 to the welfare administration to be repaid from the sale of 1943 relief tax anticipation warrants.

The subcommittee also recommended the corporation counsel draft a resolution asking the legislature to abolish the present 3 mill relief tax after the loan is repaid.

GARY SALVAGE DRIVE WILL BE A TANKLESS JOB

VFW Demand Return of Their War Trophy.

After 23 quiet years as a museum piece, a World War I. German tank was the center last night of a determined skirmish in Lake county, Indiana.

Peace officers of three communities, backed by angry members of Steel City post, No. 909, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were trying to find out how the six and a half ton rolling fortress happened to disappear from a park on route six, near Valparaiso, and turn up in Michigan City. And in a junk yard at that!

Source of Post Pride.

The tank was a source of considerable pride to the Gary VFW post, which had obtained it thru an act of congress from the Rock Island arsenal, where it had been stored after shipment to this country from Germany. They dedicated it and set it up in the little roadside park.

On Tuesday, however, Charles Titus, a member of the post, was somewhat thunderstruck to observe that the tank had moved from its accustomed place. Titus stared wildly for a moment, then hurried to Gary to notify other post members and spread the alarm. Yesterday the post found a clew.

The Michigan City American Legion post, it seemed, had a laudable project afoot. It was raising money to buy a fine German tank that had turned up, just like that, in the Indiana Salvage company yard on 2d street. The Legion planned to install the tank in a park to stimulate the war effort and local salvage drives.

'Want Our Tank.'

The Gary VFW was stimulated greatly, not to say exorcised, by these tidings. So it was that last evening Capt. George Stark of the Michigan City police was startled from his calm by the sudden descent of the VFW delegation, headed by Roy Hunt, adjutant. The burden of their remarks was: "We want our tank and we want it quick!"

Capt. Stark said to take it easy, that he was sure Henry Winski of the salvage company had obtained the tank honorably or he wouldn't be displaying it so openly. The Gary men said: "We want our tank!" Mr. Winski said he had obtained the relic from a dealer in Valparaiso.

Late last night Deputy Sheriff Ross Krieger of Valparaiso went out to where the tank used to be and made inquiry. All he could find out was that the man who used to run a chicken dinner resort near there had signed a bill of sale with some one Saturday and that shortly afterward a big truck from Michigan City had come along and had taken the tank aboard.

Capt. Stark said he was sure everything would be straightened out today. The Gary delegation finally departed, still muttering: "We want our tank!"

Baby Slaying Case

Mrs. Betty Jane Sheehan, 24, and Joseph P. Clayton, 36, accused in death of a 6 day old baby.

Mrs. Betty Jane Sheehan, 24 years old, 6816 26th street, Kenosha, Wis., and Joseph P. Clayton, 36, 806 14th street, North Chicago, were charged with murder by State's Attorney Harry A. Hall at Waukegan yesterday in connection with the death of the six day old baby whose body, bound with rope, was found in the Des Plaines river on Sunday.

The prosecutor placed the charge after Mrs. Sheehan admitted giving birth to the child and Clayton admitted he disposed of the body. Mrs. Sheehan insisted the baby was born dead and Clayton said he was certain of it. He said he took the small body, wrapped in a Waukegan newspaper, from the mother's Kenosha rooming house, wrapped the rope around the bundle to hold the paper intact, and threw it into the river.

"I never even looked at the baby," Clayton said.

Records at Waukegan show that Clayton was arrested on a charge of wife and child abandonment on April 12, 1940, and placed on probation May 14, 1940. His wife, Linda, and their children, Marylin, 4, and Theodore, 10, live in Antioch, Ill. Mrs. Sheehan's husband, Robert, divorced her Sept. 10, 1940.

ARMORED FORCE GETS SALUTE OF RAMPARTS SHOW

The armored force will be saluted on the broadcast of Americans at the Ramparts over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8:30 to 9 o'clock tonight. The program will also call attention to the observance of American Heroes' day tomorrow.

The broadcast tonight will portray the story of the changeover of the American automotive industry from cars to tanks. There will be sequences from testing grounds, after which the scene will shift to battlefields in Libya and Russia where American tanks have been in action.

N. Y. MARTIAL SET BEATS A PATH TO STORK CLUB GHQ

No. 1 Character Assassin Eyes All Comers.

Few Common Soldiers.

A few men from the ranks are seen in these charming precincts, but they seem to know their way around so well that one assumes they were regular patrons in their civilian days. Eddie Zimmerman, the night manager who looks like a well dressed but oversized detective out of a Dashiell Hammett mystery, greets them obsequiously, and they get fine ringside tables.

Some who manage to get as far inside as the bar with its sign, "No Dancing from the Bar," often leave precipitately. A New Zealand pilot was ushered out with deft rapidity the other night when he demurred about the exorbitant price of his drink.

One ordinary sailor, a radio operator, now has a gold admittance card to the place. He happened to be voted the best dressed sailor in the Easter parade here this spring and quickly became the toast of the town for a week. When he sauntered back to the Stork club recently, the doorman unceremoniously sent him on his thirsty way. He protested to an important sponsor, who protested to Billingsley, who said, "O, that won't happen again."

Playboys at Bar.

Similarly, most of the officers now haunting the club are New York playboys who applied for commissions, for only a wealthy officer can afford it. Many come down from Fort Deven, Massachusetts, where "New York's own" are quartered. More, however, stem from 90 Church street, an office as celebrated in café society as 10 Downing street is in international diplomacy.

Ninety Church, as it is familiarly known, is the New York army and navy headquarters, and its uniforms are so visible as they hurry thru the dim-out to the Stork and other clubs that a new ditty is about to supplant the Pelham bay song of the last war.

In the last war so many exquisite New York boys, Winchell among them, entered the navy and won the war at Pelham bay here in what was known as the rowboat fleet that a song commemorated them. Its opening lines were:

"Mother, take down your service flag
Your son's at Pelham bay."

Ditty Goes the Rounds.

The ditty now going the amused rounds of New York is a poem by Eleanor Hart in the current issue of the New Yorker. Certain couplets from it are:

"Twinkle, twinkle, little star,
How I wonder what you are,

Shining on an ensign's sleeves,
Tell me which I may believe:

Is his post a storm swept perch
Or a desk at 90 Church? . . .

I'm puzzled as each stalwart one
Joins the throng at Twenty-One:

Does he answer 'battle stations'
Or letters headed 'press relations'?"

Of all these gallants, only Lieut. Comm. Winchell no longer wears his uniform. As a matter of fact, he no longer is entitled to use his title, as the navy at 90 Church says he has been retired into the inactive reserves. The navy says tartly that his period of active service was brief and will say no more. However, navy officers report unofficially that during that time he did make one venture in the perilous waters of the sea. This was on the trial run of the new battleship, U. S. S. North Carolina.

Stands Boldly on Deck.

It was a great day for the lieutenant commander. He stood boldly on the deck and interrogated his fellow officers. He assured them there was no danger involved in the one day run. His fellow officers took exception to this.

"When we fire a broadside," one said in solemn mockery, "we drop anchor. This often causes a terrific repercussion on board, often killing men on deck."

The visiting lieutenant commander was properly shocked. "We can't have that!" he stormed. "What if European newspapers were to come out with headlines, 'America's No. 1 patriot killed in sham broadsides!'"

JANET READE.

New York, July 15 (AP).—Sixty-two year old Pat Rooney II., former top ranking vaudeville star, will be married within a few days to Janet Reade, former Ziegfeld star and once his daughter-in-law. They obtained the license today in Hoboken, N. J., and she gave her age as 32. The bride was married to Stanley Batchelor, theatrical manager, before her marriage to young Pat Rooney. She and young Rooney, who will soon be her step son-in-law, were divorced July 6.

ARGUES AGAINST GAS RATE CUT FOR WAUKEGAN

A. W. Conover, president of the North Shore Gas company, yesterday told the Illinois Commerce commission that increased operating costs of more than $90,000 a year make it impossible for the company to reduce gas rates charged its 30,000 customers.

Conover was summoned by the commission to discuss the company's charges after a complaint was received that the rates were 15 to 30 per cent more than comparable rates in Chicago. North Shore Gas serves Waukegan and seven other nearby communities.

The company's annual cost of coal and oil has increased $66,000 and $24,000 this year, Conover said. He also argued it was unfair to compare the north shore rates with charges in more densely populated Chicago.

The commission set July 27 for a hearing to fix reduced rates to be charged Chicago gas users as a result of a recent cut in pipe line rates paid by that utility. The company has offered to cut its rates by $1,200,000 a year, or only half the saving it receives in pipe line charges. Gas rates of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company, serving Rock Island and Moline, have been cut $66,569 a year, or 6 per cent, as a result of reduced pipe line rates, the commission said.

LEARNS HE CAN'T BEAT THE PONIES; COST IS $106,000

Detroit, Mich., July 15 [Special].—Walter W. Gee, 33 years old, chief clerk of the Detroit branch of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, learned with $106,000 of his employer's money that his horse race betting system was no good. Gee pleaded guilty today to charges of embezzlement and will be sentenced July 22.

Prosecutor William E. Dowling said that Gee confessed taking the money over a 10 year period because he needed $200 a week more than he earned in order to make horse race bets and maintain a lavish style of living.

"You look like an intelligent man," Judge John P. Scallen said to Gee. "You should know that there isn't any system anywhere that will beat the races."

"I found that out," Gee replied.

The alleged embezzlement was discovered last April when tire rationing caused the Detroit branch of the Goodyear firm to cease doing a cash business. Dowling said that Gee had been manipulating the funds in the cash account but when he shifted to checks the defalcations were discovered.

HEARING IS OFF, SO CHILD BRIDE HAS CELL PARTY

Dons Shoes While Kinfolk Inspect Plumbing.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jasper, Tenn., July 15.—Lily Parsons, the quick trigger child bride, entertained her brothers and her sisters and her cousins and her aunts in jail today.

Fortune smiled on her. Her preliminary hearing for shooting Snoop Redmond to death in a mountain liquor feud was postponed until tomorrow. And that gave her an opportunity to invite her kin folk in for a party, instead of disappointing them after they had made long trips thru the mountains.

Lily, who is 15 years old, claimed all the credit that was due her. She had shot Snoop all right, after he and his family and she and her family had shot it out for half an hour without any one hitting any one else.

Sister Real Heroine.

But she and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Parsons, gave credit in regal style where credit was due. They told the story of Mrs. Gladys Pickett over and over, to every one who came.

Gladys, Lily's sister-in-law, did some very creditable shooting herself. Using the very same shotgun with which Lily killed Redmond, Gladys shot three times at Cecil Carter, one of Redmond's friends.

True, Gladys didn't hit her target. But it wasn't her fault. Her aim was true. But he was shifty. He dodged just in time, every time.

Gladys, a bride 17 years old, let the others tell the story. But when she hung her head, she wasn't denying it. She was only being modest.

Lily Wears Shoes.

Lily didn't patter around in her bare feet today. As she had promised, she wore a pair of shoes, and a gay red print dress that some of her relatives had brought her.

Most of the women who came today carried babies in their arms. They asked about the jail food and were delighted to learn that Lily has everything she wants to eat, including a box of chocolates brought by a visitor.

The guests seemed fascinated by Lily's luxurious bath—a shower connection on a water pipe and a wash tub in which to stand. It's in the men's quarters, but when Lily wants to cool off, Sheriff Jack Bean chases the men prisoners into another room.

Envy Ice Water.

Some of the guests envied the pitchers of ice water the sheriff brings Lily whenever she wants it more than the bath.

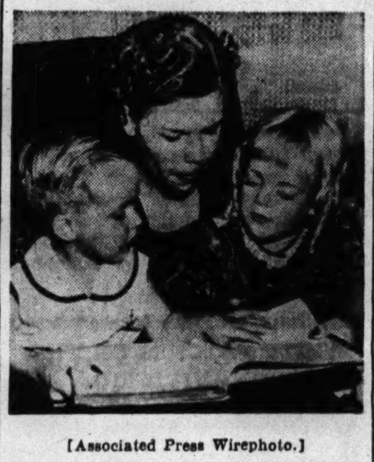
Judge W. M. Abels and Squire D. M. Bryant, who had planned to share the bench, postponed Lily's hearing because the lawyers weren't ready.

Some who know the mountains predicted today that there will be more shootings in the feud. Snoop, whose first name was Sollis has been accused of telling revenue officers that Lily and her 15 year old husband, Walter, were stilling mountain dew. That was long before Lily accused Snoop of hi-jacking their mountain dew—the thing that brought on the shooting last Saturday.

Nine Prisoners Paroled in June; 67 Pleas Denied

Nine prisoners were ordered paroled during June in hearings before the state division of correction, it was announced yesterday in Springfield. Paroles were denied in 67 cases, and nine were continued for further study. Twenty-two paroles were ordered effective in June in cases heard at earlier hearings, and 56 effective in future months. Final discharges were granted to 112 parolees.

Tells of Tragic Cruise



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Fern Thompson, 23, and her two children, Tommy, 2, and Jacqueline, 4, thumbing thru log book of the yacht Wing On in Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 15 (AP).—Mrs. Fern Thompson, only survivor of the tragic 105 day cruise of the yacht Wing On in the south seas in 1940, gave her first interview today. Thumbing idly thru the craft's log book, she said that she had been lashed to the mast in the late stages of the voyage so she could help man the sails. Her husband, Chester, and two companions, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Conly, died of starvation and exposure. Mrs. Thompson was found lashed to the mast by a missionary, and was rescued. Psychiatrists have been working nearly two years to restore her memory, lost in the nightmare of the voyage, by reading to her passages from the log. Today was the first time she herself had seen it since the voyage.

FREE 5 OF 6 WHO TALKED WAY INTO TRAINING SCHOOL

Five of six Chicago young men who talked their way into the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, Tuesday were released to their parents yesterday by Sheriff Marcus Damisch of Kane county. The sixth, Roy Scarlata, 17 years old, 1022 Cambridge avenue, was held in $3,000 bond on a charge of automobile larceny after he confessed stealing the car in which the six were riding.

All the young men contended they had gone to the school to visit a John Taylor. They were arrested when it was found no person by that name ever had been confined there.

Linden, Ind., Bank Robber Killed in Prison Quarrel

San Francisco, Cal., July 15 (AP).—Maurice M. Herring, serving 20 years in Alcatraz prison for bank robbery, died today, a few minutes after being wounded with a knife in a quarrel with a fellow prisoner. Herring was sentenced at Indianapolis, Ind., on June 13, 1939, for his part in the $2,000 holdup of the Linden State bank a month previously. Robert C. Baltzell pleaded guilty with Herring and received a like sentence.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE MEN OF MIDWAY.

There will be infinite regret that 307 of the bravest of America's brave met death in the ocean west of Midway Island, but in the hearts of all Americans there will be infinite gratitude for their accomplishment and infinite pride in their deeds. The young airmen who have found graves beneath the Pacific are surrounded by the sunken hulks of Japan's great vessels of war. The wreckage of 275 Japanese warplanes is strewn about them on the ocean floor. For every one of them who died the Japanese paid with 15 lives.

No American can read with anything but a quickening heart the navy's low keyed account of how these young flyers smashed the might of Japan. Disciplined courage is there in every line. The arrogant confidence of Japan rode with the vast armada of 80 ships against Midway, but when the battle was over a handful of American airmen had dealt Japanese sea power a blow from which it may never recover and had won the greatest naval victory of modern times.

If there ever has been an "invincible" armada since 1588, it was this one sent out by Japan. The terrible blows taken by another Japanese fleet at the hands of American airmen in the Coral sea had far from convinced the admirals in Tokio that they had met something more than their match. This time the fleet that would put to sea would be so huge, so powerful, that the result could not be in doubt. First Midway, then perhaps the Aleutians or Hawaii; and who can say that the west coast of the United States and a peace to be dictated in the White House did not lie at the end of the Japanese dream?

The emperor of Japan had made vast conquests and the fleet sent against Midway was his proof of controling the sea, but he did not reckon with the resolution of the American flyers that he should never possess the regions of the air.

It was that resolution, against which the thought of death was never balanced for a moment, that sent the Americans winging thru the anti-aircraft barrage and the Japanese pursuit screen to discharge their deadly loads. The calm statement of accounting tells the price they were willing to pay: "Two of the four bombers failed to return. . . . Only one of these six planes returned to its base. . . . Only half of the attacking planes returned. . . . The Japanese were engaged by a badly outnumbered marine corps fighter force. . . . The total damage inflicted by this squadron may never be known. None of these 15 planes returned."

The only survivor of 30 officers and men in the squadron of 15 torpedo planes that, unprotected and unassisted, pressed home the attack upon an enemy carrier force was a young ensign who bobbed for hours in a lifebelt after his plane had been shot into the sea. That night he saw a fantastic sight: Three carriers passed him, blazing fiercely. One was shelled and finished off by a cruiser of its own force. The others sank before morning.

Many of the men responsible for the terrible havoc inflicted on the enemy went to their deaths without knowledge of the magnitude of the victory. But their comrades at sea and on the Pacific islands know it, and it is known to their people at home, to their allies everywhere, and, most of all, to their enemies. Never did men die with a firmer dedication to their country and to the cause of freedom. Their heroism was glorious and unforgettable. It should inspire all the forces of the united nations to realize that wars are won by men possessed of courage, discipline, and the will to fight against heavy odds. The Pacific has taken some of our heroic airmen but only after they had taken the Pacific.

NICKNAMES.

The only member of congress who has seen fit to insert his nickname in his official biography in the Congressional Directory is C. W. [Runt] Bishop, representative from Illinois' 25th district. Some who explore Mr. Bishop's motives might say his attitude in vaunting this nickname is defensive, his given name being Cecil William, which in some strata of society might be considered sissy.

It may be said, however, that Mr. Bishop's frankness in admitting that he is known to intimates as Runt springs from the valid perception that a nickname is a normal part of human baggage and often conveys a truer estimate of a man's nature than a more formal description. Nicknames are usually of two categories. One is in the nature of exact description, on the order of "Red," "Pinky," "Shorty," or "Sawed Off," the last fitting a speakeasy impresario who was well and favorably known about town in former days. The other category comprehends nicknames based upon exaggeration or hyperbole. Thus football tackles weighing 225 pounds are usually known as "Tiny," while two of the tallest men who come to mind were called "Shorty."

Considerable genius has been expended on the coinage of nicknames and one of the most apt was "Iron Pants," borne by the late Gen. Hugh Johnson, who happened to be as tough as the name sounded, besides being a cavalry officer. Prize fight circles and the underworld are, of course, rich in fanciful monickers, while debutantes of tender upbringing incline to call one another "Stinky." It will be noted in this connection that "Babs," which frequently attaches to wealthy heiresses, is a contraction, not a nickname.

The nicknames most honestly come by are those earned in the world of sports. Mr. Bishop describes himself as a onetime professional football and baseball player and manager. The name suggests a peppery individual inclined to argue with the umpire, which is an invaluable background for a minority member of congress.

Of late a large number of gentlemen closely associated with the New Deal have come to acquire nicknames, most of them highly descriptive and associated with acts or idiosyncrasies that have attracted unfavorable notice. Thus we have Paving Block Flynn, Sen. Swimming Pool Chandler, Iron Fence, or just Fence, La Guardia, and Egg Crate Ickes. There is also Mr. Henry [White Feather] Luce and Mr. Ralph [Unhappy Warrior] Ingersoll, the editor of PM, who holds with Falstaff that discretion is the better part of valor. These nicknames are of such recent derivation that they need not be explained at length, but they add variety to contemporary folklore if not luster to their previously unadorned owners.

THE MAYORS TURN DOWN A FREE RIDE.

The war is putting financial stress on local governments. Cities face additional duties at the same time that war disruption of the national economy cuts their revenue. In these circumstances, Mayor Kelly and the other members of the financial board of the national conference of mayors showed good sense in turning down the proposal that the federal government be asked to subsidize local governments.

The proposal came from Mayor Tobin of Boston, whose spokesman contended that the amount asked, half a billion dollars, would be insignificant beside the 75 billions the federal government expects to spend this year. It wasn't the money involved, however, that caused the mayors to reject Mr. Tobin's proposal that they ask Uncle Sam for a free ride. They turned the plan down because they could see who was going to drive the carriage if they got the ride. The minute they start taking federal money, federal burocrats are going to start telling them what to do.

Instead of asking subventions, the mayors are asking the federal government to contribute to local government in the form of taxes. They want no free ride, but they object to giving federal government a free one thru tax exemption.

The cities' revenue difficulties arise in large part from these exemptions. By act of congress the machinery in defense plants financed with federal funds is exempt from local taxation. A bill is now before congress to exempt from state and local sales taxes purchases by contractors executing government orders. The mayors want the property tax exemptions repealed and the sales tax prohibition defeated.

It is well settled that governments at the different levels, federal, state, and local, refrain from taxing the ordinary facilities of the other governments. But the war has thrown this relationship out of balance. The federal government, directly or thru agents, has taken over much of the productive facilities of the nation, the facilities from which local governments collected a major portion of their revenue. Some adjustment is obviously necessary if local governments are not to starve to death.

Whether the federal government pays a subsidy or waives tax exemption makes no difference insofar as the money is concerned. Either way it comes out of the treasury at Washington. But if the subvention is paid, the local governments soon lose their independence. Whatever they get in the form of taxes, however, they get as their right, and not as a gift, and they are under no obligations to take orders from Washington.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES.

Mr. Cahn's chart in the financial section on Tuesday showed the distribution of jobs by pay rates in civilian and war industries, based upon a study of the United States department of labor for January, 1942. At the time of the survey a little more than half of all factory workers—or 5.75 million out of 10.45 million—were on war work, but war workers had the bulk of the good jobs. Of 610,000 factory workers getting over $1.20 an hour, 450,000 are on war contracts. Of 570,000 receiving $1.10 to $1.20 an hour, 450,000 are in war industries. There are some 2 million jobs in manufacturing establishments at $1 an hour or better; more than a million and a half of them are in war industries.

From these figures it is clear that it is the workers in war plants who are getting a large part of the increased income being received by all of the people of the country this year. The same fact is brought out by the studies of the United States department of commerce. The total nonagricultural income of the country in May was $1,284,000,000 greater than in May, 1941. Of this total, workers' incomes accounted for $1,195,000,000.

The income tax is shortly to be advanced again. The avowed purpose is to drain off a large part of the increased income resulting from the war. But while the bulk of the increased incomes go to wage earners the bulk of the taxes are to be paid by others. A $2,500 a year family head with two children pays a quarterly income tax of $3 at present, or a dollar a month. Under the tax bill just agreed upon he will pay $20 a quarter, or $6.67 monthly. Harry Scherman in a recent article in the Saturday Evening Post stated that in 1943 persons with incomes less than $5,000 will receive a total of at least 85 billion dollars, of which they will pay only 3 billion dollars in income taxes.

The income taxes being paid—or to be paid under any plan which has been given legislative form—will not curtail the supply of spending money of those who are getting all but a small part of our greatly increased national income. For several years congress has been raising the income taxes annually. The persons hit are always those in the upper and middle income brackets. Is the problem of using taxation realistically never to be faced? Will congress never recognize that forcing a Hyde Park doctor to draw on his accumulated savings to meet his income tax is not reducing the danger of inflation arising from the doubling of the wages of skilled workers?

THEY'RE LEARNING.

Civilization seems to be spreading to the feudin' country of Tennessee, if one may judge by the utterances of the latest child bride to be led shoeless to jail for murder. Child brides who have resorted recently to the shooting iron have not fared very well, two of them having been sentenced to 20 years each. At the tender age of 15, however, Lily Parsons has discovered the proper formula. Of her victim, who callously hijacked 50 gallons of the best Parsons moonshine, she states: "He grabbed the gun. It went off when he tooken hold." Now, if by trial time Lily can only learn to add: "Then everything went black," the judgment ought not to be in doubt. That's the way ladies who take potshots explain it up here, and just ask them if it doesn't work.

ONCE CALLED "LITTLE HELL."

In the cool of the evening, with stalwart and learned auxiliaries, we went to inspect the Mother Cabrini slum clearance and housing project. If you want to follow our example without walking, look west from an elevated train window immediately north of the Chicago Avenue station.

• • •

This is an extensive layout of plain brick oblongs, certainly of sociological value as replacement for the decaying shacks and tenements which formerly covered that area. But if you have an eye for the picturesque, you need not tarry there, altho the view up the street of St. Michael's lofty steeple, nearly a mile away, is quite good.

• • •

"This area," says Homer Hoyt in a recent publication of the Chicago Plan commission [the region between Sedgwick street, the river, Chicago avenue and Division street] "has remained from first to last a slum." It has been called, at various times, "The Patch," "Kilgubbin," "Little Hell," and "Little Sicily." Its racial character has been successively Irish, German, Swedish, Italian, and at present is largely Negro.

• • •

The vanished Swedes left a landmark on Orleans street in the form of a church which still displays its old name over the portal: "Forste Svenska M. E. Kyrke." It is now in use, however, as St. Matthew's, Methodist Episcopal, with a Negro congregation. This church was built in 1874. . . . Ralph Fletcher Seymour, the artist of our expedition, said he was coming back to the Svenska Kyrke with his etching kit.

• • •

The future dwellers in the Mother Cabrini pueblos will have quarters spacious enough for family life if the children do not become too numerous, and also bathrooms. This is reassuring; there is no sure cure for "blight," but a bathtub in the home has a salutary effect on blighters.

BIG BUSINESS MAN.

Pretending scorn for treasures he knows no more
The meadow-wide and sky-free years of yore
That pleasured his still unforgotten ways),
He goes now brisk, and brusque, and businesslike
(Or so appears), intent on large affairs;
Sputters impressive memos, mans the mike,
Commands, promotes, campaigns, decides, and dares.
But catch him in some uncompanioned place—
Or in that small dark time ere sleep's embrace,
When nought is by but night and the might-have-been—
And you shall see what God sees: but a boy

The Duke Feels the Pangs of Fame.

Hon. Linemaster: They used to be a story floating around which was sumpthin about if ya make a better rat-trap tha people will beat a path to your dore even if ya live way out in tha sticks. Well on a/c I wrote a book which people claim is as good as any rat-trap I'm getting pestered day an night by birds who want tha hole world to know who an what I am.

Tha 1st sharpshooter suggests I oughta go to a quiet little place in tha country an write my memoirs, an I tells him I dont know anybody who wood lend me their place an then tha cat comes out of the sack, he's juss a real-estater whose trying to sell me a summer resort cottage. Before he can finish his spiel a'la riparian rights, fruit trees, paved road, moonbeams and etc. I tells him it appears that he's got about everything but that I wood hafta inform him that he overlooked tha most important of all, when he asks what he overlooked I tells him tha fact that I aint got any dough. He left very suddenly.

Next night comes a bird who advises that a man of letters, in fact a genius of my standing in tha world of literatchure should certainly posess a mausoleum for my ashes. Well, I insist he goes down in tha basement an see my new stoker which burns tha coal so they aint no ashes and I juss cant make him quit talking about his thingamajig being something altogether foreign from mine, so I excuse myself an turn him over to tha mama who tells tha gent our kids aint old enough yet to take lessons an besides shes already set on making them take on the piano. He also departed pronto.

Yesterday I'm hooked again by a smart cookie who claims I cood make millions if I wood let him pay me royalties by puttin out a soft drink called "Duke a Cola." This dont sound so bad until he unfolds what he calls a prospectus. I'm to put up $5,000 fer a factory, an he wood put up a equal amount in brains. Well, I suggests he put up tha 5 grand and let me furnish tha brains and then he says. "So your tha goof that wrote 'Love, Honor and O'Boy,'" an before I can swell out my chest he says, "Go lay another egg" and slams tha door.

Who claims that roving skies are ever bright?

Who preaches that there's naught in life to fear
And that the Guardian Angel's always near?
Who substitutes gay laughter for the tear?

WHITE PATCHES ON THE SKIN—VITILIGO.

YOUR complexion and mine depends upon heredity and environment. Fair haired blondes, as a rule, are found among the inhabitants of colder countries. The skin of those who dwell in the tropics is usually darker.

But, now and then a curious condition, known as "vitiligo" or "leucoderma" [meaning white skin] will be observed. The disorder is characterized by loss of pigment from irregular areas of the cuticle and the backs of the hands are favorite sites. When the scalp is involved, the hair may become colorless in a circumscribed region. While many cases exist they rarely come to our attention unless the face is affected. In brunettes particularly, the blemish—altho it may be small—will stand out prominently.

The cause is shrouded in mystery but it certainly has nothing to do with general health. The lesions appear only rarely in childhood and, after 40, are relatively uncommon. Is it an infection? Well, no one has been able to submit proof.

Several years ago considerable interest was aroused over the pronouncement that we were dealing with a deficiency disease. From the gastric juices of many of these patients, hydrochloric acid was entirely absent and some improvement was claimed when the acid was prescribed as a medicine. Small doses of arsenic have also been tried, with the hope of reëstablishing the pigment deposits.

Again, it has been suggested that it may be due to a vitamin failure because the graying of hair in experimental animals can be brought about thru depriving guinea pigs, rats, etc., of B complex. While no specific has been perfected thus far, there is reason to believe that our studies in nutrition can be carried further with the possible discovery of the missing link.

In this connection, the activity of the adrenal glands must be considered. Recently, the injection of extract of adrenal cortex — minute amounts directly into the muscles—has been advocated and some results are mildly favorable. The chief objection to this plan is that the blood pressure may rise. This must be watched. The program calls for a tiny dose each day for a week, followed by a period of abstinence. A second or even a third series may be administered. Of course, the preparation should be used only by a skilled physician who can gauge its effect upon the circulation.

Fortunately, ill health is not at stake. Only the cosmetic effect is to be considered. If the patches appear on the hands or on concealed parts of the body, nothing need be done. Some of my friends are able to use vegetable dyes or stains as effectively as milady employs rouge. Victims can become makeup artists by selecting just the right shade.

HEART TERMS.

B. F. D. writes: What is the difference between heart trouble and a bad heart action?

REPLY.

The organ may be out of tune. Nevertheless its performance will be efficient. At other times, a figurative discord will mean trouble. There is just one question—is the circulation maintained at par?

AN AFTERMATH.

H. G. writes: What is surgical mumps?

REPLY.

Swelling of one or both of the parotid glands occurs occasionally following abdominal surgery. The condition presents an unwelcome complication. Sometimes an abscess will form which will require drainage.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, The Tribune.

OVERSEAS MAIL DELIVERIES.

Chicago, July 9.—The cartoon yesterday illustrating the heartbroken feeling of a soldier when he doesn't receive word from home should have proved effective for the families of boys stationed here on duty in our own country, but how about the boys "over there?" Our boy, [my brother] has been stationed in Australia since February. We've written every day since we were notified of his arrival in that country. There's not always news, but there are a few words to show that he's always in our thoughts.

Yesterday we received a letter from him dated May 5. That's over two months ago, and he wrote that the last letter he received from home was dated March 17. We're doing all we can and I'm sure that millions of others are doing the same, so the fault doesn't lie with us. It's with the mail service. A short while ago the newspapers printed an article about the government speeding the mail service. Here's hoping they do it soon so that our boys won't think we've forgotten them and they have to wear that heartbroken look.

ANSWER TO FAULT FINDERS.

Chicago, July 9.—A young lady complained the other day in this column about the discourteous attitude of elevator operators, street car conductors, motormen, and waitresses. I wondered as I read the article if she would like to have any of the above positions for just one day. There is always a person who wants to get off on the third floor when the elevator is at the fifth—there is always some one who wanted to get off at First street, but doesn't get up until the car reaches Second street, and then the conductor and motorman both "should have known better." And always some one can't decide between corn beef hash or rice pudding while the waitress stands by. It's no easy task to understand the general public.

ALIEN ENEMIES.

Chicago, July 12.—I was shocked as I read the following today: "Chicagoans Ask F. D. R. to Cancel Bridges Ouster." The letter sent to President Roosevelt was signed by several ministers, a rabbi, two lawyers, a labor official, and Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee.

Just what interest these people have in Bridges' retention in the United States isn't clear. I suggest the FBI find out.

This fellow Bridges has been coddled enough. I dare say should those eight German spies now on trial be sentenced to death another group of soft-heads will demand their pardon. Isn't it about time we got tough with these alien enemies?

FLAT BUILDING FOR SALE.

Chicago, July 7.—I have just read that a certain chain store has been permitted an increase of 13 per cent in their meat ceiling prices. Mr. Henderson says the case sets an example of the prompt relief available to "retailers" in cases of hardship arising from price ceilings.

Landlords have asked for a 4½ per cent increase, and I challenge any one in Washington to prove that such an increase is not warranted. Just name one item used in the management of an apartment building that has not increased 10 to 40 per cent. I don't think there is a landlord in Chicago who hasn't lost rent thru one reason or another during the last 10 years. Cases are rare where a landlord has put a tenant out on the street for nonpayment of rent. In fact, just try to do it.

Have you ever tried to service your own building? Then you know what a howl the janitors' union puts up. It can't be done. Are you planning on doing a minimum amount of decorating? Even tho cost and labor have gone up 15 per cent, you'll have to do the same you did last year, and don't try to do any of it yourself, because the union will call off the janitor and milk delivery. If you do not furnish enough heat, the health department will get after you, but is there a ceiling on coal? Or taxes?

I tacked up a "For Sale" sign today.

"OUTSTANDING WAR CARTOON."

Fort Bragg, N. C., July 10.—There appeared in your paper on July 8 a colored cartoon by McCutcheon entitled, "One of the Hardships of War." This cartoon has touched the spot of us service men. We feel it is the outstanding war cartoon of the year.

I have always admired especially McCutcheon's "Injun Summer," which I still look forward to each year. I am sure that your readers will be grateful for the patriotic reminder now given by Mr. McCutcheon in behalf of us soldiers who are far away from our homes and loved ones.

OUR SANE FOURTH.

Chicago, July 10.—Public thanks should be expressed to those who are responsible for having framed and secured the passage of the Illinois law preventing the sale of fireworks. The pleasant, quiet holiday which we experienced this year as a result of that law—not to mention the lack of accidents—is certainly proof of the benefits of the law.

VIOLA MORAN.

RUBBER FROM FARM CROPS.

Racine, Wis., July 9.—May I introduce a thought with reference to the controversy between the agricultural and petroleum interests as it relates to synthetic rubber? We know that petroleum is a natural resource produced thru a long process—thousands of years. We also know that there is a limit to the amount available. It is not readily replacable. We also know that it serves as a base for synthetic rubber. Alcohol, a byproduct of agriculture, also serves as a base for synthetic rubber. These two products are not so competitive for use as fuel for automotive equipment. Gasoline is still a logical fuel and if we wish to conserve it, let's start now.

We, as farmers, can produce agricultural products out of which to make alcohol with about 100 days of sunshine and rain. These products can be grown year after year. Added to that, it would put agriculture on a more stable basis. It would eliminate a surplus of some commodities.

A BUYER FOR THE WOOL.

Dixon, Ill., July 13.—I read with a great deal of sympathy about the farmer who could not sell his wool as the government refused to allow his local buyer to make the purchase. Our firm has been buying wool since 1918. At no time has the government ordered us to stop buying. Our advice to "Patriotic, but Wondering," is that the farmer can sell his wool. The local buyer is out of the market and just passed on a story that is not true. Our firm will be glad to quote on the wool if we are advised as to the grade and quantity.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. To which of the following should you take a pheasant for mounting?
   Anthropologist Entomologist Taxidermist Mortician.
2. Which one of these foods would be inappropriate in a bland diet?
   Pork chops Custard Boiled rice Gelatin.
3. Which one of these animals is sometimes called a wind sucker?
   Cow Giraffe Antelope Horse.
4. A farmer usually stores which of the following in a crib?
   Barley Wheat Corn Soy beans.
5. Which one of the following is associated with "ack ack"?
   Tank Garand rifle Machine gun Anti-aircraft gun.
6. It is good "horse sense" to employ efficiency in servicing your tires not only in time of war but also during peace. Sketched below are the tires of an average automobile. The comparative rate of wear is shown by the figures below. You deserve one point for each correct judgment in matching these relative percentages with the wheels to which they pertain. And I'll allot the fifth point if you can tell me whether it is more destructive of tires to cross railroad tracks with your motor in gear, or with your clutch pushed to the floor, thus disengaging the motor.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior, 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

SYNOPSIS.

When Juliet Johnson, New York dancer, goes to Mexico to visit her London showgirl friend, Elaine, who has married Sir James Lynn, British oil magnate, she finds her hostess invited her there to cloak an illicit romance with Harold, earl of Festone. Six weeks later Lord Festone is murdered, and among the murder suspects are: Sir James, who threatened to kill both Harold and Elaine; Mrs. Sharon Lathrop, much married divorcée, whose first marriage Harold broke up; Philip Rankin, old friend of Sharon's and former classmate of Harold's; Maria, Elaine's maid, who had posed for some of Harold's paintings; Elaine, and even Juliet. Festone died of a bullet wound, but no gun has been found. Juliet has fallen in love with Philip, but she is afraid he is in love with Sharon, even tho he tells Juliet he loves her. Juliet sees Sir James burning letters and manages to recover enough of the charred fragments to discover they are notes of warning about Elaine's and Harold's affair, and that they were written on her own typewriter. She copies them, trying to fill in the missing lines, tears the copy up, and throws it in her waste basket. The next morning the copy is gone and Juliet hides the original notes in the toes of her red evening slippers. Police find the copy in Sir James' bureau drawer. Juliet, frightened, at first denies she wrote the copy but later, when confronted by Morelos, head of the investigating police, who tells her only her fingerprints are on the copy, she admits everything. But her story doesn't hold up as police fail to find the original notes in the toes of her red evening slippers. Sir James denies he ever burned or received any such letters. In the meantime, two guns and a cigaret case of Sir James' which Juliet has seen on the living room mantle after the murder, disappear. The cigaret case turns up later in Festone's home, wrapped in a handkerchief initialed "S. L." Juliet discovers it when she, Philip, and Sharon sneak into the house to recover some jade elephants Sharon says belong to her. Juliet takes the handkerchief but leaves the case. As they depart, she sees Maria in the courtyard. Police question Elaine about money they think she gave Festone but she denies ever having given him any. Juliet goes to Maria's room to search for the missing letters. She fails to find them but she does find $2,000 in currency and a bank book in the name of Mary Anderson.

INSTALMENT XXII.

WEEKLY VISITS.

Sir James' talk about guns was interesting, but got the police nowhere.

In the course of the morning Juliet confided her suspicions about Maria to Elaine—and in the same breath said she was longing to see Philip. Elaine ignored the second half of Juliet's remark.

"I've noticed something about Maria I'll wager you haven't," said Elaine. "Do you know where she goes every Wednesday afternoon?"

"She does! This is Wednesday—let's follow her and see where she goes."

"O, it's too bloody hot to go traipsing around after servants. And, too, the police might follow us. You go if you like—and tell me about it. I'm going to take a nap. Cheerio."

She curled up on the patio lounge.

About 1 p. m., Maria slipped away from the house. Juliet strolled to the gate. She saw Maria hurrying north toward the plaza. Juliet walked briskly after her.

When she reached a business corner Maria climbed into a taxi. Juliet caught another.

"Follow that car," she directed the swarthy driver, "but don't get too close. I don't wish the occupant to see me."

Cab drivers the world over are accustomed to unusual requests. This one, fat and amiable, was no exception. He rolled along slowly, picking up just enough speed to keep the other car in sight.

They went north on Morelos street onto the road to Mexico City, then continued to the far outskirts of that widespread metropolis.

"Better get a little closer," Juliet directed, "or we'll lose them in the traffic."

"No, senorita, they're stopping. See?"

They were indeed stopping. Juliet's cab slowed down to a crawl. Maria got out of hers, fumbled in her purse for money for the cabbie, and then started up the walk to the door of a large rococo building. She stopped, turned, and stared at Juliet's cab which had moved into the place of the first one now parked up ahead apparently to await Maria's return.

"O, that señora!" said the cab driver with a gleam of recognition.

"Do you know her?" Juliet queried eagerly.

"No, but I've brought her here and taken her back many times in the last few months. She works for some rich family. They must pay well—she always has money. She has a little boy in that orphanage."

Well! Maria was getting more interesting every minute—an El Paso National bank entry book, cash amounting to hundreds of dollars, a son tucked away in an orphanage! She must tell Morelos!

Well, while she was away from Elaine, she could report to Philip.

She phoned him at his club, hoping to catch him in. He was—and sounded delighted to hear from her.

"Juliet! I tried to get you this afternoon. Where are you?"

"No. Stay there. I'll drive in and get you. I'll meet you in front of the National museum at 4 p. m. sharp. Right."

"Right."

She had her driver take her into the city and then dismissed him.

Juliet, an inveterate window shopper, occupied herself in the intervening hours looking in windows, having lunch in Sanborn's tiled palace, and wandering with bespectacled ancients in alpaca amid the beauties of the National museum.

Philip was late as usual. But the enthusiasm of his greeting kiss made the waiting worth while.

"Philip!"

"Juliet, I've missed you," he smiled into her black eyes. "Last night—I didn't know—I didn't realize—"

She took in every detail of his person from his light brown hair and clear skinned face to the heavy soles of his shoes.

"Well, let's not stand here. People are looking at us," she said happily.

The drive they took lasted thru the remainder of the afternoon. Then they went to dinner. After that they returned to his car. He proposed to take her dancing.

It was still fairly early, but Juliet said, "O, no thanks, I can't. I'd love to, Philip—but I feel guilty about Elaine. She's depending on me for companionship now, and I've been away so many hours—and had such a wonderful time, I'm sort of conscience stricken. O, Philip, I don't know what she is going to do. She hardly speaks to Sir James because she suspects him, I guess. She wants to go to New York, but of course neither he nor the police would let her."

Philip patted her gently on the shoulder, and didn't seem in any haste to start his car.

"Well, Miss Johnson, when she goes, she goes without you. You understand that, don't you?" He was pretending to be severe. Juliet smiled. "The police have put you in my custody and I like it. I want to keep you there forever." He became suddenly serious. "O, darling, you've upset my way of living. You know I love you, don't you—and I can't go on without you." He took her in his arms and kissed her.

"I'm glad. I was afraid you didn't," she admitted.

When she insisted, he started regretfully to drive back toward Cuernavaca and Emiliano Zapata avenue.

Before they reached home she told him what she had discovered about Maria—the money, the bankbook, the child. She had meant to tell him sooner—but she'd forgotten all about it.

Philip looked distressed. "I don't think you ought to pry into that poor woman's private life, darling," he remonstrated gently.

"But I thought I might find the notes. I'm certain she's mixed up in this in some way."

"Well, my dear, if she is, the police will certainly find out. You don't have to go around being Mrs. Sherlock Holmes. You just start planning to be Mrs. Philip Rankin. That'll keep you busy."

The miles rolled by as they dropped down, down, down to the valley. In no time at all they could see the great cathedral outlined against the moonlit sky.

They talked no more of Maria. To them their own lives were so much more important than hers.

When they reached the Lynn home, Philip kissed her and held her tightly before he got out of the car. "Goodby, darling. Thanks for a wonderful day. I'll call you first thing in the morning. I'm going to bed right this minute to dream about you."

He kissed her again, hopped into the driver's seat and roared away.

Juliet stood with her hand on the gate, looking after him, her black eyes full of love. And she had been worried for fear she could never make him care.

"Zinnnnnnnng!"

'THREE HAT' GANG HEAD'S STORY OF SLAYING HEARD

A statement by John Pantano, 20 year old leader of the "Three Hat" robber gang, in which he and two companions outlined to police the details of his slaying of Policeman Charles Williams last Dec. 10, was read to a jury yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Harold G. Ward. Pantano went to trial before a jury of six men and six women, qualified for the death penalty.

Altho the pals of Pantano, Charles Theos and Joseph Morealle, signed the statement with him, they are not on trial at this time. They pleaded guilty at a separate trial and Theos was among the state's witnesses yesterday, confirming the statement read earlier.

Other witnesses yesterday included the owner of the tavern at 4301 North Western avenue, in the attempted holdup of which Williams was shot dead, and a patron who saw the shooting.

BOY FALLS THRU SKYLIGHT.

Gerald Slaughter, 8 years old, suffered injuries to his right leg last night when he fell thru the skylight of the apartment building at 2442 Van Buren street, where he lives, to a stair landing, 30 feet below.

ASYLUM INMATE WRONGLY HELD, COURT INFORMED

Yott's Wife Blamed for 40 Year Tragedy.

William F. Yott, 84 years old, who has spent the last 49 years in the Elgin State Hospital for the Insane, should have been released as sane 40 years ago, it was reported yesterday to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

William F. Yott.

The report came from Attorney Thomas F. O'Malley Jr., recently appointed conservator for the aged man. It was made in connection with a hearing in the $500,000 estate of Yott's late wife, Eliza, a portion of which O'Malley was instructed to try to reclaim for Yott.

In the unfolding of a strange story of Yott's long incarceration in the madhouse, O'Malley brought out that it was thru the demands of the late Eliza that Yott was kept there.

Committed in 1893.

She had him committed on March 30, 1893. Thru the years she kept a $100 bond for his retention posted. In Yott's file there was always a notation, "Do not parole without approval of wife," signed "Dr. A. G. Wittman." Eliza died Sept. 8, 1941, after having inherited the half million dollar fortune of Yott's father, Francis. She willed it all to their daughter, Mrs. Esther Eugenie Whitmore of Lockport, N. Y.

Yott was given a 90 day parole from the hospital last Tuesday to be in court. He is in Attorney O'Malley's custody and if at the end of 90 days O'Malley believes him sane, as the doctors have believed him for years, he need not go back. Judge O'Connell asked him about that. The old man replied:

"I've been there so long, your honor, and its so long since I've been out in the world—it makes no difference. I'd be content either in or out."

Letters of Doctors Cited.

Several letters were cited by O'Malley to show Yott might long ago have been paroled. One of these was from Dr. Charles F. Reed, managing officer of Elgin state hospital, to Yott's wife, Eliza, at a time when their son, Frank D. Yott, an attorney of Three Rivers, Mich., was making an effort to have Yott released. This, in part, read: "As a matter of fact, Mr. Yott could have been removed from the hospital years ago, if any one had taken enough interest."

In another to A. L. Bowen, then director of the state department of public welfare, Dr. Reed said: "Mr. Yott's son has been desirous of paroling him, but his wife has objected. There is no other objection than that."

EXPECT ZILLER INDICTMENTS AT HEARING TODAY

Bloomington, Ill., July 15 [Special].—True bills naming George W. Ziller and others on conspiracy and confidence game charges, unofficially reported to have been voted, are expected to be returned by the McLean county grand jury when it reconvenes before Circuit Judge William C. Radliff tomorrow. Names of the others indicted have not been disclosed.

Ziller's alleged job selling and shakedown activities at the Kankakee and Elwood ordnance plants were exposed by THE TRIBUNE May 21. The exposé caused State's Attorney Clifford N. Coolidge to ask for the recall of the grand jury. Operations of Ziller were statewide in scope and the assistance of Attorney General George F. Barrett was given. Mr. Barrett is expected in Bloomington tomorrow.

Truckers, teamsters, hod carriers, and other laborers at the ordnance plants told how they were compelled to pay fees to obtain jobs and also to retain them.

Chemicals Quench Blaze After Varnish Mill Blast

Firemen called by a 2-11 alarm last night prevented a serious blaze after a small explosion in the reducing shed adjoining the main building of the Federal Varnish company plant at 2853 Irving Park road. They feared that the fire would spread to drums containing thousands of gallons of naphtha. Water streams failing, they used chemicals to extinguish the blaze.

DRAFT STATUS ANALYSIS ASKED IN WAR PLANTS

Illinois employers engaged in war production last night were asked to make an inventory of their employés at once to determine how many are subject to call under the selective service law, how many are considered necessary to their production, and how many can be replaced by the United States employment service.

The request was made by Paul Armstrong, Illinois selective service director, at an occupational conference in Lane Technical High school attended by 2,500 employers and draft board appeal board members.

Baird Helfrich, Illinois selective service legal adviser, told the employers they alone have the right to appeal for deferment of an employé for occupational reasons. Harris P. Ralston, state occupational adviser, urged that apprentices in war industries who have served from one to three years be kept at their trades.

Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, commander of the Chicago ordnance district, told the employers emphasis now is on war production and warned them to try to find replacements for men subject to draft call. He said so many men will be needed for the armed forces in six months that even he and his staff will be replaced by civilians and assigned to field duty.

Murder True Bill Voted Against Golf Bag Sam Hunt

The grand jury yesterday voted true bills charging murder and assault to commit murder against Golf Bag Sam Hunt, former Capone gangster, in the killing of Mike Wade, Negro houseman, a week ago Sunday. Wade was shot down at Cermak road and Indiana avenue after a traffic wrangle. Hyman Gottfreed, Hunt's chauffeur, was indicted as an accessory after the fact and his bail set at $5,000.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Find Poisonous Weeds.

July 15, 1942.

WEATHER conditions that have helped to produce a heavy oats crop, a thick stand of wheat, and a rank growth of thistles also have made this a dangerous year for poisonous weeds.

Cool days, accompanied by plenty of moisture, have encouraged the growth of all weeds, among them the deadly whorled milkweed, white snake root, and the water hemlock. These three weeds cause death or violent illness to stock. The water hemlock will drop a steer in its tracks 15 minutes after the weed has been eaten. The milkweed will cause convulsions and a slow, tortuous death to sheep, while the snake root acts fatally and quickly on most animals.

With the sheep, young feeder steers, dairy cattle, and Shorthorn cows roaming the pastures and woodlots, the men at the farm must be on the alert for any of these weeds. Several years ago the farm learned a bitter lesson when several feeder steers were killed by poisonous weeds, and since then precaution is taken to prevent a reoccurrence of the disaster.

Examine Pasture Closely.

Whorled milkweeds were spotted in a woodlot near the sheep pasture early this year and were pulled immediately. The sheep pasture is examined almost every week for milkweed, as last year several large patches were discovered and some sheep were lost.

Recently one of the farm men found white snake root on one of the paths. Last year water hemlock was grubbed out of an open spot in the woods north of the big pond.

The farm manager has had some success in destroying weeds by the use of creosote spread on the ground. The creosote killed out the weeds effectively and may be used on the newly discovered spots of infestation.

A neighbor had bad luck recently when he lost two young steers from poisonous weeds. A steer died in the pasture and the men were unable to find out what had happened. Later another steer died and the herd was moved from the pasture.

The carcass of the second animal was taken to the college of agriculture of the University of Illinois, where it was examined. Laboratory tests failed to disclose the cause of death. The university dispatched a botanist to the farm to check the fields for poisonous weeds.

Destroy Cow Parsnip.

The botanist found plants of the cow parsnip, which is dangerous for cattle to eat, altho it is fairly widespread thruout this section of the country. Altho not positive that this was the weed that caused the damage, the neighbor has had all the plants pulled and has checked the rest of his farm thoroly for other weeds that might cause death.

So far the cow parsnip has not been seen on the Du Page county farm, but the men are not taking it for granted that the farm is free of them. Whereyer they are, the workers are keeping their eyes open for any of the deadly weeds.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour 2 pints of bile juice into your bowels every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these 2 pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Get a package today. Take as directed. Effective in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. 10¢ and 25¢.

RITES SET TODAY FOR ARGENTINA'S FORMER LEADER

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 15 (AP).—Roberto M. Ortiz, who had hoped until three weeks ago to return to the active presidency and steer Argentina against axis aggression, died today after a long illness. He was 55 years old. He will be buried tomorrow.

An early advocate of pan-American solidarity, he became an ardent "good neighbor" and, in deploring the "destructive forces" loosed at Munich, he called Adolf Hitler "a guttersnipe."

A chronic sufferer from diabetes, he was forced to relinquish the active presidency two years ago, going into seclusion nearly blind. Vice President Ramon S. Castillo became acting president. The conservative Castillo's administration held to strict neutrality and to date neither Argentina nor neighboring Chile has broken with the axis.

From semi-retirement Ortiz occasionally issued messages, and it had been believed he might eventually retake office. However, on June 27 Ortiz resigned because his doctors had reached "unfavorable conclusions" on his health. Then yesterday he suffered a fatal attack of bronchial pneumonia.

Ridge Farm's Board to Give Skating Benefit

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE directors of Ridge farm shouldn't have much trouble in filling the Rink ballroom in Waukegan next Thursday night for a benefit roller skating party, as north shore subdebutantes and their beaux are being expressly invited. The hours are from 9 o'clock until midnight, proper hours for the 14 to 16 years age group; there will be music, a soft drink bar, and plenty of chaperones, as the guest list is not limited to the young.

For the older guests there will be beer and sandwiches and other refreshments, and whether the parents—or perhaps grandparents—come for the exercise or just to watch, the evening is bound to prove entertaining. Mrs. Paul L. Fentress and Mrs. John R. Howland are co-chairmen of the benefit.

Mrs. Ronald Boardman, who is planning a supper party for her son, Ronnie, before the skating, is a member of the committee. Others are Mrs. George M. Brown and Mrs. Corwith Hamill, who are in charge of tickets, and the latter's mother-in-law, Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, secretary of the board. Tickets at $1.50 each may be obtained at the Rink or by telephoning Mrs. Alfred Hamill at Lake Forest 88, if they do not reach prospective customers by mail.

There will be a number of other suppers, dinners, or picnics before the party, but many will just come along at 9, equipped with their own skates or prepared to rent them, dressed in anything from slacks to tennis clothes. Roller skating is becoming popular with the youngsters who ordinarily go to the Onwentsia on Thursday nights, since the club is not having music with its Thursday buffet dinners.

The army acquired a cool headed and efficient young officer in Lieut. John Thompson Benedict, who in addition to being married this afternoon also will stand up as godfather at the christening at 3 o'clock of his 2 week old nephew, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gross' infant son. Adding to the confusion is the fact that the time and the place of the wedding ceremony won't be entirely settled until this morning, but the widespread family of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. James E. Baggot Jr., already has been summoned by telephone for 4:30 o'clock at the Baggotts' Lake Forest home to drink a toast to Lieut. Benedict and his bride, Miss Marjorie Etienne.

Miss Etienne's mother, Mrs. Peter J. Le Cody, has come from Long Island, N. Y., and Mrs. Baggot's sister, Mrs. Andrew Van Esso, also has arrived. Her son, James G. Murdock, is to be best man, and the bridegroom's young sister, Mileste Benedict, is to be maid of honor. Standing up with Lieut. Benedict as godmother this afternoon will be his cousin, subdebutante Jeanette Hurley. The christening will be held in St. Patrick's church.

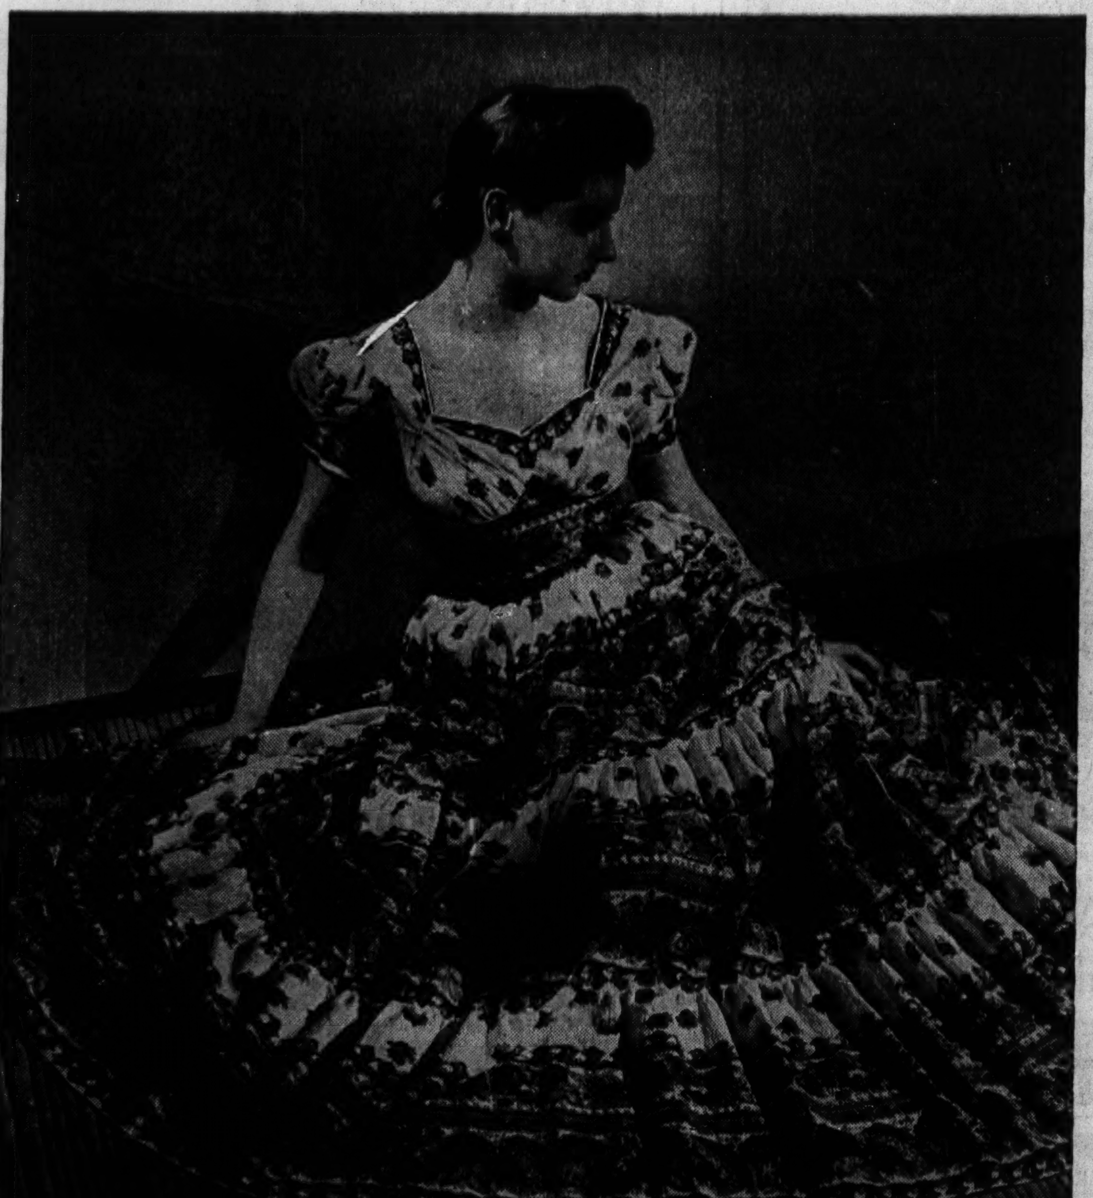
A Popular New Seersucker Dance Dress



[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

One of the most popular of the new summer dance dresses is this model made of small patterned, fine crinkled cotton seersucker. The floral design is of rosy red flowers and vivid green foliage. Tiered flounces are held together with colored cording and the bodice fits tightly, with puffed short sleeves. It's featured in a Chicago shop.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

SALVAGE, a subject which filled this column for six or seven days last winter when housewives were being urged to save waste paper, grease, scrap metal, and old rubber, is the center of interest in this column and in all patriotic households today, for this is the day when city refuse trucks will start picking up empty tins. Heretofore tin was not on the list of materials to be salvaged, but since a process has been found for detinning cans and obtaining tin to be used in guns, tanks, ships, and other vital war machines, housewives are asked to save most of the tin cans that come into their homes.

Not all cans can be used again. For instance, those that have contained paint, oil, varnish, floor polish, and evaporated or condensed milk. Cone shaped cans cannot be used, but painted-on labels do not make a can unsuitable for salvaging. Cans which have contained vegetables, fruits, fruit juices, sirups, etc., are all coated with tin, and it is this coating that Uncle Sam needs. The housewife need not worry about separating the coating from the rest of the can, however; all she needs to do is to rinse it out thoroly, remove the paper label, and flatten the can out by putting it on the floor and stepping on it. The process can be made easier by opening the bottom, as well as the top of the can, and tucking in the cut sections.

The flattened cans should be kept separate from other refuse. In case you do not know the regular collection date for trash, confer with your janitor or call your ward superintendent, listed in the first column of page 241 of the large telephone directory. This is the advice of William L. McFetridge, Office of Civilian Defense director of salvage in the Chicago metropolitan area and director of the tin drive here. He has obtained the coöperation of all of the 10,600 members of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union in seeing that housewives in the city are provided with empty cartons, boxes, or baskets in which to collect their tin cans.

Chicago's tin salvage quota has been set as 3,500 tons a month, for it is estimated that the average family of four can supply 36 cans a month. In asking the women of Chicago to start salvaging tin and to continue to do it for the duration, Mr. McFetridge said yesterday: "We are pretty sure of going over the top in this new drive. The women of Chicago came thru nobly and are still doing it in the grease and fat drive, and we know they'll do it again for tin."

Oak Park and River Forest are taking the lead in entertaining service men on a wholesale scale this week-end when 50 sailors from the naval armory will be the guests of the sister villages. This will be the first of many parties to be planned with the aid of army, navy, and marine officers who hope that other communities will follow the example of the two west villages. Even with the increased salary a soldier, sailor, or marine sometimes does not have a very pleasant time in Chicago over the week-end when all the places of amusement are crowded and both the Chicago Service center and USO center are caring for capacity crowds.

The 50 guests will go to Oak Park by motor coach early Saturday afternoon, arriving about 2 o'clock. They will be house guests in 25 homes until they have to report back to the armory at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. Saturday night members of the Oak Park Country club will give a barbecue dinner and dance at the club for the guests and 50 young women, who will be known as "Victory Belles." Each will wear a tinkling bell pin, which will serve to identify the Belles to the boys.

Mrs. Harold Allen Davis is general chairman of the party. She has been assisted in making the arrangements by Mrs. J. H. Pratt, Mrs. Arthur M. Houser Jr., Mrs. Herrick Goodwillie, Mrs. Robert McMaster, Mrs. Carl L. Neumeister, Mrs. John F. Higgins, Mrs. Russell O'Connor, Mrs. C. Stuart Beattie, Mrs. Russell Goebel, Mrs. Leslie Heald, Mrs. John Rockwell, and Mrs. E. Byron Davis. Mrs. Homer J. Livingston and Mrs. Charles E. Franklin deserve the credit for thinking of this way of entertaining men in uniform.

Mrs. Prudence Mason.

Mrs. Prudence Mason and John J. Quinn, civilian employés of the office of the inspector of naval material, had the privilege of presenting a check for $584.87 to Jeffery R. Short, president of the local branch of the USO, which represented the contribution of the civilian and sailors in the office. Slightly more than 10 per cent of the office staff's monthly salaries is pledged to buy war bonds and more than 91 per cent are buying them regularly in addition to making donations to USO and other war charities.

Encouragement and the most effective use of volunteers will be a major question to be considered at a one day conference on health and welfare problems that have arisen in this area since the war, to be sponsored by the Chicago district of the recently organized Illinois Welfare association. Representatives of 250 social agencies, all social welfare workers and lay individuals interested in the problems, have been asked to attend the conference, which will be held next Thursday at the Hotel La Salle. It will be the first public meeting in this area sponsored by the new association.

Mrs. Richard Barr, wife of State Sen. Barr of Joliet, has been appointed regional representative for the consumer interest committee of the women's division of the state council of defense by the council chairman, Gov. Dwight Green. Mrs. Barr's field of operation will include Cook, De Kalb, Du Page, Will, Kendall, Kane, Boone, and Lake counties.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and answers questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Cotton Frocks Lead Summer Dance Parade

BY REA SEEGER.

The gay young crowd keeps dancing after hours of war work, summer jobs, and wartime routine. Consequently the summer dance dress collections are bright and colorful. The coolest and the best buys for warm summer evenings are the cottons, in crisp organdies, dotted swisses, smart piques, and the dainty affairs made of printed seersucker. New among these seersuckers are the printed patterns of huge floral effects, especially roses copied from the very effective peasant challis prints.

Crinkled seersucker is no longer the coarse, big blistered matelasse material. Instead it has a light bubbly texture, delightfully dainty and feminine and as soft as old fashioned mull or muslin. It tubs with the same ease and colorfast results as any other cotton. Printed seersucker dance dresses are made with wide swirling skirts, graduated flounces, colored cordings, tiny fitted bodices, and very brief puffed sleeves. They're the very essence of youth and romance.

Other summer dance frocks are the new arrivals made of slinky crêpes, most of them with modified shirtwaist tops cut with short sleeves and a deep vee neckline. Gold buttons and gold leather belts provide the only festive accent. Others have dressmaker soft necklines in unusual outlines. Some have tiny laced panels with lacings of ribbon, flared skirts, and princess streamlines. White, raspberry, hydrangea-blue, and flesh pink offer an interesting color range. Prices are easy on any budget.

Felber Lifts Park Concert to High Level

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A cool wind strong enough to waft the smell of lake and lawns around but not gusty enough to blow any of the music away helped make the big sky-roofed audience area in front of the Grant park band shell one of the pleasantest places in all Chicago last night.

What really clinched matters, however, was the quality of the performance given by the WLS orchestra with Herman Felber as director and Leo Podolsky as piano soloist.

Even in such hard-to-put-over music as the final movement of Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique" symphony Mr. Felber and his men kept interest alive by making their playing as connected and orderly and full of natural inflection as intelligent speech—and by trusting to the peculiar power that resides in the music to raise this intelligent speech to a plane of exalted eloquence.

The reasons for Mr. Felber's success seemed to be his belief that no phrase should ever sound perfunctory and that it is a conductor's duty to try to study his music carefully and to decide upon the clearest and most effective way of presenting it. This knowledge arrived at, he uses every effect that will legitimately increase its clarity and forcefulness.

The results justified his methods. In making the music clear and formally effective, he did, sure enough, make it eloquent, too.

The orchestral parts of the program included, besides the symphony, such shorter pieces as Svendsen's third Norwegian rhapsody and Dvorak's "Carnival" overture.

Mr. Podolsky played the solo part of the Liszt E flat major concerto with a clean fluency and with sufficient emphasis on the work's bravura quality.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's a quality akin to magic in the cake makeup base; it seems to give to every skin the happy illusion of finer texture and more velvety surface. We don't marvel at all that these preparations have had such a tremendous success. They flatter the skin, and what woman can't stand flattery?

A new one among products of this kind is in four specially blended shades that fit the color tones of almost all complexions. One is deep, a beautiful finish for the woman to whom a bronze skin cast is dramatic and becoming. The others are natural shades that enhance more natural colorings—and every shade makes the skin it matches look better groomed and better preserved.

This is applied with moistened cotton—the cotton wrung out in clear water and then rubbed lightly over the cake of makeup—and should be applied in a very thin film. With this, as with ALL preparations used beneath or in lieu of powder, the touch must be light. Too little is preferable to too much. While it's still moist it should be blended smooth with the fingers. Remember, too, that makeup doesn't end at your chin line. Use the preparation on the neck as well as the face, and when it is dry [which will be in a jiffy] pat powder on lightly.

Some women won't need powder with this, but those who do will find they need much less than usual. The cake makeup itself gives a mat finish, a "dressed" look that's most attractive.

Jewels of the Sea.

In accordance with its usual custom, the navy department has renamed the many vessels that former owners have turned over to aid the war effort. We've learned from Comm. R. F. Hans, district operations officer at Great Lakes, of the new names of three power boats that formerly rode at anchor in Lake Michigan. Seventeen, owned by Sinclair G. Stanley, is now U. S. S. Carnelian; Buccaneer, property of Leon Mandel, is U. S. S. Sapphire, and Herman W. Falk's Seaforth is U. S. S. Cymophane.

Addenda.

Kenneth C. Klome, class of '36 at Blackburn college, writes to say that recent mention of that institution overlooks the president's annual announcement — that any couple meeting at the school and subsequently marrying owe Blackburn the first million they earn. And Mrs. Klome postscripts that she found early in her college career that the students do indeed do all the work. She reported to the kitchens at 5 o'clock one morning to discover that she was assigned to make 50 cherry pies. She struggled along with pastry and rolling pin for a while, then had the inspiration to make lattice tops, which saved time and were infinitely more appetizing than the thick crusts she'd turned out on the first batch of pies.

Good Neighbor Game.

A friend who recently returned from Buenos Aires brought us a rule book for playing bidou, a dice and chips game native to the east coast of South America. The book is excellent reading, not only in the way it presents the numerous variations of the game, but because of the spicy comments made by the anonymous editor, a droll fellow indeed. For example, he admits he does not know who originated bidou, and due to his intense application to playing it he has had no time to trace its historical origin. Its diffusion has become phenomenal, he adds, since about 1930.

The game is played with three dice and a cup for each player, plus the necessary number of chips, depending on the number of players. Contrary to our way of playing similar games of chance, the participant who accumulates all the chips loses the match.

In summarization, the author calls bidou the great leveler of mankind, because it affords you an opportunity to bluff your boss, is a reasonable excuse to the little woman for staying out all hours, and in playing it you forget all your worries in its fascinating facets. The South Americans may have something there.

Dearborn Street.

Shabby houses in decay,
Studios across the way;
Here where old and new times meet
Love once lived in Dearborn street.

War came marching thru the land,
Trampling nests by lovers planned
Underneath his iron shod feet;
War found love in Dearborn street.

Now he dwells no longer there,
Still there lingers in the air
Something fair and fine and sweet

Every time I pass that way
I remember and I pray:
Peace come soon on pinions fleet
And love come back to Dearborn street.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Party day is here at last, boys and girls, and we're off to see the exciting adventures of "Bambi." We'll attend a special screening of Walt Disney's latest full length movie, arranged just for us by RKO, and I know we're going to enjoy every minute of it! We'll see the little fawn and many of his friends of the forest and the meadows capering about, and all sorts of other exciting things, about which I won't tell you one word, because it'll be much more fun to see them for yourselves at our party today.

We can't wait for 10 o'clock scholars, you know, so I expect every boy and girl to be at our meeting place promptly. All the youngsters who are to be guests at my party today should have received the personal invitations which were mailed to you several days ago. My letter supplies all the information necessary — but remember, you also need the invitation itself. Don't forget to bring it with you today!

The boys and girls who are White Sox fans will have their party at Comiskey park just one week from today. I don't know just who will be invited to see the Sox play the Boston Red Sox on July 23—but after I read all your letters today I'll decide on the winners, fifty boys and fifty girls. If you've written in for an invitation to this party, your letter is being considered today. Next Sunday's TRIBUNE will tell the verdict and you'll find the names of the winners in my column.

Orphans' Automobile Day Group to Meet to Lay Outing Plans

Members of the Orphans' Automobile Day association will meet tonight in Lincoln park's Café Brauer to make plans for the organization's annual outing for orphans, crippled children, and elderly persons from 40 Chicago institutions.

Edward L. Cleary, president of the association, announced that the wives of members were invited to the meeting to help arrange for contributions for the outing. "With the banning of chartered buses," he said, "we need assistance from private car and station wagon owners in solving our transportation problem."

John P. Keating, chairman of the transportation committee, said volunteer car owners will be assigned to institutions nearest their homes.

In pursuit of health under the physical fitness program of the Office of Civilian Defense, the North Shore Hiking club, to bring variety to its outings, plans a nocturnal hike tonight thru the wood neighboring Lake Forest. Armed with flashlights, the hikers will meet at 8 o'clock at the Elmhurst station in Winnetka. Lloyd Faxon, the club president, is the OCD hikes and bikes chairman for the Chicago area. He originated the idea of the flashlight foray.

Little Child Often Has a Tiny Appetite

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I need your advice on managing young children, I guess. My son is 3 years old, and I find new problems suddenly coming up.

"He eats a very small amount at mealtimes. I have to feed him the balance of the meal, which he seems to desire always, as long as he doesn't have to bother. If I don't do this for a time, he goes happily along for days on very little food and getting thinner, and even a smaller appetite.

"He obeys me at home, but does not publicly.

"He does not go into screaming, kicking tantrums, but when angry, cries and carries on, grumbling and threatening for 10 minutes. I have ignored these scenes, but they still go on. He does this publicly, also.

"Otherwise, he has a quiet disposition, and seems to be quick and alert."

Most important here is the eating situation. I say this because the mother who wrote this letter describes a very usual state of affairs, but one that often is misunderstood and also mismanaged. Even doctors will advise in such cases, "If he doesn't eat, he can't be hungry. If you don't feed him, but let him leave it and say nothing, he'll be hungry enough at the next mealtime, or the next day."

This is not necessarily so at all. On the contrary, what usually happens is exactly what this mother describes: The small boy or girl has some desire for food, and shows that he or she is not spoiled for bidding for attention by the fact that he begins willingly to feed himself. Then his appetite lags, and with it his incentive for exercising the skill of wielding fork and spoon. Left to himself, the remainder of the meal will go unfinished time after time. That is, unless some one takes hold and feeds the small child the balance of the meal.

Where a young child has a small appetite, and many young children do, I see not the slightest harm to good habit formation [or discipline] in getting the nourishment inside the child by finishing the job for him. The various means a mother might try in order to create keener appetite in a small son or daughter are something to discuss another day.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

Some deals are so freakish that the greatest experts are made to look like dubs. Take today's deal, for example.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

This hand occurred in a team-of-four event played on a "board-a-match" basis. I cannot report the bidding at all tables, but some weird and wonderful things must have taken place. The most fantastic result of all occurred when a certain North-South pair landed at a six spade redoubled contract and went down no fewer than 2,600 points, while at the other table the East-West pair ended up at six spades doubled and went down another 2,600 points, thus making a total of 5,200 points lost by one team on one board!

But while this was highly humorous, it was not exactly good bridge. A more logical sequence of bids took place at another table, to wit:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	4 clubs	5 clubs	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	7 diamonds	Double
Pass	Pass	7 hearts	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be noted that, if West had made the so-called "normal" lead of a high club honor, the contract would have become an absolute laydown. The lead would have been ruffed in dummy, while South discarded a diamond, and the rest of the play would have been elementary. This particular West player, however, was fully alive to the meaning of his partner's double. He knew that East, a master player, would not have doubled on the mere assumption that West had an ace, hence that he must be doubling on his own ability to take a trick. East's double might be [and was] based, not on a high card trick, but on the ability to ruff the opening lead.

In strict obedience, therefore, West ignored his own powerful club suit and opened a spade. The result was highly satisfactory to the defenders. East promptly ruffed and returned a diamond. West ruffed with his singleton nine of hearts, led another spade, and East ruffed again, thus defeating the grand slam contract no fewer than three tricks.

Write your bridge troubles and problems to Ely Culbertson, care of The Tribune, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

NEW COOKBOOKS: "Just for Two," by Lily Haxworth Wallace, M. Barrows & Co., New York, $2; "Food 'n Fun for the Invalid," by Florence La Ganke Harris and Dorothy A. Ridler, same publisher, same price; "300 Sugar Saving Recipes," by Harriet Hester, same publisher, $1.50.

"Just for Two" contains a lot of help for the woman who finds cooking for just herself and her husband more work than cooking for a larger number of persons. There's no denying, cooking for two is a difficult job. It's usually more expensive to buy in small quantities, and there's the leftover problem to be considered. Sometimes it seems hardly worth while to put on any "frills" just for two. There's a lot of inspiration in this book, in the form of menus, recipes, and discussions of the problem.

"Food 'n' Fun for the Invalid" contains diet charts, menus, and recipes for invalid feeding [including diabetic and allergy diet help], and, in addition, a number of games which may help the invalid who isn't too sick to while away his time in bed.

"300 Sugar Saving Recipes" is a collection of recipes for all kinds of dishes. The title is a bit misleading, I think, for included are some good recipes for preparing vegetables, tossed salads and other dishes which don't ordinarily require sugar, anyway. The chapters on baking without sugar and sugarless desserts are likely to be of greatest interest to the homemaker.

NEW FOODS: A very good smoky cheese, spreadable consistency, packed in little glass jars. Grand for sandwiches, or on crackers for a cocktail party. . . . Vitamin wafers, low in calories and high in vitamins and minerals, to accompany salads or soups and supplement the normal diet.

How does the company which bottles a certain carbonated beverage get by with its claim that each bottle contains a third of the daily minimum requirement of vitamin B-1? One would think that to drink three bottles of this beverage would be the simplest way to get that important vitamin. The bottler refutes his own claim when he states the B-1 content of each bottle to be only 80 international units. The normal minimum requirement of vitamin B-1 is 5 to 7 international units per pound of body weight. If you weigh 125 pounds, you are likely to need about 750 units of B-1 per day. Even if it is true that each bottle of this particular carbonated drink contains 80 international units, this amount isn't anywhere near a third of the minimum requirement.

Beverages of this kind, I think, should be sold for just what they are, refreshment on a hot day, relief from fatigue, not as food. It's better to depend on the good food sources for vitamins, altho there's certainly no harm in using vitamin-fortified food and drink as supplement to the normal intake of vitamins.

Vitamin B-1 [thiamin] is found in liberal amounts in lean pork, dried beans, whole grain cereals, enriched and whole wheat bread, liver, milk, nuts, green vegetables. A ¾ cup serving of green peas, properly cooked, yields 150 international units of thiamin.

Today's Prize Recipe

Cheese Puffit.

[Serves six.]

2 cups ground ham

2 tablespoons butter

The Housewife

Your summer luncheon table will look twice as pretty if you try mixing colors with your china. One table we saw the other day combined dull rose cups with gray saucers; luncheon plates were rose and salad plates, gray. All the table accessories were of light wood—sandwich tray, salad bowl, salts and peppers, and cheese tray. The effect was cool and charm-

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., July 15. — Chatting with Bette Davis yesterday we were discussing this whole matter of picture stars who are over age going into the service. If ever any one group of men were caught squarely on the horns of a dilemma, it's our top salaried actors of 40 or over. With our government straining every resource to extract the sinews of war from the taxpayers, and the industry called upon for all-out production in the interests of national morale, these men are faced with the choice of giving up contracts which will pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in income tax to take on jobs at the government's expense—or, on the other hand, continuing with their present work and suffering the unjust criticism of an unthinking public. . . . These men are just as anxious to serve their country as the rest of us, and Bette agrees with me that in their case it takes more fortitude to stay out of the service than to go in. Of those who [unwilling to be placed in this false position] have already joined up, it's conservatively estimated that the loss of their aggregate salaries has already cost the government well over four million dollars yearly in income tax. So think it over, all you fans who are so free with your criticism! Maybe you think it's an easy choice for a true patriot to make; maybe you think we're going to win this war without paying for it. If so, you've got a couple of more thinks coming!

Still They Come.

When Errol Flynn finishes "Gentleman Jim," he'll take a much needed rest. He's not a well man, and cannot get into our armed forces. But he will play a very interesting part in "Mission to Moscow." Col. Faymonville, military attaché to our embassy in Russia. The colonel served there under both Bullitt and Davies, speaks many languages, and he's now on the Russian front as our military observer. Warners would still like to cast an unknown for Mr. Davies. They're searching the straw hat circuit back east. . . .

Rattles Them Off.

Bob Hope, on "They Got Me Covered" set, was doing a scene with Dorothy Lamour in tight quarters. On the wall back of Bob was a picture of Teddy Roosevelt. He said, "Hey! What could Teddy do that I can't?" Then he muffed a take and said, "Gosh! My teeth slipped into second instead of high!" And for the next take he said, "Get a load of Dave Butler. In that one he out-acted me." Now that Bob's show is off the air, he's down to four writers. . . . Lucille Ball has named her new cocker spaniel puppy Victor Immature. . . . Jimmy Cagney's brother, Dr. Harry, will soon be a practicing physician in the state of California. You know Jimmy's family are almost as clannish as George M. Cohan's. He certainly wants them near him.

Say It Isn't So.

William Saroyan didn't just plain "swipe" his title, "The Human Comedy," from Balzac's "La Comedie Humaine"—or did he? . . . Like old times on "Journey for Margaret." There were May McAvoy, Maurice Costello, Charles Ray, and Joan Crawford's brother, John Le Soeur. Robert Young plays a foreign correspondent, and told me, "Only time I worked on a newspaper was with the Los Angeles Times. Worked in the press room in 1924 to get money for schooling." Why, Bob, that calls for some kind of celebration! . . . Before Zorina left for location she had pictures of her short haircut sent to Husband George Balanchine, who's still down in South America, and said, "He'll be furious!" He arrives here Aug. 1, and will direct her in the black magic dance in "Star Spangled Rhythm."

Ho Hum!

Patricia Dane tells me she plans a trip to New York in September, then down to Jacksonville, Fla. Asked her whether she'd marry Cedric Gibbons down there. She laughed, said no, but that he might join her for a spell. After "Gambler's Choice" she'll do "Strip for Action." . . . Columbia makeup man, Bob Schiffler, and a couple of friends celebrated the Fourth of July in Ensenada—so hard that they've been in the hoosegow down there ever since with studio keeping the wires hot to the American consul to get 'em out. . . .

Patricia Dane.

Growing Pains.

Vaughn Paul can't get a furlough, so Deanna Durbin doesn't want any time off between pictures, and after "Forever Yours" she'll go immediately into "Three Smart Girls Join Up." Universal is undecided on who the smart girls will be. Barbara Read, one of the original trio, fizzled out of pictures, and is now living in Laguna with relatives; plans to marry Jack Crawford, an aircraft worker, after her divorce becomes final from Bill Paul. Nan Grey is doing all right on her air show and as wife of Jockey Jackie Westrope. Helen Parrish is open to offers, tho it'd cut into her honeymoon if she got one. Nevertheless, and notwithstanding, she's open to an offer.

Well, Well!

At Fort Riley, Kas., Pat Di Cicco had been living with his bride, Gloria Vanderbilt, outside the encampment, with chauffeur driving him to camp daily, which was against regulations. So now Pat's living with the rest of the boys. Nice to see little Charlotte Henry get a break. She's to be featured in the stage show "Naughty, Naughty" at the Beaux Arts theater this month. The erstwhile "Alice in Wonderland" got a terrific buildup, then the letdown.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

It's from jest to earnest this week on the Roosevelt screen. . . . This morning we'll jest tech on the jest.

Mr. Henry Fonda is the "magnificent dope" mentioned in the title. . . . Tad Page is the name. Tad is shy; Tad is lazy. . . . He comes to New York from Vermont—and he doesn't think much of the metropolis. . . . But he's only human, Tad is, and when along comes Dwight [Don Ameche] Dawson, who operates a success school, to persuade the young man Dwight has what Tad needs—why Tad falls under his spell. Little does he know that Dwight needs him far more than he needs Dwight. . . . In eight easy lessons, Tad is to learn all it takes to become a big business executive. . . .

Tad, being Tad, would, undoubtedly, have walked out on about the second lesson, had it not been for Claire Harris, press agent of the organization. . . . He falls for her and, as a foxy way of discovering her likes and dislikes, invents a girl named Hazel, supposedly his fiancée. . . . Does Claire think Hazel would like this—or that . . . ? He doesn't know that Claire and Dwight are contemplating that two-can-live-as-cheaply-as-one situation. . . .

Following Dwight's leading, Tad doesn't really get very far. . . . One day, however, he awakens to the fact that his own technique is the thing. . . . He was born relaxed and has always liked it. . . . Wouldn't busy, nervous men with high blood pressure like it, too? . . .

The answer is to be found in the movie.

The picture is wacky but lots of fun. Don Ameche as Dwight gives one of his zipping, carefree characterizations. Mr. Fonda is quietly amusing as the lanky Vermonter—who ends up with everything his own way—money, a fire engine, and the boss' girl. . . . Lyn Bari is delightfully human as Claire. . . . Edward Everett Horton, Hobart Cavanagh, and other able players form pleasing support, and the director knew how to go and where to stop.

You'll be liking this "dope"-ey thing.

Service Men Like Letters; Write Often!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We have been requested to remind the girls at home that it isn't that first usual faithful correspondence that matters as much as the continuous flow of letters to help maintain the service man's morale.

So write! Write some more! Keep on writing! Even tho you don't get replies, keep at it. There may be very good reasons why you have not heard, could not hear, under circumstances over which your man has no control.

Singer Dinah Share, who has been around the camps doing her bit, picked up a few pointers in connection with this form of letter writing, out of which she offers a few suggestions, the first of which is to keep on writing. Write in detail. Tell all the things he used to like to hear about, but confide to him none of your personal worries or anxieties.

Telephone him, if you possibly can. Your voice means a lot to him.

Don't shut yourself up like a hermit, for that will restrict the newsiness of your letters and he'll want to know that you're keeping up your obligations smilingly.

Ask him questions about his life. Too many letter writers are so engrossed with their own tales, they forget to make inquiries about others'.

Don't tighten up on sending of little comforts and luxuries after the first big splurge. Here, again, the constand reminder that he is not forgotten is what counts.

Snapshots of his friends, his family, yourself are welcome. Get to know the wives and sweethearts of other men in the service. With your mutual interests and problems, you will get a better understanding of your position, so that dousing the torch will come easier for you.

Be active in some branch of service. He'll be delighted to know that you, too, are serving his and your country.

Music Loving Soldiers Make Plea to Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

The boys want music, and as one soldier said in his letter, "I know the people of Chicago won't let us down," hence the following appeals to our readers. From Chanute field:

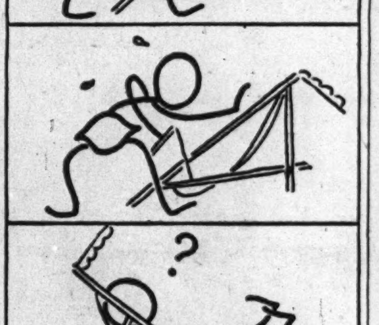
"Dear Miss Brown: The boys of our barracks would deeply appreciate a guitar if some one has such an instrument to donate. We are in strict quarantine, and find the hours dragging. We've been doing a lot of community singing to help pass the time, but the guitar we've been using was accidentally broken.

"There are 70 men here, and every single one of us would appreciate whatever you can do about getting another one for us."

If you own a guitar which you no longer use, or if you'd like to make a sacrifice and give one which you occasionally enjoy, here's your chance to make a lot of boys happy and relieve the monotony of their present existence.

Private L. B., formerly of Chicago, has been in the army for two months and is now in a distant state. He enjoys singing and and playing the piano during his free time, and would be grateful for sheet music—preferably popular or semiclassical songs.

Either of these addresses will be supplied to persons able to fill the requests.



White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

How a Career Was Born.

In town last week was Helen Park of the famous, oft-photographed designing fingers. One of the few women furniture designers—there are only three or four in the United States—Miss Park is full of surprises. First, she looks too young to have been out of school long enough to become a startling success. Yet, it was in college that she took up woodworking as a hobby and began making toys [stylized things with animals] which promptly sold to a novelty company.

"Toys," she says, "grew into furniture." Simple as that! There is your second surprise: An artist, straightforward, chatting of her work like a dietitian . . . or a secretary. She taught herself about furniture. "I crammed in the public library as tho for an exam," she says, because she wanted a certain job. Then she worked in a furniture factory, did odd jobs, made covers for catalogs and stationery until she designed a chair and table which immediately took the public fancy. "Now," they told her, "it's time to do a line." Not steeped in tradition, her departure from usual colors and fabrics attracted attention . . . she was on her way.

For seven years she has been in business for herself in New York. She is a co-designer of a fascinating new line of furniture based on "progressive decoration"; she has written articles on furniture, done show rooms, designed a "top hat" one-van traveling show for display in department stores. She thinks it is wholly logical that a woman should know what goes into a home and believes the blind spot of men designers is color.

Query.

Suzie Steno reports, via shorthand, that the block captain in the Cubs park region is W. F. Pitcher, and inquires: "Does the W. F. stand for Wrigley Field?"

How's Your Floral Spelling?

A large seed company received a letter from a customer written on a defective typewriter. She was having trouble with her plants, she wrote. "My petuni s, my pe nies; the phl x; the sweet marj ram; the candy-t ft; and my portul ca have done poorly," she complained, "but the st ck, verb na, cosm s, zinni s, and arger tum have been fairly satisfactory."

How is your spelling, florally speaking? Can you fill in the missing letters?

Bows and Flowers.

Betty Bayer contributes this to the hair-bow-flower-in-the-hair discussion: "I don't approve either of bows or flowers worn during working hours as first of all if one, or the other, is worn for work daily it lessens the attractiveness when worn in the evening to add allure and glamor. . . . If bows or flowers are worn all day long it would become most monotonous. . . . During working hours we should be neat—not jaunty."

Esther writes: "Tailored clothes . . . why not tailored bows? We wear 'em on our pumps, on our blouses, on sports clothes . . . why not in the office with tailored clothes?"

WHIRLAWAY WINS; EARNS RECORD $454,336

BOB JEFFRIES HAS 10,000 EDGE OVER CRIMMINS

Wallach and Jenkins Other Pacesetters.

BY ARCH WARD.

Supporters of the University of Missouri, whose football team won the Big Six conference championship last fall, are making an all out effort to place four players on the starting line-up of the College All-Stars, who on Aug. 28 will meet the Chicago Bears in sport's biggest war charity event at Soldiers' field.

Three of the four—Norville Wallach, tackle; Darold Jenkins, center, and Bob Jeffries, guard—this morning lead their positions in the nation-wide poll conducted by THE TRIBUNE and more than 200 associated newspapers and radio stations. Harry Ice, diminutive quarter back who starred for Missouri against Fordham in the Sugar Bowl game last New Year's day, has taken third place behind Northwestern's Don Kruger and Dick Erdlitz. Ice will not be available for the squad, however, because he is in foreign service with Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Darold Jenkins.

Bob Jeffries.

Jeffries Passes Crimmins.

The four Missouri athletes are receiving strong support from small towns of their state, as well as from St. Louis and Kansas City. More than 15,000 votes for the quartet were forwarded yesterday from the Columbia Missourian.

The rush of ballots marked for Jeffries has crowded Notre Dame's Bernie Crimmins out of first place at guard. The Missouri lineman has a lead of more than 10,000 votes over the player whom Frank Leahy converted into an outstanding guard after two years of service in the back field.

Russ Needham, sports editor of the Columbus Dispatch, warns Michigan followers that Bob Westfall will need an avalanche of votes if he is to win the starting full back assignment over Ohio State's Jack Graf. The Columbus Junior Chamber of Commerce has erected a voting booth at Broad and High street in the heart of the city's business district. It is operated by women.

The upper peninsula of Michigan, where some of football's greatest players learned gridiron fundamentals—George Gipp and Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame, Ray Bray of Michigan State, Gene Ronzani of Marquette, and Ralph Heikkinen of Michigan—is backing Vince Banonis of the University of Detroit, Dick Erdlitz and George Zorich of Northwestern, Ray Ebli of Notre Dame, Rube Kelto of Michigan, and Frank Karas of Michigan State.

Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame has taken the lead at half back, but Bill Dudley of Virginia, the nation's highest scoring player last season, is at his heels. Juzwik is polling heavily in Chicago, which also is giving evidence of strong support for Northwestern's Alf Bauman and Bill DeCorrevont. Bauman and DeCorrevont were high school teammates at Austin and Juzwik prepped at De Paul.

Fans! Send Complete Lineups!

Fans are urged to send in complete lineups. Many are voting only for one or two players. Ballots should be directed to the All-Star editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. No votes will be counted that are postmarked after midnight July 26.

Coaches from the far west who have submitted lineups have shown no sectional favoritism. Lon Stiner of Oregon State, whose team defeated Duke in the transplanted Rose Bowl game; Babe Hollingbery of Washington State, who was a member of last year's All-Star staff; Buck Shaw of Santa Clara, a member of the 1940 All-Star staff, and Stub Allison of California, all picked Bob Westfall of Michigan for full back, and Ray Frankowski of Washington State for guard. Their selections follow:

BY A. L. [LON] STINER.

ENDS—Mal Kutner, Texas; Holt Rast, Alabama.
TACKLES—Bob Reinhard, California; Alf Bauman, Northwestern.
GUARDS—Ray Frankowski, Washington; Ralph Fife, Pittsburgh.
CENTER—Darold Jenkins, Missouri.
QUARTER BACK—Frank Albert, Stanford.
HALF BACKS—Bruce Smith, Minnesota; Steve Lach, Duke.
FULL BACK—Bob Westfall, Michigan.

ENDS—Mal Kutner, Texas; Charles Ringer, Minnesota.

The good news from yesterday's Cubs-Dodgers doings in Wrigley field can be told briefly: Lou Novikoff and Jimmy Foxx knocked successive homers off Kirby Higbe in the fourth inning, Novikoff drove in a run with a single in the fifth inning, and Rip Russell knocked out Higbe in the eighth by hitting a pinch double with the bases loaded.

The Dodgers won by a score of 10 to 5. It might easily have been 27 or 30 to 5 if the Dodgers had chosen to be more serious and cautious. As soon as they perceived they had our boys in a state of panic and anger, they devoted the afternoon to repartee, baseline experimentation, personal kidding and abuse and other Brooklyn equivalents of good, clean fun.

It Wasn't Claude's Day.

Manager Jim Wilson employed five pitchers starting with his ace, Claude Passeau. On the basis of his great record this year, Passeau perhaps had one big swoon coming. He certainly exercised his option yesterday, tho his helplessness scarcely was reflected in the scoring total. Claude was led off after he had walked home a run in the third.

Hi Bithorn of Puerto Rico replaced Passeau and Chico Hernandez of Cuba continued as the Chicago catcher. The Dodgers, who do some of their training stuff in Havana each spring, should have remembered more of the the Good Neighbor policy than they showed in their bench jockeying of our two nice Latin boys.

Bithorn went into such a frenzy of indignation in the fifth inning that Manager Wilson chose to replace both him and his Spanish speaking catcher. As the pair approached the Cub dugout, Hi whirled and threw a ball into the visitors' dugout. His control had been bad during his entire performance, so he was unable to wing anybody in the Dodger cave.

Four Dodger Hits—One Run!

The Cubs, who went thru the three game Giant series without a misplay, committed five errors, all after Passeau's collapse, as evidence of the way they are affected by the league champions, who now have whipped them 10 times in a dozen tries this season.

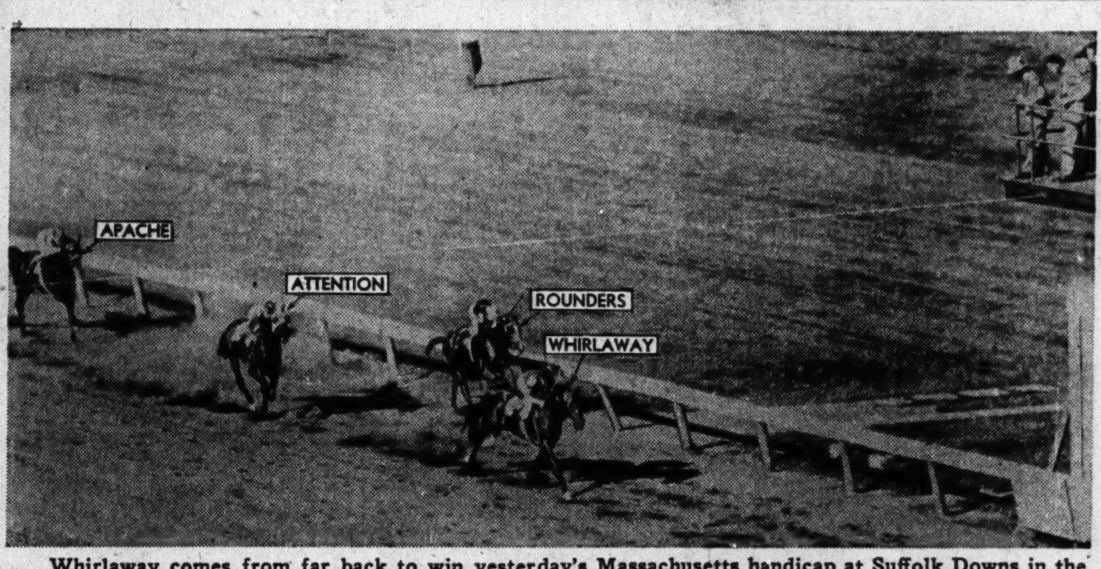
It's the Day of Days for Whirlaway



Whirlaway comes from far back to win yesterday's Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Downs in the record time of 1:48⅕ for the mile and an eighth, and, by taking the winner's purse of $43,850, run his earnings to the all-time record total of $454,336. The first four horses are shown with Whirlaway at the finish line.

ED SMITH PITCHES 15TH LOSS, 10-1; SOX WIN 2D, 11-6

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 15.—The White Sox and the Boston Red Sox, who have not quite awakened from their pennant dream, exchanged compliments this afternoon, and there was nothing gentle about either gesture. The local second placers did it first, bouncing the Chicagoans around to a merry 10 to 1 tune in the front half of a double header before 12,363. But James Dykes then scrambled his line-up and the rearrangement proved such a shock to Joe Cronin's artists that they came out on the lean end of an 11 to 6 free for all.

Eddie Smith, America's No. 1 loser, was involved in the first affair, but he didn't stick to the low score technique by which he had dropped most of his 14 previous decisions. He kept the party in order only for four innings, after which he experienced an hilarious time, climaxed by a seven run eighth inning in which his mates also committed mischief to the extent of three errors. In the meantime the Chicago tourists had attained only seven scattered hits off Tex Hughson.

Knock Out Wagner.

The Chicago Sox were so violent in the second game that they knocked out Charley Wagner in less than two innings with a six run barrage. This should have made everything easy for Bill Dietrich, but he stumbled into a four run hornet's nest in the third and couldn't start the sixth because a few minutes previously he had inadvertently used his right thumb for bunting purposes. The quick change brought on Joe Haynes, who, while hit freely, escaped injury except in the seventh when Ted Williams knocked his 19th homer after Pete Fox had walked.

Smitty might have made some headway toward his third victory, at least in the early innings, if he hadn't been overly generous. A pass in the first inning became a run that balanced one scored by the White Sox on an error. Smitty handed out two walks in the fifth and these turned into runs because Dom DiMaggio tripled. Then everything happened in the eighth. Six of the Bostons hit safely, two of them for doubles. Smitty walked two more and they scored. Myril Hoag, who was retired to make room for Sammy West in the second game, erred twice on one play. Luke Appling booted a roller. So the counting of seven runs really was quite simple.

Kolloway Leads Attack.

Don Kolloway played the heavy rôle in the unceremonious removal of Wagner in the second game. Kolloway led off with a double, which, with a single by West and an error by Doerr, was promoted into two runs. With two out in the second, Kolloway singled to drive in Bob Kennedy, who had singled and stolen second. West singled. Joe Kuhel

4 YEAR OLD SETS TRACK MARK IN SUFFOLK STAKE

Tops Seabiscuit's Total by $16,606.

Boston, Mass., July 15 (AP).—Whirlaway surpassed Seabiscuit's all-time money winning record today with a streak of speed that broke the Suffolk Downs track record for a mile and an eighth. The long tailed 4 year old came from almost out of sight to win the rich Massachusetts handicap faster than it ever has been done before.

With the $43,850 pay check he picked up, Whirlaway added enough to his earnings to give him a total of $454,336 for his 2½ years of racing, thereby wiping out the $437,730 mark Seabiscuit took so long to pile up a few years back.

Half Million Next Goal.

What's more, the way Whirlaway did it—carrying 130 pounds, running against a set of front flying speed horses and making his first trip over the Suffolk strip that has been disastrous for so many champions in the past—made it look more than ever as tho he can go on to become the turf's first half million dollar winner in history.

In spite of the fact he was spotting the front runners up to 26 pounds apiece, Whirlaway came from 11 lengths back to hit the wire in 1:48 1-5, cutting two-fifths of a second off the track record War Relic made in this same stake a year ago.

At the finish, he had 2½ length edge on Rounders, the Irish bred invader from Texan Emerson Woodward's barn—and the margin was getting bigger with every stride, so fast was he moving, to the accompaniment cheers from a crowd of 32,963 who put $163,299 into the parimutuel machines for that race, $968,796 for the nine event program and bet Whirlaway down to even money.

Champion's Best Race.

Another length farther back came Mrs. Parker Corning's Attention, one time Whirlaway jinx, and four lengths behind him was William Woodward's Apache.

They were supposed to be the horses Whirlaway had to beat because they're able to turn loose lightning too, and Apache was carrying only 107 pounds, while Attention had 122 aboard.

Trainer Jones said he thought that it was the best race his 4 year old champion ever ran. For a while Jones probably was a little nervous about it. This was in the first three-quarters of a mile, when Rounders and Apache hooked up in a duel out in front. Whirlaway, making his usual leisurely exit from the starting gate, trailed them by as much as 11 lengths at one point.

Then Jockey Georgie Woolf, who has become the colt's regular rider in the last month, clucked to him that it was time to go. And he went. He moved as the field started into the far turn. He ran so hard he was past the last three like an express train passing a slow freight.

How He Runs!

Halfway around the bend Whirlaway straightened his six foot tail straight out behind him and really got under a full head of steam. Attention made his move at this point, too, but Whirlaway roared right past him, ran over Rounders, and poked past Apache just as they straightened out for home.

They were strung out all the way down the stretch back of him. Apache, fading in the final yards, wound up fourth; Mrs. Max Factor Jr.'s Blueberry Pie was fifth, followed by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Swing and Sway and Texan John L. Sullivan's Transfigure.

By smashing Seabiscuit's mark in the Massachusetts handicap, Whirlaway went right along with the drama and color that has marked his career, from the time he couldn't run straight as a 2 year old thru his record breaking Kentucky Derby triumph last year and the Preakness and Belmont which followed it to make him one of five triple crown winners in turf history.

Until today Seabiscuit was the only favorite in the Massachusetts handicap's eight year run to nod to the judges and the only horse to win carrying 130 pounds.

PIRATES DEFEAT GIANTS, 6-2, FOR SEWELL'S TENTH

Beazley of Cards Also Scores Tenth Victory.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 15 (AP).—Truett [Rip] Sewell quieted the noisy bats of the New York Giants today, holding them to six hits and scoreless till the ninth, as the Pittsburgh Pirates scored a 6 to 2 victory.

The Giants bunched half their hits in a ninth inning rally when John Mize doubled, Babe Barna walked, and Dick Bartell and Buster Maynard singled, but Sewell suppressed the uprising in time to gain his 10th victory against seven defeats. Score:

NEYLAND, WADE WILL COACH ARMY ALL-STAR TEAM

New York, July 15 (AP).—Two college football coaches whose rivalry is almost a tradition will blend their talents in coaching the army all-star squad for its series of games with national football league clubs in August and September.

Appointment of Col. Robert R. Neyland, formerly of Tennessee, and Maj. Wallace Wade, ex-Duke coach, as leaders of the service athletes was announced today by Grantland Rice, president of the war football fund.

To date an eight-game schedule has been lined up, with the squad being split into two divisions. Maj. Wade will tutor the western group, and Col. Neyland the eastern players. It was pointed out, however, the two squads would work together closely, and players might be shifted back and forth as needed.

SCRATCH SNEAD OFF RYDER SQUAD; CAN'T GET LEAVE

Detroit, Mich., July 15 (AP).—Sammy Snead, who now is in the navy, was scratched today from the lineup of the American Ryder cup squad, but the way was cleared for Sergt. Jim Turnesa to compete this week-end with Walter Hagen's challengers in the Red Cross relief match expected to raise $25,000. Snead will be unable to arrange leave from the Norfolk, Va., base. His place will be filled by Ed Dudley, with Turnesa, runner-up to Snead in the National PGA tournament replacing Dudley on the challenge squad.

Hagen has left for Rochester, N. Y., where his father is seriously ill. He is expected to return in time to lead the challengers in four ball play Saturday. Individual matches are scheduled Sunday.

Donald Limits Cleveland to Four Hits.

New York, July 15 (AP).—The New York Yankees marked up their fourth straight victory and second successive shutout today as Atley Donald blanked the Cleveland Indians, 4 to 0, on four hits. It was Donald's sixth success against two defeats and he kept the Indians' quartet of singles well spaced, fanning five and walking only one. No runner reached second against him.

The Yanks shelled Chubby Dean for 10 hits, three of them by Buddy Hassett and another by Joe DiMaggio, extending his current batting streak to 12 games.

BLUE DELIGHT WINS MATRON AT ARLINGTON

Emolument Runs Second, Inscolassie Third.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The fairy godmother in this case is Thomas Carr Piatt, who persuaded Blue Delight's owner to let her race another season after she had been scheduled for retirement to the Kentucky breeding farms. The spring already was far advanced when young Mr. Piatt, who had wintered the filly on his Crestwood farm near Lexington, engaged in a conference with Marsch.

Cinderella Horse.

"She looks so good, and she's only a 4 year old, that I'd race her another season if she were mine," Piatt urged. Eventually her owner agreed. So they got her ready in time for the Arlington meeting, sent her out to run third in one conditioning race and then won the $5,000 Cinderella stakes with her last Wednesday.

From that effort she went right into the Matron stakes yesterday and ran away with it, beating Emolument by three lengths, while Inscolassie was holding third place.

When Blue Delight was a juvenile in 1940, she won the Lassie stakes, which is Arlington's most important event for 2 year old fillies just as yesterday's event is the big test for the more mature members of her sex. Her owner now can send her to the breeding establishments with much higher prestige than would have been the case if she hadn't raced this season.

Matron Brilliantly Contested.

The Matron stakes was brilliantly contested from start to finish of the mile dash. Brownell Combs' Miss Dogwood went out to make the pace with Blue Delight right beside her, Joseph E. Widener's Waygal close up and Louis B. Mayer's Painted Veil running fourth in the big field of 13 starters.

Something went wrong with Painted Veil and she began dropping back steadily after they were only halfway down the backstretch. Eventually she broke down—but the three others raced on.

Miss Dogwood and Blue Delight were head and head on the turn, with Waygal still in a contending position and Inscolassie moving up. Then as they hit the straightaway, Jockey Ralph Neves put on light pressure and Blue Delight began drawing clear. She held control easily thereafter. Emolument's rush thru the stretch was good enough to beat the others but she could come nowhere near the winner.

Blue Delight, at 7 to 2, was third choice in the betting, Painted Veil and Waygal being co-favorites at 3 to 1. The winner covered the mile over a sloppy track in 1:38 2-5. Her mutuel prices were $9.60, $5.60 and $4.40.

KNEE OPERATION TO KEEP GROVE OUT TWO MONTHS

Orval Grove, big White Sox rookie who has won four games and lost six this season, is in Mercy hospital where he is to undergo a knee operation that will keep him out of competition for probably two months—in short, just about the rest of the season. Dr. Philip Kruescher will perform the operation today or tomorrow.

An examination by Dr. Kreuscher of Grove's left knee which has bothered the big youngster for some time revealed torn cartilage.

DOLVEN REACHES SECOND ROUND OF MIDWEST GOLF

Quarter-Finals Today in Public Links Play.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Frank Dolven Jr., of Twin Orchard yesterday hurdled another of the psychological stymies that confront tournament golfing medalists by winning his second round match in the 15th annual Midwest Public links event over the Waveland avenue course. Dolven, son of an army captain and himself a candidate for the air corps, moved into today's quarter-final bracket with a 5 and 3 decision over Hank Kastman of the home club.

In this morning's 18 hole quarter-final opener, the medalist will face Gunnar Gabrielson, an unattached entrant, who had to travel 17 holes before eliminating Lon Schmitz, also unattached, 3 and 1.

Lincoln Park Players Meet.

The second of today's four matches should draw considerable house from members of the Lincoln park club, for it involves two of their own company. Joe Pardi, who is said by old settlers at Waveland to have invented the club tournament—he's won it so many times—will meet young Don Temple, one of the more recent members at the north side club. Pardi moved into the final eightsome by defeating George Hansen of Keller's range, 3 and 2, while Temple was moving along with a 5 and 4 verdict against unattached Hank Browne.

Carl Frye, the Jackson park invader who was runner-up to Dolven for medalist honors and whose shots have commanded respectful attention even from the home talent, stayed in the show by defeating Jack Atten of Edgewater, who cut quite a figure in the Western Junior last month. Frye's margin was 6 and 5.

Frye, Bowman Play Today.

Today Frye draws as his opponent Rudy Bowman of the home club. Rudy didn't have as casual an afternoon as Frye, for he had to go all the way before he could take a 2 up battle from Jack Dwan, the lanky young man who is a maintenance workman at Waveland when he isn't attending Loyola university, where he shines with the basketball team.

The fourth and last of today's quarter-finals in the championship bracket sends able young Jack Duers of the Park Ridge Country club against Alex Badal, fourth of the home side survivors. The latter gained the last eight by handing Owen Johnson of Inverness a 5 and 4 defeat, while Duers, runner-up for the Chicago district closed junior title last summer, advanced by eliminating Fred Fassnacht of Paw Paw lake, by the same margin. Summaries:

Quarter-final Pairings.

Smith Pitches 15th Defeat, but Sox Divide walked, Taft Wright singled and so did Appling. This was where Bill Butland replaced Wagner. Wally Moses welcomed the newcomer with a two bagger to round out the six run venture.

Dietrich tottered with two out in the third. He committed a balk that advanced Johnny Pesky, who had walked. Then Bill punctured DiMaggio and yielded three hits in a row for four runs. He tightened right up again and his last two innings were perfect. Some passes, a double by Kuhel and single by Moses in the sixth kept the pressure off Haynes and a single by Appling with some passes off Terry improved the situation in the eighth. Appling drove in four runs for his biggest score producing performance of the season.

ROSS VS. NEWSOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 15.—Lee [Buck] Ross will be swung back into a starting rôle tomorrow in the third battle of the Chicago-Boston Sox series. The Red Sox will challenge with Heber Newsome, who has been known to cause James Dykes' boys considerable anguish.

Manager Dykes had intended to ship Thornton Lee home, but after the veteran's six inning job in last night's exhibition at Wilmington, Del., Jim decided otherwise. Lee, who has been out of kilter since the training trip, declared his arm felt pretty good after the workout.

The Meek Shall Rule.

I hurt you when I doubted you one day
And tho you smiled as meekly as could be
And said no word, when you were gone away
The deepness of your hurt brought grief to me.
If you had boldly given me the lie
I should have felt less awkward, I confess;
After some words I'd pass the matter by,
But words are feeble against gentleness.

I sought you out to ask your pardon and
Your words seemed softer than a whispered prayer
As you were saying: "I quite understand,
Suppose we just forget the whole affair?"
You may forget, but I shall keep in mind

Dodgers Beat Cubs in Wild Opener, 10-5

milli also singled, putting Medwick on third. Bill Herman hit into a double play, Medwick scoring. Mickey Owen and Peewee Reese also singled, but Higbe grounded out.

You won't believe the following detail of a Passeau pitched inning but this is what happened in the third: Dixie Walker lined a single to right. Arky Vaughan lined a single to left. The runners advanced on a wild pitch. Pete Reiser walked, loading the bases. Medwick forced Walker at the plate, Passeau to Hernandez. Camilli again lined out a single, Vaughan scoring. Herman walked, forcing Reiser across the plate. Then Bithorn went in. Owen tapped to Hack, who threw the ball on the ground in an attempt to get it to Hernandez, and Medwick scored on the error.

We watched the game for 2 hours and 37 minutes, but we aren't going to ask you to take that much time reading about it. But we do want to tell about the unusual Dodger fifth. Owen and Reese walked as Bithorn seethed as a result of the riding he was getting from the Brooklyn bench. Bithorn cast a wild pitch, but when Owen tried to get home from second, Bithorn got his mind on the game just in time to run to the plate, take a throw from Hernandez, and tag Owen for the first out. Reese got from first to third on the wild pitch and Owen's out.

The Fun Continues.

Higbe bunted to Bithorn and Hi made a nice play to get Reese returning to third. Walker walked and stopped at second on Vaughan's single to center, Higbe scoring. Reiser got Bithorn's fourth pass of the inning, loading the bases. Then followed the replacement of the Latin battery and the ball throwing incident.

The new Cub battery was composed of Paul Erickson and Clyde McCullough. Erickson's first pitch carried to the screen, Walker scoring. McCullough, himself the object of many Brooklyn jibes, ran to the screen to get the ball and with no apparent sense of aim, threw the ball thru the infield. Vaughan, who was in full swing on the wild pitch, got home on Clyde's odd maneuver. Lou Stringer recovered the ball and saw that Reiser was running wild in the hope the Cubs would continue in a coma. Lou threw the ball to Hack at third and Reiser was tagged.

Slightly Frozen with Fear.

If you had seen these things, and other incidents, such as Hernandez and McCullough spinning around dizzily and missing pop flies you would perhaps fully appreciate the terror which the presence of the champs brought to our kindly young men.

After Foxx had executed his second strikeout to get the eighth under way Nicholson walked, Stringer singled and McCullough walked to load the bases. Then Russell doubled to right, scoring Nicholson and Stringer.

The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cubs will play a doubleheader in Wrigley field this afternoon. Les Fleming and Johnny Schmitz, each of whom turned in brilliant relief performances the last times they pitched, will be the Cub mound selections. The Dodgers expect to employ Curt Davis in the first game and either Ed Head or Johnny Allen in the second.

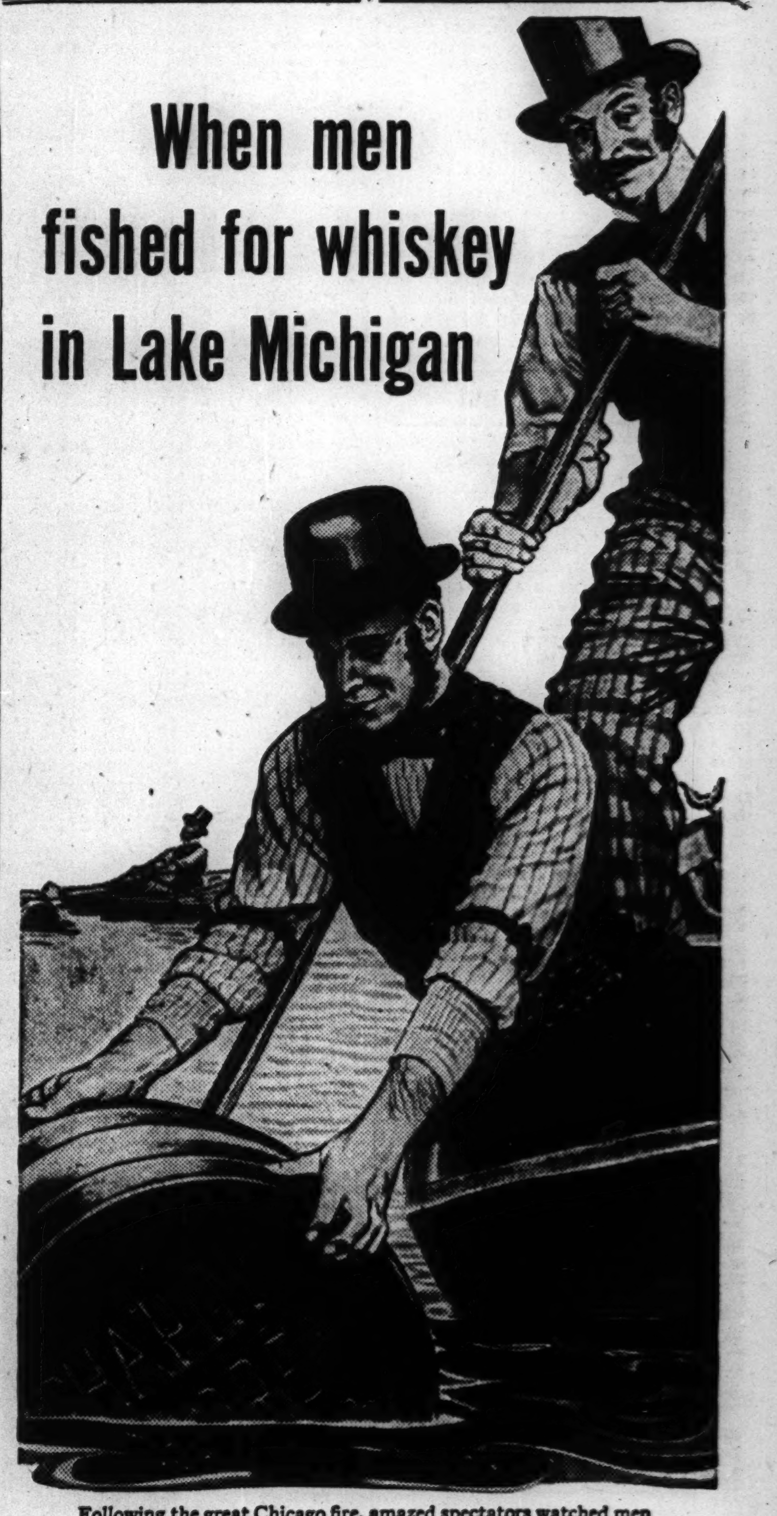
When men fished for whiskey in Lake Michigan



Following the great Chicago fire, amazed spectators watched men "fishing" for whiskey on the lake front. They recovered 80 barrels of rare old bourbon, which the firm of Chapin & Gore had saved by rolling it into the lake.

YEARS before the fire, C & G Bourbon had established a proud reputation with Chicagoans. And its popularity has increased through the years . . . the mellow smoothness and distinctive taste of C & G is a tradition that is world-wide.

Entertain your friends with this finest of bourbons, made by the slow, careful "sour mash" method. Ask for C & G at your favorite tavern, or get a bottle at your package store. You'll appreciate its rare goodness.

LATE RESISTANCE SLOWS ADVANCE IN STOCK MARKET

Favorites Mixed But List on Whole Is Strong.

New York, July 15 (AP).—The stock market encountered a little resistance today after a first hour climb to around the best average levels since early March. Some of the early gains were held and others were washed out as buying interest waned. Of 653 issues traded, 304 closed higher and 170 declined.

Such favorites as United States Steel, Bethlehem, du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, and Standard Oil [New Jersey] finished with moderate losses. American Can, Douglas Aircraft, Dow Chemical, Allied Chemical, and American Telephone closed fractions to a point or more higher.

Average Is Unchanged.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was unchanged at 37.2. Transfers totaled 385,480 shares, compared with 372,650 Tuesday.

The financial sector remained inflation-conscious as brokerage and investment advisory channels put out more comment on the likely influence of changes in the general price structure. In this connection commodity price movements were closely watched.

On the curb better prices were established by Lake Shore Mines, Electric Bond and Share, American Light and Traction, New Jersey Zinc, and Sherwin-Williams.

CHICAGO LIST FIRM.

Advances overshadowed declines in slightly lighter trading yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Volume was 13,000 shares, compared with 14,000 Tuesday. Of the 76 issues involved 39 advanced, 18 declined, and 19 closed unchanged. Commonwealth Edison, the volume leader, closed ⅛ higher. Other active issues were Butler Brothers and Chicago corporation, unchanged; General Motors, up ⅜, and General Electric, up ¼.

GRAINS RECOVER MOST OF DIP ON SUB-PARITY SALE

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

House approval of government sale of 125 million bushels of its wheat at 85 per cent of corn parity—about 83 cents a bushel—caused grain prices to break about a cent yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade but the market bounced right back to close little changed. Prices had bobbed up and down most of the session with the feed grains, corn, and oats, displaying moderate early strength.

Wheat finished ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower with the grain selling for September delivery at $1.25⅜ a bushel. Corn was unchanged to ⅜ cent lower; oats, ⅜ to ¾ cent higher; rye, ½ to ⅝ cent higher, and soy beans, ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher.

Competes with Feed Grains.

Market observers say that the uncertainty over the course of agricultural legislation has been one of the major factors in preventing the rise of any grain to parity levels. Wheat sold for feeding purposes not only is expected to provide competition for corn, oats, barley, and rye, but for the mill feeds, meal and all feed crops.

During the last several weeks weather conditions have been none too favorable for some of these feed grain crops, particularly corn and oats in central and southern Illinois. As a result, grain men have repeatedly asserted that these and other underlying factors have made the position of the market basically strong.

Feed Needs Biggest Ever.

Feeding requirements for grain are the largest on record. The department of agricultural has predicted that consumption of corn this year will exceed production. Industries are using corn at a previously unequaled pace and its products are going into more and more war uses.

Thus, corn dealers explained, the market readily absorbed selling on passage of the new agricultural legislation. Pit brokers said the failure of the wheat market to attract more selling resulted in a covering movement. Speculators who had sold futures in anticipation of a break in the market, started buying as quickly as the price skid stalled. The resulting rally attracted new commission house buying into the market, the brokers said.

Maurice H. Karker.

The price adjustment board renegotiates army war contracts, adjusting them downward to reflect savings effected by mass production methods or improved manufacturing processes.

Karker, a native of Hyndsville, N. Y., enlisted in the navy at 19 and during 17 years in the service rose from the ranks to be a commander in the supply corps. He resigned from the navy in 1923 to become vice president of Jewel Tea company.

JONES FLOUTING SUBSIDIES BAN, SENATORS CLAIM

Aid to Gas Shippers Causes Uproar.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—Announcement that the Reconstruction Finance corporation plans to absorb the increased transportation costs of moving oil and gasoline into the east coast area precipitated an uprising in the senate today over the question of the payment of wartime subsidies out of the federal treasury. It was charged that Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, is attempting to overrule the wishes of congress and evade existing law prohibiting subsidies.

Jones had announced that the Defense Supplies corporation, an RFC subsidiary, would assist in financing the transportation and distribution of petroleum products to facilitate their movement into the eastern states. The action, it was explained, would offset a recent increase of 2½ cents per gallon in the cost of gasoline on the Atlantic seaboard.

Benefit for East's Motorists.

Sinkings of tankers by enemy submarines and the added expense of transporting supplies by railroad tank car were given as the reasons for the increase. Senators charged that the use of federal funds to pay the added carrying charges would, in effect, be a subsidy for the oil industry benefiting only eastern motorists.

"If Jones can use money granted him by congress to pay subsidies contrary to the wishes of congress we might as well quit and go home," said Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.]. "Starting out on a policy of this kind were in God's name will we get off."

Sen. Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] noted that the 1 billion 857 million dollar appropriation bill before the chamber, including funds for the Office of Price Administration, contained a flat ban on payment of subsidies of any kind. "It looks very much as tho the responsible officials are thumbing their noses at congress," he observed.

Relax Henderson Curbs.

Meanwhile, the chamber voted a fund of 125 millions for the OPA and agreed to abandon several of the restrictions on the powers of Leon Henderson, the administration's price fixer, which were originally proposed by the appropriations committee. Altho considerably higher than the amount approved by the house, the senate appropriation for enforcement of the price control law is still 85 millions shy of the amount Henderson demanded.

It has been charged in congress that the corpulent OPA czar would establish an army of 115,000 snoopers to spy on American industry comparable with the prohibition era dry agents. The funds allotted by the senate will allow him only slight increases in his present staff of 34,000 employés, according to Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], chairman of the appropriations committee.

The committee had proposed to give Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard virtual veto power over price ceilings for finished as well as raw farm products. With Sen. Alben Barkley [D., Ky.] leading the fight for the administration against the section it was amended to give the secretary the power only to calculate the ceilings—110 per cent of parity—on raw products.

Promised "No Politics."

Barkley and McKellar described this as a "compromise" version of the committee proviso, saying that it had been decided to limit the authority given Wickard in the bill to that he received in the original price control act.

The chamber by a voice vote also agreed to eliminate a section which would have required Henderson to secure senate approval of all OPA employés drawing $4,500 per year or more. Several members grinned broadly when McKellar announced that he had been assured there would be no "politics" in the OPA appointments.

One Suitcase Limit Urged So Trains Can Seat More

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—The Office of Defense Transportation appealed today to rail travelers to carry only one suitcase whenever possible, because "extra baggage carried into a car may well exclude some soldier from a seat." Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said a number of railroads reported the baggage problem was becoming serious because of crowded conditions.

WARNS AGAINST CREDIT INFLATION

Clifford S. Young.

Clifford S. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, said yesterday that the first essential in mobilizing the "incredibly large" financial resources needed by the United States to fight the war is to borrow as much as possible from current income and a minimum thru the expansion of bank credit. He addressed the Bond Club of Chicago at a luncheon in the Palmer House.

During the fiscal year which began July 1, Young said, the treasury must provide at least 77 billion dollars to meet the financial operations of the government. Only about 24 billion or less may be expected from taxes and the remaining 53 billion must be borrowed, he said.

Method Used Important.

"The methods used to borrow this colossal sum are of the utmost importance because they will affect prices of materials, wages, rents, and the cost of living generally," Young asserted. "Upon the way in which funds are obtained for current requirements may depend the state of morale of the people and so may affect the conduct of the war."

Estimates indicate, he continued, that at the present rate of national income the amount of spendable funds in excess of taxes may total as much as 95 billion dollars, while the volume of goods available for purchase at current prices may be 65 billion or much less. He said the difference of 30 billion represents unused funds that are likely to push prices and costs upward.

Danger in Bank Credit.

"If the treasury borrows all of the needed funds from commercial banks, a very large amount of bank credit will be created," Young declared. "This would add to the already large buying power that is accumulating at a time when the supply of goods for civilian purchase is rapidly declining. This in turn would further increase the upward pressure on prices and costs, and would in the end result in economic difficulties of devastating proportions. The resort to bank credit for war financing, therefore, should be the last unavoidable step."

Young asserted that raising money for the war "wisely" presents difficult and serious problems. Inflation and uncontroled rising prices, he said, would raise the public debt, result in disastrous deflation after the war and would "constitute the most arbitrary, unfair, and inequitable method of paying for the war."

Kansas City Embargoes Grain; Farmer Puts Wheat in Parlor

Restrict All Wheat

Kansas City, Mo., July 15 (AP).—The Kansas City Board of Trade placed a modified embargo today on shipment of free wheat to its market because storage space was exhausted.

Effective at midnight, every car of wheat shipped here must first be granted a permit by the board to prevent congestion. The market has been operating under a permit system on grain for storage since June 5.

This is the first modified embargo ever applied to all wheat shipments to Kansas City. Last July restrictions were placed on storage shipments but not on free wheat sold on the open market.

Supply Exceeds Space.

Grain yet to be unloaded today totaled nearly 3,500,000 bushels and total storage space in public elevators was estimated at 1,500,000 bushels.

"We hope to remove free restrictions as soon as possible," said Gunnerd A. Johnson, president of the Board of Trade. "To maintain a completely free market has been our endeavor all along and this comes only after every effort has been made to prevent it."

[A member of the Chicago grain storage committee said last night the Kansas City action would not affect the Chicago area. Shipments of wheat for storage here are under a permit system, but there is no restriction on free wheat.]

Best Crop in Years

Kansas City, Mo., July 15 (AP).—A western Kansas farmer looked unhappily at the biggest and best wheat crop in years—then, in desperation, moved family belongings from his living room and filled it with the ripe grain.

Down in Vega, Tex., they're using a hotel for a wheat storage elevator. In Hemphill county, Tex., they've boarded up a school house to make more storage space.

And so it goes thruout the grain belt.

Much Piled on Ground.

Other farmers are using garages, steel tanks, vacant store buildings or just letting the grain pile up on the ground.

All of the public elevators in terminal cities are full, with last year's huge carryover creating the worst wheat storage situation this country has even seen, Erland Carlsson, chief Kansas grain inspector, said as harvest of the near-record 1942 crop reached its peak.

Pay Rule Next, Congress Told by Henderson

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson told a congressional committee today the price control program was in danger of breaking down and warned that wage control is "the next thing over the horizon."

Testifying before the house small business committee, he outlined a dismal future for some 24,000 small industrial enterprises and added:

Asked by Rep. Alfred L. Bulwinkle [D., N. C.] if the price control structure was in danger of cracking, Henderson replied:

"Yes."

He gave no specific reason, but intimated lack of finances to enforce the price control law as he deems necessary and inability to pay subsidies to business to help keep living costs stable were among the causes for his fears.

Congress has shown an inclination to cut the pending appropriation for the Office of Price Administration sharply and to refuse to approve subsidy payments to offset increased costs of items required for civilian use.

Henderson said he favored controling wages, but not freezing them, in order to keep the price structure from getting out of hand and to stabilize living costs.

He agreed, he said, with testimony given the committee last week by Philip Reed of the War Production board that, unless the government came to the rescue soon, many of the small industries not in the war program would be forced out of business.

CITY EXPECTS 15,000 BUYERS TO ATTEND MERCHANTS' COUNCIL

The Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday that despite tire rationing and travel restrictions it expects 15,000 retail merchants and department store buyers to come here Aug. 3 to 15 for the meeting of the Interstate Merchants' council and its attendant merchandise expositions. Last year 20,000 placed 30 million dollars in orders with Chicago wholesalers and manufacturers.

A special feature of the fall markets will be a fashion preview to be presented by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in the W-G-N studio on Aug. 7. Prize winning designs from THE TRIBUNE's annual American fashions contest will be on display.

With subscriptions amounting to 12.6 per cent of the monthly pay roll, 475 employés of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in the northwestern district, comprising eight states with headquarters in Chicago, filled their quota 100 per cent in a one week war bond drive, Fred T. Whiting, northwestern district manager, announced yesterday.

U. S. BUSINESS PLEDGES TO AID EUROPE REBUILD

Eric A. Johnston.

American industry will assist nations now dominated by the axis in the huge job of rebuilding after the war, Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, pledged last night. His address over station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system was directed to business men of axis-conquered countries and relayed to Europe thru powerful shortwave facilities.

"I cannot speak for our government, of course, or discuss its plans for peace," the Spokane, Wash., business executive said. "However, I can speak for American business men. When the war is won, our technicians will be in Europe to assist you in replanning your factories, in rebuilding your homes and cities.

Pledges Jobs to Americans.

"We know that in America continuation of the American economic system after the war depends upon private business and industry. We men of business must supply jobs for the majority of the people. Otherwise, the people will turn to government, even as the people of Germany and Italy turned to government. By the same token, if you would avoid a regrowth of the dictatorship system in Europe, you business men abroad will provide jobs—the means of security and opportunity for the people."

German propaganda reports that the American people are apathetic about the war are untrue, Johnston declared.

"Never in recent history of the United States have employer-employé relations been more congenial," he said. "Except for sporadic and relatively minor work stoppages, American labor is wholeheartedly making good its pledge not to strike for the duration. In Washington I have talked with national labor leaders and leaders in government. Upon all the great vital issues we are in perfect accord."

Exceed Axis Production.

Johnston assured European listeners that reports of phenomenal American war production "are even more true than you've permitted yourself to dream." He said American industry is outproducing the axis, altho "we have actually just completed the stage of tooling up."

Johnston, president of Brown-Johnston company, electrical supply manufacturer, was in Chicago for a meeting of the chamber's reorganization committee.

Pork Plant Closed by Ceiling; Hogs Up as Packers Ask Peg

Hoosier Firm Quits

Indianapolis, Ind., July 15 [Special].—Wartime economy claimed its first major business victim in Indianapolis today with announcement that F. Hilgemeier & Brother, Inc., is discontinuing for an indefinite period its pork packing business that is more than fifty years old.

Facilities of the sizable plant are being converted into a cold storage plant for preservation of lend-lease foodstuffs and privately owned stocks.

He said the necessity to discontinue the packing business became apparent when the Office of Price Administration fixed a ceiling on wholesale pork sales based on a hog market of about $13 per 100 pounds. No ceiling was placed on the live hog market which since has reached $15.

Premium Aids Others.

Other larger packing houses are able to operate, Hilgemeier said, because of a $1.50 a 100 pound premium paid on lend-lease purchases, which are restricted to plants operating under federal inspection.

The Hilgemeier concern has killed from 50,000 to 60,000 hogs a year, exceeded in Indianapolis only by Kingan & Co. and Armour & Co.

"We discovered, soon after the ceiling was put on our prices, that we could not get as much money from a dressed hog as it cost us on foot, even before we charged against it the necessary overhead, such as taxes and salaries of approximately 145 employés. Under such circumstances, of course, we could not continue to operate."

Near 22 Year Peak

Top grades of hogs rose 10 cents in Chicago yesterday to $14.90 a hundred pounds, only 10 cents under the highest sale in 22 years, as representatives of 400 independent packing companies met in Cincinnati, O., to plan action as an organized group to obtain some adjustment of meat price ceilings which, they say, will put them out of business if continued in their present form.

One of the most insistent demands of the group of packers is that the government place a ceiling over the live cost of animals in line with ceilings on meat.

Live costs of hogs in the open public markets, they complain, have repeatedly soared far over the level warranted by the price limits packers are permitted to charge for pork. George A. Casey, president of John J. Felin company of Philadelphia, is chairman of the group.

Farmers Cut Shipments.

Opposition to higher hog prices which caused a sharp break in the market Monday has since resulted in curtailed farm selling thruout the country and a general recovery of the market. Farmers held hogs back again yesterday, sending the majority of prices up 10 to 15 cents, the average showing a 10 cent gain at $14.35.

The 12 principal markets during the first three days of this week received 52,000 fewer hogs than during the first half of last week, a reduction of 20 per cent.

Stronger prices prevailed for most sheep and lambs with top loads up 10 cents at $14.50. Steers and yearlings sold strong to 25 cents higher. Heifers were strong, but most beef cows, canners, cutters and bulls were weak.

WPB PUTS ALL STEEL OUTPUT UNDER QUOTAS FOR ESSENTIAL ITEMS

Washington, D. C., July 15 [Special].—In what it described as a far-reaching move to end the overemphasis on steel plate production and balance all steel output properly among the various war products, the War Production board today set up a quota system applying to all steel items and producers.

The WPB's iron and steel branch explained the new quota system does "not necessarily" mean reduced steel plate output. However, it does mean that plates will not be allowed to supplant production of other necessary items.

The quota system, WPB said, aims at establishing for each steel mill and for each product required the maximum necessary output.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 15 (AP).—President Vargas today authorized the government owned Central do Brazil railway to spend up to $4,300,000 to buy 49 steel passenger coaches from the Pullman Standard Car Export company and the American Car & Foundry company.

LANE BRYANT'S EMPLOYES GET 10 PCT. OF PROFITS

R. B. Malsin, president of Lane Bryant, Inc., announced yesterday that directors had voted a profit sharing dividend of $100,000 to the company's 1,400 employés, including those in Chicago. The full amount will be invested in war bonds. He said Lane Bryant will disburse 10 per cent of its profits every six months to every one in the firm's employ for one year or longer.

Malsin said half the amount will be paid into a pension fund which will inaugurate a new retirement plan for the company. The remainder will be distributed among the employés, payments being based solely on length of service.

Unusual feature of the retirement plan, Malsin said, is that it begins where the government social security program leaves off. It is the intention of the company to pay the employé 25 per cent of his average salary from $601 to $12,000 as long as he lives.

Gasoline Stocks Continue Decline; Fuel Oils Gain

New York, July 15 (AP).—Stores of gasoline in the United States continued to decline for the week ended July 11, the American Petroleum institute reported today. Fuel oil supplies, however, rose slightly.

NORMAL PROFITS HIKE IN NEW TAX BILL CONDEMNED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 15.—The 1942 revenue bill reported to the house today by the ways and means committee provides a sharp boost in corporation taxes, the extent of this increase creating some of the most controversial points in the whole complicated measure.

The main point of objection hinges on the increase in the tax on normal profits of corporations from 31 to 45 per cent. The committee originally had voted to raise the normal and surtax rates on normal profits to 40 per cent, but a last minute New Deal push put over the higher rate.

Hikes Burden to 10 Billions.

As the bill stands now it would exact 2 billion, 479 million dollars more in taxes from corporations during a full year of operation. Under existing law corporation taxes yield 7 billion, 647 million dollars annually. Thus the burden on corporations in federal taxes alone would be raised to 10 billion, 126 million dollars annually.

The present surtax on corporations is 6 per cent upon the first $25,000 of surtax net income and 7 per cent above $25,000. Under the new bill the rate is 10 per cent below $25,000 and 21 per cent above $50,000, with graduated rates between $25,000 and $50,000, but the rates apply to totality rather than by brackets as at present.

Flat Rate on Excess Profits.

The new bill also provides for drastic changes in excess profits rates, substituting a new flat rate of 87½ per cent on what are considered "excess profits." Under current law the rates range from 35 per cent on excess profits net income up to $20,000 to 60 per cent on excess profits over $500,000. The new bill provides one slight relief for small corporations in excess profits by raising the specific exemption from $5,000 to $10,000 before the tax rates apply.

The bill also changes the base for computing corporation taxes. Under the present law, the excess profits tax is computed before the normal and surtax, being allowed as a deduction in determining the bases to which those taxes apply. Thus, the portion of the adjusted excess profits net income not taken by the excess profits tax is subjected to the normal tax and surtax.

Explain New Computation.

The bill changes this method by dividing net income into two portions, one of which is subject to excess profits rates alone, and the other only to the normal tax and surtax. Instead of deducting the excess profits tax itself in determining the normal and surtax bases, the bill deducts, thru the form of a

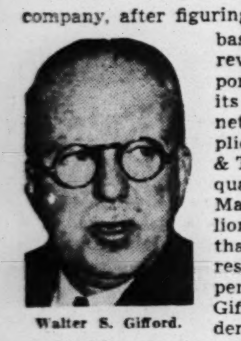
A. T. & T. PROFITS UP, BUT SUBJECT TO TAX INCREASE

Gifford Warns New Rates Will Slash Gains.

American Telephone and Telegraph company, after figuring taxes on the basis of the 1941 revenue act, reported yesterday its consolidated net income applicable to A. T. & T. stock for the quarter ended May 31 was a million dollars larger than in the corresponding 1941 period. Walter S. Gifford, president, cautioned stockholders, however, to expect these earnings to be reduced by retroactive tax legislation.



Walter S. Gifford.

Profits for the quarter on this basis for the company and its principal telephone subsidiaries, which constitute the Bell system, were $50,632,432, equal to $2.71 a share, compared with $49,636,092, or $2.66 a share, in the corresponding period a year before.

12 Months' Net Lower.

The Bell system's net earnings for the 12 months ended May 31 were $194,527,627, equal to $10.41 a share, compared with $209,048,734, or $11.19 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

The profit of the parent company only, exclusive of its proportionate interest in the undivided profit or deficits of subsidiaries, was $44,352,158, equal to $2.37 a share, in the quarter ended June 30. In the corresponding period of the preceding year the profit was $48,846,954, equal to $2.61 a share.

Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts, Ltd., reporting in Canadian currency, announced a net profit of $1,798,005, equal to $2.29 a share, in the quarter ended May 31, compared with $1,711,745, or $2.17 a share, in the corresponding 1941 period.

SHIP TONNAGE OF 25 MILLION POSSIBLE IN 1943, SAYS VICKERY

Washington, D. C., July 15 (AP).—A prediction that the nation's shipyards will be able to produce at least 25 million deadweight tons of merchant ships in 1943—"even more if necessary" if they get the steel—was made today by Rear Admiral Howard L. Vickery, supervisor of the maritime commission's construction program.

"The ceiling on potential construction will be established by availability of materials—particularly steel—rather than by shipyard capacity," Vickery said in a statement.

"We will build all the ships for which we can get material. In fact I have no assurance we can get enough steel next year to keep all the yards operating at peak production levels."

People and Events

Three new executive appointments were announced yesterday by the Rock Island lines. J. D. Farrington, who assumed complete charge of the railroad as chief executive officer, announced the appointment of W. H. Hillis to his former position as operating officer. Hillis was assistant chief operating officer. G. W. Raney, former general superintendent of the road, was appointed general manager and Frank W. Thompson, former engineer officer, was named chief engineer. Headquarters of both are in Chicago.

W. H. Hillis.

The name of Traction Securities, Inc., has been changed to A. A. Bennett & Co.

Robert C. Bannister, attorney in the Chicago offices of the Chicago and North Western Railway company, will serve in the navy as a lieutenant, junior grade. Bannister, who has been with the railroad since 1932, has been granted a leave of absence.

George Lowe, at one time executive vice president of the Albany Park National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, has been appointed supervisor of new business research for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

John D. Ames, president of the Industrial National bank, announced the election of Edmund Z. Richards and Fred O. Sack as assistant cashiers, and Frank J. Houska as assistant auditor.

A. A. Wilson has been appointed assistant general freight agent of the Milwaukee railroad with offices in Chicago.

PLANT ACCIDENT TERMED 'WORST WAR SABOTEUR'

The most destructive attacks on the United States last year were not made by enemy saboteurs, but by industrial accidents which waste manpower and materials needed to win the war, Capt. Lawrence B. Tipton, war training safety supervisor for the department of labor, asserted yesterday at a conference of 60 safety engineers in the Palmer House. He said that in 1941, accidents resulted in 101,500 dead, 350,000 permanently injured, and 9 million lesser casualties.

The safety engineers are assisting the federal manpower conservation effort in Illinois on a $1 a year basis. The meeting was called by Theodore O. Meisner, Illinois chairman of the national committee for the conservation of manpower in war industries.

Cost Measured in Ships.

Capt. Tipton told the engineers that industrial accidents constituted a "deadly saboteur" that cost as many production man-days as would be required to build 66 battleships. To combat these accidents, he said, the conservation committee has worked out a nationwide accident prevention training program.

The federally financed safety training courses will begin in September with an expected enrollment of 4,000 and will continue for 16 weeks. Each war industry plant will be asked to recommend an employé to receive the training so that he can assist his company in accident prevention.

Tells Truckers' Problems.

New problems facing the trucking industry were discussed yesterday by Rufus Jasper, fleet safety engineer of the National Safety council, at a meeting of the fleet superintendent's division of the council in the Hotel Sherman.

He especially stressed the tire situation and the personnel turnover, with the attendant problem of replacement. He said that about 30 per cent of the driver personnel had gone into the armed services or into war work. Truckers' tires are wearing out at the rate of 3 to 5 per cent each month, he said.

DETROIT BOND OFFERING 70 PCT. SOLD IN 2 DAYS

The $17,143,000 reoffering of city of Detroit, Mich., refunding bonds was about 70 per cent sold at the end of the second day, Halsey Stuart & Co., Chicago, head of the bond offering syndicate, reported yesterday. The sale was termed a "marked success."

A secondary offering of a block of 42,900 shares of Johns-Manville corporation common stock after the close of trading today on the New York Stock exchange is planned by Hornblower and Weeks, it was announced. It is expected the offer will be made at the stocks' closing price, Sterling Grace & Co. are joint managers in the contemplated offering.

Shields & Co. and Bear Stearns & Co. are reoffering $2,500,000 of Northern Pacific railroad 2 per cent equipment trust certificates maturing from 1 to 10 years at prices to yield from .85 per cent to 2.50 per cent. The syndicate was high bidder with 99.1399 for the 2 per cent obligations. The interest cost basis on this bid is 2.12 per cent.

Cost of Fresh Vegetables Up from Year Ago

Supplying the Chicago dinner table with fresh fruits and vegetables takes substantially more money now than it did a year ago, a survey of the wholesale markets disclosed yesterday.

Market men report the major factors in the higher prices are the shortage of labor, higher freight rates, production costs and taxes, and larger consumer demand.

Wholesale dealers report the cost of getting such items as oranges, lemons, cantaloupes, lettuce, grapes, pears, etc., to Chicago from California and other western producing sections is sharply higher. Freight rates are up 10 per cent and packaging costs have risen materially.

Smaller Areas Planted.

Because the western growers knew that their labor supply likely would be short this year, they planted smaller acreages. In some instances weather conditions have been unfavorable for crop production. But the American consumer is buying more than ever before, according to the produce men.

Wholesale prices quoted yesterday on major items on the market now, as reported by the Agricultural Marketing administration follow:

Cabbage Is Plentiful.

The produce dealers say the marketable supplies of cantaloupes and head lettuce are below normal. Peaches are scarce now but the wholesalers expect to have more plentiful supplies shortly as the fruit ripens in additional producing areas.

They report cabbage is plentiful on the market and the quality is the best in years. Onions, too, are in good condition with both Illinois and Iowa farmers marketing large crops. Potatoes are comparatively hard to get, the shortage of supplies holding prices at the highest midsummer levels since 1936.

January Butter Future Sets New 12 Year Peak

Butter futures advanced yesterday into the highest levels for the last eight weeks on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, the January delivery establishing a new 12 year peak. Trading was at a faster pace as prices rose .15 cent a pound, the November delivery, finishing at 38.35 cents. Broader speculative buying was reported. Egg futures closed .15 cent a dozen lower in a draggy trade.

House Gets Measure for 45 Per Cent Rate.

The committee's report provided an example of how the new tax changes would work, in the case of a corporation having net earnings of $3,000,000, of which $100,000 is interest on partially tax exempt bonds, and an excess profits credit of $2,000,000.

Here's How It Works.

Excess profits tax under:	Present law.	New bill.
Normal tax net income [before deduction of excess profits tax or credit of adjusted excess profits net income]	$3,000,000	$3,000,000
Div. rec. [deduct]	15,000	15,000
Excess profits net income	2,985,000	2,985,000
Excess profits credit [deduct]	2,000,000	2,000,000
	985,000	985,000
Specific exemption [deduct]	5,000	10,000
Adjusted excess profits net inc.	980,000	975,000
Excess profits tax	542,000	853,125
Normal tax:
Income [as above]	3,000,000	3,000,000
Excess profit tax	542,000
Adjusted excess profit net inc.		975,000
Normal tax base	2,458,000	2,025,000
Normal tax	589,920	486,000
Surtax:
Normal tax base	2,458,000	2,025,000
Surtax base	2,558,000	2,125,000
Surtax	178,810	446,250
Total excess profits tax, normal tax and surtax	1,310,730	1,785,375

The bill also reduces the invested capital credit allowed under present law in determining excess profits under the invested capital basis, as opposed to the average earnings system of computation. The invested capital credit allowed at present is 8 per cent on the first $5,000,000, and 7 per cent in excess of that amount.

Call Credit "Too Liberal."

"This allowance is deemed too liberal in the case of many heavily capitalized companies whose earnings over long periods of normal operations have not equaled this allowance," said the committee report. Consequently, the bill sets up a new schedule of credits. On the first $5,000,000 of invested capital the credit is 8 per cent, from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 it is 7 per cent, from $10,000,000 to $200,000,000 it is 6 per cent, and above $200,000,000 it drops to 5 per cent. The bill also broadens provisions for relief from excess profits taxes in unusual cases.

The new bill increases the tax on foreign corporations from 27½ to 37 per cent. New taxes also are imposed on insurance companies. Under present law life insurance companies are taxed on the basis of their investment income only. The bill retains investment income as the tax base, but substitutes for the existing reserve and other policy liability deductions a flat percentage of investment income. This percentage represents the average of the aggregate deductions of all companies for the preceding year, computed under a formula which has the effect of reducing the reserve earning deduction and eliminating the double deduction of tax exempt interest. Taxing provisions on other types of insurance companies are also changed.

Capital Stock Changes Made.

The bill changes the capital stock tax provisions insofar as the period for declaration of stock value is concerned. Under present law the declared stock value excess profits tax is based upon the taxpayer's own declaration at three year intervals during which the declared value must remain unchanged. Because of uncertainty in business conditions caused by the war, priorities, etc., the committee provided for an annual declaration of stock value for purposes of the capital stock tax and the declared value excess profits tax.

The committee also voted changes in the treatment of capital gains and losses, to provide for only two classes of capital gains and losses: 1. Short term gains or losses on the sale or exchange of assets not held over 15 months; 2. Long term gains or losses on the sale or exchange of assets held more than 15 months. Instead of a double bracket schedule for long term losses on assets held more than 18 months but not over 24 months and on assets held over 24 months, there is substituted a single category which takes into account only 50 per cent of the long term gains and losses.

Hike Capital Gain Maximum.

The maximum rate on net long term capital gains is increased from 15 to 25 per cent in the case of assets held over two years and from 20 to 25 per cent in the case of assets held over 18 months and not over 24 months. The bill also limits the extent to which capital losses in excess of capital gains may be applied against ordinary income to $1,000, or the net income of the taxpayer, whichever is smaller. The capital loss will be allowed as an offset against capital gains whether long or short term. Net capital losses will be permitted to be carried forward for five years against future capital gains and also up to the $1,000 maximum in each year against other income.

Under the bill long term losses of corporations cannot be applied against ordinary income. However, capital losses will be allowed as an offset against capital gains, whether long or short term. Long term gains are to be subject to a maximum rate of 25 per cent for corporations and short term gains to the regular corporate rate of 45 per cent. If the effective rate of normal and surtax is less than 25 per cent the corporation will be subject to the lower rate with respect to such long term capital gains.

POSTPONE TANK TRUCK MILEAGE SLASH ORDERS

The Office of Defense Transportation yesterday extended until July 31 the effective date of its order requiring Chicago area tank truck operators to reduce their mileage by 25 per cent of the total covered a year ago. The ODT order was to have gone into effect yesterday.

Meanwhile steps were being taken by private, common carrier, and contact truck operators to comply with revised orders requiring capacity loads over a substantial portion of round trip routes.

Live stock carriers were among the first to take action in setting up a joint information office. Credentials were forwarded yesterday to the ODT in Washington by the group representing the Irregular Route Common Carrier Truck operators. The office, if approved, will be in the Arsenal building at the Chicago stock yards.

Donald A. Beggs was named director of the office and the board of governors will be composed of R. M. Marshall, Eldon Miller, and Lewis Schnathorst.

The group, Beggs said, represents principally the large group of truckers transporting to the stockyards. He said that from 600 to 1,500 trucks are concentrated at the stockyards daily and are in a position to provide facilities to most points in the midwest on return trips.
